SENATE LABOR BILL VOTE TODAY

U. N. Committee Tentatively Approves Giving Palestine Inquiry Group Clear Field

Independence Ideas Are Rejected, 29-14

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., May 12 (AP)—The United Nations Assembly's Political Committee tentatively approved late today a clear field for the special United Nations inquiry group which will search this summer for a solution of the Palestine issue.

By a vote of 29 to 14, with 10 abstentions and two absences, the committee tossed out six proposals relating specifically to Palestine independence.

The majority thus agreed with the United States and British contention that the special inquiry committee should not be restricted by any specific mandate from the Assembly.

Many delegates felt that independence was one of the issues involved in a study of the subject and that the committee should be ordered only to investigate all questions and issues bearing on the problem of Palestine.

Major Accomplishments

The delegates had wrangled on the points involved since the committee first met last week.

The vote not to include any of them in the orders for the inves'igating froup was generally hai.d as a major accomplishment of the Assembly.

Russia, which has proposed that the special committee come up with a proposal on the question of establishing without delay the independent democratic state of Palestine, voted against a French catch-all proposal to throw out all six ideas. The United States, China, France, and Britain voted for it. The Arab states opposed the French motion.

Russia will have another chance tomorrow (11 a. m. E.D.T.) but the most controversial point of the instructions for the investigating committee was disposed of this afternoon.

Jews And Arabs Clash

The delegates, wearied by days and days of debate and discussion often involving language which some of them acknowledged they could not understand, heard Jew and Arab organizations clash in their final appearances.

The Jewish Agency maintained its plea for substantial immigration to Palestine and for a separate Palestine state; the Arab Higher Committee served notice that the Arabs would resist all Jewish immigration and all attempts to set up a Jewish state.

The Arab countries in the United Nations furthermore told the United Nations that a democratic, independent state is the only solution they will accept for Palestine.

They also implied that they might refuse to co-operate with the proposed United Nations commission of inquiry into the Holy Land question unless that commission was instructed by the General Assembly to include a proposal for independence as one of the solutions.

Two British Constables Are Slain In Jerusalem

JERUSALEM, May 12—(AP)—Two British constables were shot and killed by unidentified assassins today in a blazing fusillade of gunfire in the heart of Jerusalem's shopping district.

One of the officers died almost instantly and the other succumbed a short time later.

The new outbreak of Holy Land violence came shortly before dusk, while the streets were stilled packed with shoppers. Eyewitnesses said several persons fled immediately after the shooting, but it was not known whether they were the assailants or terror-stricken bystanders caught in the cross fire.

Colombia Army Ready

PANAMA, Panama, May 12 (AP)—Army troops were mobilized throughout Colombia tonight to prevent disorders during the nationwide 23-hour general strike scheduled to begin at 1 a. m. tomorrow, radio broadcasts from Columbia said.

Greek Case Is Reopened By Moscow

Acts To Trim Powers Of Sub-Commission

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., May 12 (AP) — Russia reopened the Greek case in the United Nations Security Council tonight with a demand that the powers of a United Nations subcommission investigating Greek border incidents be curtailed sharply.

Soviet Deputy Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, delivering a 35-minute speech, demanded that the council limit the subsidiary group to special cases assigned to it by the parent commission.

He also insisted that the sub-commission headquarters be moved from Salonika, near the frontiers, to Athens, the Greek capital to the south.

The Russian demands came as a House-Senate committee in Washington sought to work out an acceptable version of President Truman's $400,000,000 aid program for Greece and Turkey. Both chambers have passed the measure in slightly different form.

Gromyko also said that the subcommission, assigned to keep a watch on the troubled frontiers pending a report from the 11-nation commission, should cease its activities with liquidation of the parent commission. The latter is now compiling a report in Geneva for submission to the council.

The Security Council, commission and sub-commission all have the same 11 countries as members.

In asking for the group's move from Salonika to Athens, the Soviet delegate said its "presence in Salonika may encourage activities of certain irresponsible and adventurous Greek circles." He said such acts would be "dangerous from the point of view of the maintenance of peace in that part of the world."

The council took no immediate action on the Russian points and the next session was set for Friday.

Three Considered To Administer Aid

WASHINGTON, May 12. (AP)—President Truman was reported at the Capitol today to be considering Donald M. Nelson, Robert M. LaFollette or Mark F. Ethridge, among others, to administer the $400,000,000 aid program for Greece and Turkey.

But some senators of both parties said they already had turned thumbs down on Ethridge and there was some doubt whether he would accept the post even if Mr. Truman formally tendered it.

Nelson was former chairman of the War Production Board and served as the late President Roosevelt's special representative in China.

LaFollette, former Progressive Party senator from Wisconsin who sought the Republican nomination last year, blamed his defeat in the primary in part on the opposition of Communists within labor groups which previously had supported him.

Ethridge, Louisville publisher, was an American representative on the United Nations commission investigating Greek border disturbances. There were indications that State Department officials would like to have Ethridge, who is familiar with the situation in Greece, carry on as overall director of the program.

The Senate sent the Greek-Turkish legislation to a Senate-House conference committee today after declining to accept the House version. The later bill omitted the Senate requirement for confirmation of top administrative officials.

SMILE FOR SHERIFF—Winnie Ruth Judd smiles at Sheriff Cal Boles at Phoenix, Ariz., just after she was recaptured yesterday on her third escape from the state hospital for the insane. The trunk murderess of 16 years ago surrendered quietly to sheriff's deputies 12 hours after her escape.

Royall Says May Had Blamed Him For Senate Probe

Acknowledged Later That He Was Wrong

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP) — Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall testified today that former Rep. Andrew J. May accused him in 1945 of starting a Senate investigation against May and munitions-makers.

Royall told the jury in the May-Garsson far fraud trial that the Congressman, then chairman of the House Military Committee, later conceded he was wrong and asked Royall to "forget it."

The Undersecretary of War testified that May phoned him three times in September, 1945, protesting the War Department's withholding of $800,000 from the Erie Basin Metal Products Company pending renegotiation of the firm's profits.

May Protested Army Action

That firm is one in the $78,000,000 Garsson munitions combine, from which May is accused of accepting more than $55,000 in bribes.

On trial with May are Murray and Henry Garsson, key figures in the arms empire, and Joseph F. Freeman, Washington agent for the Garsson brothers.

Royall said May protested Army action in withholding the $800,000 war contract payments to Erie but that, actually, the delay in making the payments was due to Erie's tardiness in submitting proper financial data.

Royall said that just a few days after he received the three phone calls from May about Erie, May called him into his office at the Capitol.

Conceded Mistake

"He said 'you're having me investigated by the Senate committee and you have made the statement that I was connected with the Erie Basin Metal Products Company,'" Royall recalled.

The Undersecretary, who at that time was a special assistant to Secretary of War Stimson, said he told May he was "mistaken."

"Mr. May said 'well, I just wanted to speak to you about it,'" Royall said.

A couple of days later, Royall said, May acknowledged he had been wrong about blaming Royall for the Senate investigation.

Key Spots In Telephone Talks Remain Snarled

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Additional local strike settlements spelled a partial return to peace in the telephone industry tonight but in several key spots the 36-day-old dispute found negotiations still snarled.

The Western Electric Employes Association appealed to the government to step into its deadlock with the Western Electric Company. Henry Mayer, union attorney, said that "the workers want to get back on the job."

Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson conferred all afternoon with Western Electric representatives after the company rejected a union proposal to arbitrate all issues.

"Apparently Gibson got nowhere," Mayer told newsmen, "because at 4:15 p. m. the company repeated its refusal of arbitration.

De Gasperi May Resign

ROME, May 12 (AP)—Premier Alcide De Gasperi was reliably reported tonight to be ready to resign as head of the three-party coalition cabinet, and attempt to create a new "national unity" government to meet Italy's increasingly perilous economic plight.

Russian Reporters Sit In On "Secret" Allied Conference

VIENNA, May 12. (AP)—An Associated Press reporter on an official mission entered the supposedly secret session of the Allied Commission on Austrian peace treaty today and discovered two reporters for Tass, the official Soviet news agency, sitting in a corner taking notes.

The American reporter, who entered the conference room to deliver a note to Joseph Dodge, the American delegate, protested to Dodge and other American officials the presence of the Russians where other foreign correspondents were barred.

The American then was required to leave the chamber.

South Wins Cut In Freight Rates

WASHINGTON, May 12. (AP)—The South won a fight for lower rail freight rates today in the Supreme Court.

A 7-2 decision upheld an Interstate Commerce Commission order for a 10 per cent increase in certain rates in the Northeast—roughly including the area north of the Potomac and Ohio Rivers and east of the Mississippi plus most of Virginia—and a 10 per cent decrease in the South and in western areas between the Mississippi and the Rocky Mountains.

Southern industrialists and political leaders, notably former Gov. Ellis Arnall, of Georgia, had led the battle for the lower rates to aid southern industry, contending their section and the West were discriminated against.

Officials of northeastern states and 33 railroads had attacked the proposed rate change as arbitrary, unsupported by facts and a reversal of long-standing practice.

The opponents of the rate change now have 25 days to seek a rehearing from the court. If it is denied, the ICC can order the new rates into effect. It made its findings in May, 1945.

They involve only the so-called "class rates," applying to the various classes of manufactured products such as clothing. These constitute about four per cent of all rail traffic and yield about six per cent of the railroads' freight revenue. The order does not apply to "commodity rates" covering raw materials such as coal, or to "exception rates" covering certain other items.

Italy Still Rocking

ROME, May 12 (AP) — The earth still shook beneath Calabria at the extremity of the Italian boot, dispatches from Cantanzaro said today, and the tol of two days of intermittesnt tremors stood at four dead.

Trunk Murderess Seized 12 Hours After Her Escape

Winnie Ruth Judd Flees From Hospital

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 12 (AP) — Winnie Ruth Judd, the trunk murderess of 16 years ago, escaped from the state hospital for the insane last night and was recaptured today 12 hours later in an orange grove.

It was the third time the red-haired "Tiger Woman" had escaped.

She surrendered quietly to sheriff's deputies who tracked her through the grove, but at the sheriff's office tearfully berated the hospital superintendent for having her transferred from the infirmary to a cell-like room.

Mrs. Judd said she fled the hospital because the superintendent wouldn't let her see her mother on Mother's Day.

Mother Is Patient At Hospital

"Yesterday was Mother's Day," she said. "I asked to see her but he told me I could see her only for five minutes and then under three guards.

"I didn't see her all day, and it was Mother's Day."

Her 80-year-old mother, Mrs. Carrie B. McKinnell, is a patient at the hospital.

On October 16, 1931, Mrs. Judd shot and killed two women friends, Agnes Anne LeRoi and Hedvig Samuelson, and shipped their dismembered bodies in two trunks and a suitcase to Los Angeles.

She was convicted and sentenced to be hanged, but was adjudged insane at a hearing 72 hours before her scheduled execution.

Mrs. Judd escaped twice in the fall of 1939, remaining at liberty six days the first time and 12 days the second.

Opened Defective Lock

After an investigation, Dr. John A. Larson, hospital superintendent, said he believed Mrs. Judd escaped about 9:30 p. m. last night by opening a defective lock, probably with a nail file. Then, he said, she slipped down a stairway to a courtyard and climbed a high wire fence. She was discovered to be missing about 12:30 a. m. when an attendant found her bed empty.

A tip that a woman was sleeping on the ground sent sheriff's deputies to an orange grove a few miles north of the hospital at mid-morning.

They trailed her for a mile and a half. When they came upon her she was carrying a flour sack stuffed with clothing.

"He took my mother away," Mrs. Judd said as she got out of sheriff Cal Boles' car at the courthouse. She was referring to Dr. Larson's order removing her from the asylum infirmary, where she and her mother have been together.

Henry Wallace Urges National Coal Authority

Says "Inconveniences" Can't Be Tolerated

MINNEAPOLIS, May 12 (AP) — Henry A. Wallace said tonight that "the time has come to nationalize the coal industry under some type of coal authority."

The former vice president said that "the world needs for coal are so great that neither the obduracy of the operators nor the stubborn will of John L. Lewis should be allowed to cause the infinitude of suffering and paralysis which would result from a coal strike."

In a speech prepared for delivery at a meeting sponsored by the Democratic-Farmer Labor Party of Minnesota and The New Republic, of which he is editor, Wallace said that in the 20's he told farmers they were "entitled to moral, legal and economic equivalent of what the corporate form of organization gives to industry."

Hits Possible Labor Curbs

"Labor," Wallace added, "is entitled to that equivalent. Labor has the right to bargain on an industry-wide basis if business has the right to organize on such a basis. When I say this I certainly do not defend a coal strike next July."

Wallace said "we cannot solve our domestic economic problems by punishing our free labor movement," and posed the question, "Should (Senator) Joe Ball (R-Minn) be able to use the stubbornness of the coal operators and John L. Lewis as an excuse to cripple the bargaining power of all labor?"

"These people," he said, "have been nuisances long enough to our national economy. xxx Coal means so much to the life blood of the world that neither labor nor agriculture can tolerate the inconveniences which come so frequently in this key industry."

Wallace criticized President Truman's proposed $400,000,000 loan to Greece and Turkey and predicted that if "the Truman policy is applied in France and England, as well as in every country bordering on Russia that the result will be depression, universal chaos and finally revolution and war."

Calls For Loan To Russia

Wallace said that under his program the "funds of the international bank should be trebled," and that "a large loan should be made available to Russia to prevent her from making a cancerous plague spot out of Germany."

"A plan for developing the Near East should be drawn up that will advance the living standards of the people there through irrigation and power projects," he said.

Modernization of the Near East, Wallace said, "can be made a blessing to Russia, Britain, the United States and the whole world. The only solution which will benefit all three is the solution which best helps the Arabian people themselves x x x. The imperialistic approach will not benefit any of the three."

Nine Lynch Trial Jurors Accepted

GREENVILLE, S. C., May 12—(AP)—Nine jurors, each of whom swore he had no objection to capital punishment, were seated today as the State of South Caroline put 31 Greenville men on trial for the lynch slaying of Willie Earle, 24-year-old negro, near here February 17.

With the acceptance of the ninth juror, the regular panel was exhausted and a special venire of 36 was drawn. Presiding Judge J. Robert Martin, Jr., ordered them to be in court tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. (EST).

Seating of three additional jurors will pave the way for the state to begin presentation of the evidence upon which it will try to prove that the defendants, 28 Greenville taxi drivers and three businessmen, were members of the mob which forcibly removed Earle from the nearby Pickens County Jail a few hours before his battered and shot body was found beside a Greenville country road.

All of the defendants pleaded innocent at the formal arraignment this morning.

Seven of the jurors accepted are textile workers, another is a shipping clerk in a textile mill, and the ninth is a farmer. All are white men. Although negroes are eligible for jury duty in this state if they are registered electors, no negroes were included in the regular panel.

Marshall Sends Third Note On Korea To Russia

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP) — Secretary Marshall warily asked Foreign Minister Molotov today for a further advance agreement on terms before resuming Soviet-American efforts to set up a joint provisional government for Korea.

His third note on the issue was speeded to the Moscow Embassy for immediate delivery to the Kremlin, because of the short time remaining before the scheduled start of negotiations May 20 at Seoul.

The text was not made public immediately, pending its delivery to the Kremlin.

ROBERT A. LOVETT . . . Appointed to succeed Dean Acheson as Undersecretary of State.

Acheson Resigns; Lovett Is Named Undersecretary

Other Top Diplomatic Changes Speculated

WASHINGTON, May 12 — (AP) — President Truman appointed Robert A. Lovett Undersecretary of State today to succeed the veteran Dean Acheson amid indications that other changes among top diplomatic officials are in the making.

Lovett, wealthy New York banker who served in wartime as Assistant Secretary of War for Air, will take over the No. 2 State Department post on July 1 if the Senate confirms his nomination as expected.

The resignation of Acheson, after six years' service as Undersecretary and Assistant Secretary, was announced today. He has long been anxious to give up his $12,000 a year government post and return to private law practice for personal financial reasons.

Other Changes In Prospect

The White House, in announcing the change, made public a letter in which Mr. Truman wrote Acheson of his "great regret" and "I cannot ask you again to put away your desire to return to private life."

Other changes in prospect, which will confront Secretary Marshall with the problem of altering the lineup of his principle aides, include the transfer to foreign posts of H. Freeman Matthews, director of European affairs, and John Carter Vincent, of the Far Eastern Affairs Office.

Both are career officers whose consecutive service in the State Department is limited by law to a maximum of four years. Their current tour of duty is scheduled to end in August.

Braden Figures In Speculation

Assistant Secretary Spruille Braden, who heads up all American Republic affairs, has figured also in speculation in diplomatic changes. He declined comment today on published reports that he plans to resign soon.

Diplomatic authorities expressed the view that Braden will not quit his post without the departure also of George S. Messersmith, ambassador to Argentina with whom he has had differences over U. S. policy toward the Peron regime. Otherwise they said Braden's resignation would be interpreted as a policy decision.

Assistant Secretary William Benton indicated to reporters that he will resign if Congress follows recommendations of the House Appriations Committee and denies funds for the department's international cultural and information activities which he directs. These include the "Voice of America" overseas broadcasts.

Murder Trial Defense Witness Admits Killing

LEEDS, Eng., May 12. (AP)—A defense witness in a murder trial testified today that he himself was the killer.

Defense Attorney H. B. H. Hylton Foster startled the court with the announcement "I propose to call before the jury the man who killed Gertrude Briggs."

An army private, Dennis Wood, 19, was sworn in for Eric Briggs, 40, charged with stabbing to death his wife, Gertrude, in a Leeds street.

The youth said he did not actually remember stabbing the woman, but knew it was he who killed her.

Hatch Believes President Will Veto Measure

Wagner Assails Bill As "Trouble-Making"

WASHINGTON, May 12. (AP)—Sen. Hatch (D-NM) expressed belief today that President Truman would veto the pending labor disputes bill, as the Republican leadership won agreement for a final Senate vote tomorrow.

Hatch, a close friend of the President's, told the Senate, however, that he will vote for the measure in the hope that provisions acceptable to Mr. Truman can be worked out in conference with the House.

He declared that "neither party would gain" politically by a veto and expressed hope that nobody is "trying to put the President of the United States on the spot."

As the long debate neared its close, Sen. Wagner (D-NY), recovering from an illness, delivered his first speech on the floor this session to assail the bill as "untimely, trouble-making, reactionary, unfair and unduly political."

It would make far-reaching changes in the Labor Relations Act of 1935 which bears Wagner's name.

"It is too much to hope that a majority of the present Congress will bury this bill, but I earnestly hope the President vetoes it," Wagner said.

"Narrow Political Considerations"

"Narrow political considerations have played an excessive part in its formulation.

"I do not mean to say that everyone who votes for or against this bill is guided by narrow political considerations. But I do say that political jockeying for position has had so much to do with the formulation of this bill at every stage as to discredit it on its face."

Wagner called it a "trouble-making" bill on the ground that it would "provoke and instigate unnecessary conflicts, both in the courts and in the collective bargaining process." He said it would "foment and augment industrial strife."

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) filed notice as the Senate quit for the day that he will attempt to delete an amendment which would deny bargaining rights to a union if any of its officers could be "reasonably" regarded as Communists or Communist sympathizers.

It was sponsored by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) and adopted last Friday by voice vote. The House bill has a similar provision.

Aiken To Vote For Bill

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), Labor Committee member who has split with Taft on a number of amendments, announced he will vote for the bill as it now stands, although he said it "was at its best" before toughening amendments were adopted.

He criticized the Committee for Constitutional Government, Inc., for its views on labor legislation and declared "it is time for the Attorney General to look into" it.

Aiken reported the committee has distributed 250,000 copies of a booklet entitled "Labor Monopolies or Freedom?" From it he read statements that all laws on collective bargaining and hours and wages should be repealed, quoting it as saying the principal abuse "is collective bargaining itself."

"This is the stuff—the alien doctrine—that is being distributed unhampered by an organization supposedly financed by respectable publishers and businessmen," he declared.

Substitute's Defeat Conceded

He said the committee showed contempt of Congress by refusing to disclose information about its finances to the House Unamerican Activities Committee.

Aiken said he would not name the sponsors of the committee because "I know some of the people and I don't think they know what they are doing."

The agreement, reached on the twelfth day of sharp give-and-take over proposed checks on strikes and union practices, calls for an end of debate at 12:30 p. m. (11:30 a. m. EST).

At that hour the Senate will start balloting on any pending amendments, including a motion by 11 Democrats to sugstitute a milder bill for the one backed by Sen. Taft (Ohio), chairman of the Republican Policy Committee and of the Labor Committee.

Sponsors of the substitute, designed to meet President Truman's recommendations on labor legislation, concede it will be defeated.

WCTU President Says Some Liquor Ads Are Competing With Mothers

WASHINGTON, May 12 — (AP) — Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, told a Senate committee today that some liquor ads are designed to appeal even to children and are competing with mothers trying to raise them so they will not become alcoholics.

She was one of 35 witnesses who testified before the Senate Commerce Committee in behalf of legislation by Sen. Capper (R-Kan.) to bar advertisements of alcoholic beverages from interstate commerce.

Only one witness—Mrs. Louise Gross, president of the Women's Moderation Union, New York—appeared today in opposition but other opponents will testify tomorrow.

Mrs. Gross, who said she worked 13 years to help repeal prohibition, told the committee:

"If women are drinking today it's because prohibition and our dry opponents are to blame for it."

She declared there are no new arguments the drys can produce that would warrant Congress crippling the beverage industry which, she said, adds millions of dollars to the tax revenues.

Mrs. Colvin, stating the WTCU's position, said:

"Many women today have been unfitted for motherhood by the tavern, the cocktail lounge, the motion picture, and the general atmosphere of an age that glorifies taverns and bartenders."

She displayed numerous magazine ads, which, she said, were designed to appeal to men, women, girls, boys and "the cradle." She added that at least 180 daily newspapers and 4,000 weeklies as well as many magazines refuse liquor advertising.

Man Is Rescued After Being Pinned In Wreckage Of Car For Five Days

MARTINEZ, Calif., May 12 (AP)—A 26-year-old refinery worker, pinned for five days in the wreckage of his automobile, was rescued today as he lay dying of thirst, 10 feet from a running brook.

Ernest K. Steele, the victim, was in grave condition from injuries, exposure, hunger and thirst when a crew installing a power pole found him in a gully 150 feet from a highway. Amputation of his mangled right arm may be necessary.

Steele told Highway Patrol Capt. George Belen his car went off the road, eight miles west of Martinez Wednesday evening. He was thrown from the driver's seat, but his right arm was caught between the door and the car body, leaving him helpless.

The next morning a repairman mended the fence broken by the car, but Steele was too weak to hail the man, 150 feet away.

Steele broke the glass fuel cup in the engine and with a piece of glass scratched on the fender a note to his wife, Mary: "Don't forget I love you."

"I would have cut my arm off if the glass had been sharp enough," he told Capt. Belen.

The Arab countries in the United Nations furthermore told the United Nations that a democratic, independent state is the only solution they will accept for Palestine.

They also implied that they might refuse to co-operate with the proposed United Nations commission of inquiry into the Holy Land question unless that commission was instructed by the General Assembly to include a proposal for independence as one of the solutions.

Greek Case Is Reopened By Moscow

Acts To Trim Powers Of Sub-Commission

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., May 12 (AP) — Russia reopened the Greek case in the United Nations Security Council tonight with a demand that the powers of a United Nations subcommission investigating Greek border incidents be curtailed sharply.

Soviet Deputy Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, delivering a 35-minute speech, demanded that the council limit the subsidiary group to special cases assigned to it by the parent commission.

He also insisted that the sub-commission headquarters be moved from Salonika, near the frontiers, to Athens, the Greek capital to the south.

The Russian demands came as a House-Senate committee in Washington sought to work out an acceptable version of President Truman's $400,000,000 aid program for Greece and Turkey. Both chambers have passed the measure in slightly different form.

Gromyko also said that the subcommission, assigned to keep a watch on the troubled frontiers pending a report from the 11-nation commission, should cease its activities with liquidation of the parent commission. The latter is now compiling a report in Geneva for submission to the council.

The Security Council, commission and sub-commission all have the same 11 countries as members.

In asking for the group's move from Salonika to Athens, the Soviet delegate said its "presence in Salonika may encourage activities of certain irresponsible and adventurous Greek circles." He said such acts would be "dangerous from the point of view of the maintenance of peace in that part of the world."

The council took no immediate action on the Russian points and the next session was set for Friday.

Three Considered To Administer Aid

WASHINGTON, May 12. (AP)—President Truman was reported at the Capitol today to be considering Donald M. Nelson, Robert M. LaFollette or Mark F. Ethridge, among others, to administer the $400,000,000 aid program for Greece and Turkey.

But some senators of both parties said they already had turned thumbs down on Ethridge and there was some doubt whether he would accept the post even if Mr. Truman formally tendered it.

Nelson was former chairman of the War Production Board and served as the late President Roosevelt's special representative in China.

LaFollette, former Progressive Party senator from Wisconsin who sought the Republican nomination last year, blamed his defeat in the primary in part on the opposition of Communists within labor groups which previously had supported him.

Ethridge, Louisville publisher, was an American representative on the United Nations commission investigating Greek border disturbances. There were indications that State Department officials would like to have Ethridge, who is familiar with the situation in Greece, carry on as overall director of the program.

The Senate sent the Greek-Turkish legislation to a Senate-House conference committee today after declining to accept the House version. The later bill omitted the Senate requirement for confirmation of top administrative officials.

Royall Says May Had Blamed Him For Senate Probe

Acknowledged Later That He Was Wrong

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP) — Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall testified today that former Rep. Andrew J. May accused him in 1945 of starting a Senate investigation against May and munitions-makers.

Royall told the jury in the May-Garsson far fraud trial that the Congressman, then chairman of the House Military Committee, later conceded he was wrong and asked Royall to "forget it."

The Undersecretary of War testified that May phoned him three times in September, 1945, protesting the War Department's withholding of $800,000 from the Erie Basin Metal Products Company pending renegotiation of the firm's profits.

May Protested Army Action

That firm is one in the $78,000,000 Garsson munitions combine, from which May is accused of accepting more than $55,000 in bribes.

On trial with May are Murray and Henry Garsson, key figures in the arms empire, and Joseph F. Freeman, Washington agent for the Garsson brothers.

Royall said May protested Army action in withholding the $800,000 war contract payments to Erie but that, actually, the delay in making the payments was due to Erie's tardiness in submitting proper financial data.

Royall said that just a few days after he received the three phone calls from May about Erie, May called him into his office at the Capitol.

Conceded Mistake

"He said 'you're having me investigated by the Senate committee and you have made the statement that I was connected with the Erie Basin Metal Products Company,'" Royall recalled.

The Undersecretary, who at that time was a special assistant to Secretary of War Stimson, said he told May he was "mistaken."

"Mr. May said 'well, I just wanted to speak to you about it,'" Royall said.

A couple of days later, Royall said, May acknowledged he had been wrong about blaming Royall for the Senate investigation.

Key Spots In Telephone Talks Remain Snarled

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Additional local strike settlements spelled a partial return to peace in the telephone industry tonight but in several key spots the 36-day-old dispute found negotiations still snarled.

The Western Electric Employes Association appealed to the government to step into its deadlock with the Western Electric Company. Henry Mayer, union attorney, said that "the workers want to get back on the job."

Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson conferred all afternoon with Western Electric representatives after the company rejected a union proposal to arbitrate all issues.

"Apparently Gibson got nowhere," Mayer told newsmen, "because at 4:15 p. m. the company repeated its refusal of arbitration.

De Gasperi May Resign

ROME, May 12 (AP)—Premier Alcide De Gasperi was reliably reported tonight to be ready to resign as head of the three-party coalition cabinet, and attempt to create a new "national unity" government to meet Italy's increasingly perilous economic plight.

Russian Reporters Sit In On "Secret" Allied Conference

VIENNA, May 12. (AP)—An Associated Press reporter on an official mission entered the supposedly secret session of the Allied Commission on Austrian peace treaty today and discovered two reporters for Tass, the official Soviet news agency, sitting in a corner taking notes.

The American reporter, who entered the conference room to deliver a note to Joseph Dodge, the American delegate, protested to Dodge and other American officials the presence of the Russians where other foreign correspondents were barred.

The American then was required to leave the chamber.

South Wins Cut In Freight Rates

WASHINGTON, May 12. (AP)—The South won a fight for lower rail freight rates today in the Supreme Court.

A 7-2 decision upheld an Interstate Commerce Commission order for a 10 per cent increase in certain rates in the Northeast—roughly including the area north of the Potomac and Ohio Rivers and east of the Mississippi plus most of Virginia—and a 10 per cent decrease in the South and in western areas between the Mississippi and the Rocky Mountains.

Southern industrialists and political leaders, notably former Gov. Ellis Arnall, of Georgia, had led the battle for the lower rates to aid southern industry, contending their section and the West were discriminated against.

Officials of northeastern states and 33 railroads had attacked the proposed rate change as arbitrary, unsupported by facts and a reversal of long-standing practice.

The opponents of the rate change now have 25 days to seek a rehearing from the court. If it is denied, the ICC can order the new rates into effect. It made its findings in May, 1945.

They involve only the so-called "class rates," applying to the various classes of manufactured products such as clothing. These constitute about four per cent of all rail traffic and yield about six per cent of the railroads' freight revenue. The order does not apply to "commodity rates" covering raw materials such as coal, or to "exception rates" covering certain other items.

Italy Still Rocking

ROME, May 12 (AP) — The earth still shook beneath Calabria at the extremity of the Italian boot, dispatches from Cantanzaro said today, and the tol of two days of intermittesnt tremors stood at four dead.

Trunk Murderess Seized 12 Hours After Her Escape

Winnie Ruth Judd Flees From Hospital

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 12 (AP) — Winnie Ruth Judd, the trunk murderess of 16 years ago, escaped from the state hospital for the insane last night and was recaptured today 12 hours later in an orange grove.

It was the third time the red-haired "Tiger Woman" had escaped.

She surrendered quietly to sheriff's deputies who tracked her through the grove, but at the sheriff's office tearfully berated the hospital superintendent for having her transferred from the infirmary to a cell-like room.

Mrs. Judd said she fled the hospital because the superintendent wouldn't let her see her mother on Mother's Day.

Mother Is Patient At Hospital

"Yesterday was Mother's Day," she said. "I asked to see her but he told me I could see her only for five minutes and then under three guards.

"I didn't see her all day, and it was Mother's Day."

Her 80-year-old mother, Mrs. Carrie B. McKinnell, is a patient at the hospital.

On October 16, 1931, Mrs. Judd shot and killed two women friends, Agnes Anne LeRoi and Hedvig Samuelson, and shipped their dismembered bodies in two trunks and a suitcase to Los Angeles.

She was convicted and sentenced to be hanged, but was adjudged insane at a hearing 72 hours before her scheduled execution.

Mrs. Judd escaped twice in the fall of 1939, remaining at liberty six days the first time and 12 days the second.

Opened Defective Lock

After an investigation, Dr. John A. Larson, hospital superintendent, said he believed Mrs. Judd escaped about 9:30 p. m. last night by opening a defective lock, probably with a nail file. Then, he said, she slipped down a stairway to a courtyard and climbed a high wire fence. She was discovered to be missing about 12:30 a. m. when an attendant found her bed empty.

A tip that a woman was sleeping on the ground sent sheriff's deputies to an orange grove a few miles north of the hospital at mid-morning.

They trailed her for a mile and a half. When they came upon her she was carrying a flour sack stuffed with clothing.

"He took my mother away," Mrs. Judd said as she got out of sheriff Cal Boles' car at the courthouse. She was referring to Dr. Larson's order removing her from the asylum infirmary, where she and her mother have been together.

Henry Wallace Urges National Coal Authority

Says "Inconveniences" Can't Be Tolerated

MINNEAPOLIS, May 12 (AP) — Henry A. Wallace said tonight that "the time has come to nationalize the coal industry under some type of coal authority."

The former vice president said that "the world needs for coal are so great that neither the obduracy of the operators nor the stubborn will of John L. Lewis should be allowed to cause the infinitude of suffering and paralysis which would result from a coal strike."

In a speech prepared for delivery at a meeting sponsored by the Democratic-Farmer Labor Party of Minnesota and The New Republic, of which he is editor, Wallace said that in the 20's he told farmers they were "entitled to moral, legal and economic equivalent of what the corporate form of organization gives to industry."

Hits Possible Labor Curbs

"Labor," Wallace added, "is entitled to that equivalent. Labor has the right to bargain on an industry-wide basis if business has the right to organize on such a basis. When I say this I certainly do not defend a coal strike next July."

Wallace said "we cannot solve our domestic economic problems by punishing our free labor movement," and posed the question, "Should (Senator) Joe Ball (R-Minn) be able to use the stubbornness of the coal operators and John L. Lewis as an excuse to cripple the bargaining power of all labor?"

"These people," he said, "have been nuisances long enough to our national economy. x x x Coal means so much to the life blood of the world that neither labor nor agriculture can tolerate the inconveniences which come so frequently in this key industry."

Wallace criticized President Truman's proposed $400,000,000 loan to Greece and Turkey and predicted that if "the Truman policy is applied in France and England, as well as in every country bordering on Russia that the result will be depression, universal chaos and finally revolution and war."

Calls For Loan To Russia

Wallace said that under his program the "funds of the international bank should be trebled," and that "a large loan should be made available to Russia to prevent her from making a cancerous plague spot out of Germany."

"A plan for developing the Near East should be drawn up that will advance the living standards of the people there through irrigation and power projects," he said.

Modernization of the Near East, Wallace said, "can be made a blessing to Russia, Britain, the United States and the whole world. The only solution which will benefit all three is the solution which best helps the Arabian people themselves x x x. The imperialistic approach will not benefit any of the three."

Nine Lynch Trial Jurors Accepted

GREENVILLE, S. C., May 12—(AP)—Nine jurors, each of whom swore he had no objection to capital punishment, were seated today as the State of South Caroline put 31 Greenville men on trial for the lynch slaying of Willie Earle, 24-year-old negro, near here February 17.

With the acceptance of the ninth juror, the regular panel was exhausted and a special venire of 36 was drawn, Presiding Judge J. Robert Martin, Jr., ordered them to be in court tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. (EST).

Seating of three additional jurors will pave the way for the state to begin presentation of the evidence upon which it will try to prove that the defendants, 28 Greenville taxi drivers and three businessmen were members of the mob which forcibly removed Earle from the nearby Pickens County Jail a few hours before his battered and shot body was found beside a Greenville country road.

All of the defendants pleaded innocent at the formal arraignment this morning.

Seven of the jurors accepted are textile workers, another is a shipping clerk in a textile mill, and the ninth is a farmer. All are white men. Although negroes are eligible for jury duty in this state if they are registered electors, no negroes were included in the regular panel.

Marshall Sends Third Note On Korea To Russia

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP) — Secretary Marshall warily asked Foreign Minister Molotov today for a further advance agreement on terms before resuming Soviet-American efforts to set up a joint provisional government for Korea.

His third note on the issue was speeded to the Moscow Embassy for immediate delivery to the Kremlin, because of the short time remaining before the scheduled start of negotiations May 20 at Seoul.

The text was not made public immediately, pending its delivery to the Kremlin.

ROBERT A. LOVETT . . . Appointed to succeed Dean Acheson as Undersecretary of State.

Acheson Resigns; Lovett Is Named Undersecretary

Other Top Diplomatic Changes Speculated

WASHINGTON, May 12 — (AP) — President Truman appointed Robert A. Lovett Undersecretary of State today to succeed the veteran Dean Acheson amid indications that other changes among top diplomatic officials are in the making.

Lovett, wealthy New York banker who served in wartime as Assistant Secretary of War for Air, will take over the No. 2 State Department post on July 1 if the Senate confirms his nomination as expected.

The resignation of Acheson, after six years' service as Undersecretary and Assistant Secretary, was announced today. He has long been anxious to give up his $12,000 a year government post and return to private law practice for personal financial reasons.

Other Changes In Prospect

The White House, in announcing the change, made public a letter in which Mr. Truman wrote Acheson of his "great regret" and "I cannot ask you again to put away your desire to return to private life."

Other changes in prospect, which will confront Secretary Marshall with the problem of altering the lineup of his principle aides, include the transfer to foreign posts of H. Freeman Matthews, director of European affairs, and John Carter Vincent, of the Far Eastern Affairs Office.

Both are career officers whose consecutive service in the State Department is limited by law to a maximum of four years. Their current tour of duty is scheduled to end in August.

Braden Figures In Speculation

Assistant Secretary Spruille Braden, who heads up all American Republic affairs, has figured also in speculation in diplomatic changes. He declined comment today on published reports that he plans to resign soon.

Diplomatic authorities expressed the view that Braden will not quit his post without the departure also of George S. Messersmith, ambassador to Argentina with whom he has had differences over U. S. policy toward the Peron regime. Otherwise they said Braden's resignation would be interpreted as a policy decision.

Assistant Secretary William Benton indicated to reporters that he will resign if Congress follows recommendations of the House Appriations Committee and denies funds for the department's international cultural and information activities which he directs. These include the "Voice of America" overseas broadcasts.

Murder Trial Defense Witness Admits Killing

LEEDS, Eng., May 12. (AP)—A defense witness in a murder trial testified today that he himself was the killer.

Defense Attorney H. B. H. Hylton Foster startled the court with the announcement "I propose to call before the jury the man who killed Gertrude Briggs."

An army private, Dennis Wood, 19, was sworn in for Eric Briggs, 40, charged with stabbing to death his wife, Gertrude, in a Leeds street.

The youth said he did not actually remember stabbing the woman, but knew it was he who killed her.

Hatch Believes President Will Veto Measure

Wagner Assails Bill As "Trouble-Making"

WASHINGTON, May 12. (AP)—Sen. Hatch (D-NM) expressed belief today that President Truman would veto the pending labor disputes bill, as the Republican leadership won agreement for a final Senate vote tomorrow.

Hatch, a close friend of the President's, told the Senate, however, that he will vote for the measure in the hope that provisions acceptable to Mr. Truman can be worked out in conference with the House.

He declared that "neither party would gain" politically by a veto and expressed hope that nobody is "trying to put the President of the United States on the spot."

As the long debate neared its close, Sen. Wagner (D-NY), recovering from an illness, delivered his first speech on the floor this session to assail the bill as "untimely, trouble-making, reactionary, unfair and unduly political."

It would make far-reaching changes in the Labor Relations Act of 1935 which bears Wagner's name.

"It is too much to hope that a majority of the present Congress will bury this bill, but I earnestly hope the President vetoes it," Wagner said.

"Narrow Political Considerations"

"Narrow political considerations have played an excessive part in its formulation.

"I do not mean to say that everyone who votes for or against this bill is guided by narrow political considerations. But I do say that political jockeying for position has had so much to do with the formulation of this bill at every stage as to discredit it on its face."

Wagner called it a "trouble-making" bill on the ground that it would "provoke and instigate unnecessary conflicts, both in the courts and in the collective bargaining process." He said it would "foment and augment industrial strife."

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) filed notice as the Senate quit for the day that he will attempt to delete an amendment which would deny bargaining rights to a union if any of its officers could be "reasonably" regarded as Communists or Communist sympathizers.

It was sponsored by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) and adopted last Friday by voice vote. The House bill has a similar provision.

Aiken To Vote For Bill

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), Labor Committee member who has split with Taft on a number of amendments, announced he will vote for the bill as it now stands, although he said it "was at its best" before toughening amendments were adopted.

He criticized the Committee for Constitutional Government, Inc., for its views on labor legislation and declared "it is time for the Attorney General to look into" it.

Aiken reported the committee has distributed 250,000 copies of a booklet entitled "Labor Monopolies or Freedom?" From it he read statements that all laws on collective bargaining and hours and wages should be repealed, quoting it as saying the principal abuse "is collective bargaining itself."

"This is the stuff—the alien doctrine—that is being distributed unhampered by an organization supposedly financed by respectable publishers and businessmen," he declared.

Substitute's Defeat Conceded

He said the committee showed contempt of Congress by refusing to disclose information about its finances to the House Unamerican Activities Committee.

Aiken said he would not name the sponsors of the committee because "I know some of the people and I don't think they know what they are doing."

The agreement, reached on the twelfth day of sharp give-and-take over proposed checks on strikes and union practices, calls for an end of debate at 12:30 p. m. (11:30 a. m. EST).

At that hour the Senate will start balloting on any pending amendments, including a motion by 11 Democrats to sugstitute a milder bill for the one backed by Sen. Taft (Ohio), chairman of the Republican Policy Committee and of the Labor Committee.

Sponsors of the substitute, designed to meet President Truman's recommendations on labor legislation, concede it will be defeated.

WCTU President Says Some Liquor Ads Are Competing With Mothers

WASHINGTON, May 12 — (AP) — Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, told a Senate committee today that some liquor ads are designed to appeal even to children and are competing with mothers trying to raise them so they will not become alcoholics.

She was one of 35 witnesses who testified before the Senate Commerce Committee in behalf of legislation by Sen. Capper (R-Kan.) to bar advertisements of alcoholic beverages from interstate commerce.

Only one witness—Mrs. Louise Gross, president of the Women's Moderation Union, New York—appeared today in opposition but other opponents will testify tomorrow.

Mrs. Gross, who said she worked 13 years to help repeal prohibition, told the committee:

"If women are drinking today it's because prohibition and our dry opponents are to blame for it."

She declared there are no new arguments the drys can produce that would warrant Congress crippling the beverage industry which, she said, adds millions of dollars to the tax revenues.

Mrs. Colvin, stating the WTCU's position, said:

"Many women today have been unfitted for motherhood by the tavern, the cocktail lounge, the motion picture, and the general atmosphere of an age that glorifies taverns and bartenders."

She displayed numerous magazine ads, which, she said, were designed to appeal to men, women, girls, boys and "the cradle." She added that at least 180 daily newspapers and 4,000 weeklies as well as many magazines refuse liquor advertising.

Man Is Rescued After Being Pinned In Wreckage Of Car For Five Days

MARTINEZ, Calif., May 12 (AP)—A 26-year-old refinery worker, pinned for five days in the wreckage of his automobile, was rescued today as he lay dying of thirst, 10 feet from a running brook.

Ernest K. Steele, the victim, was in grave condition from injuries, exposure, hunger and thirst when a crew installing a power pole found him in a gully 150 feet from a highway. Amputation of his mangled right arm may be necessary.

Steele told Highway Patrol Capt. George Belen his car went off the road, eight miles west of Martinez, Wednesday evening. He was thrown from the driver's seat, but his right arm was caught between the door and the car body, leaving him helpless.

The next morning a repairman mended the fence broken by the car, but Steele was too weak to hail the man, 150 feet away.

Steele broke the glass fuel cup in the engine and with a piece of glass scratched on the fender a note to his wife, Mary: "Don't forget I love you."

"I would have cut my arm off if the glass had been sharp enough," he told Capt. Belen.

Cold Spell May Cost Md. Farmers $1,000,000

COLLEGE PARK, Md., May 12. (AP)—Full reports on the damage to Maryland's fruit crops by last week's cold spell still were incomplete today but a state horticulturalist declared "it's much worse than we feared."

Dr. I. C. Haut, head of the University of Maryland's Horicultural Department, expressed the fear that the loss to state farmers might reach a $1,000,000.

The apple and peach crops are expected to be only about 20 per cent of normal. Strawberries, raspberries, cherries, pears and other fruits also were damaged considerably by the cold.

The two officers are alleged to have inspected other clubs in the community on the same night. They are reported to have been denied admittance at the club rooms of Braddock Chapter No. 9 Disabled American Veterans in the Winner Building, East Main Street.

Cole said he is not definite when the executive committee will meet with Ryan but declared Ryan is expected to call him when the attorney is ready.

In commenting on club activities, Cole declared that the post disposed of any slot machines they may have had early in March, when the States Attorney ordered a county-wide raid. Since that time only pinball machines have been operated in the club rooms, he added.

Md. Marks Hospital Day

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 12. (AP)—Hospital Day was observed throughout the state today in line with a proclamation by Gov. Lane, which urged citizens to support such institutions.

William L. Leasure, 425 Columbia Street, yesterday enlisted in the United States Army at the local recruiting office. He signed for 18 months.

Jury Will

Cosner declared he doesn't remember anything then, as everything went blank, until he came to himself standing over his wife's body, with the broken bat in his hands.

Remembering that his mother once fell down the stairs, he conceived the idea that he would carry his wife down the stairs and back to leave a trail of blood. Cosner said he then carried her to the basement and back again. He called his two oldest boys, Vance and Vince, to help him lift their mother back on the bed, saying he was exhausted and could not carry her farther.

Under close questioning Cosner said he tried to cover up the situation for the sake of his children, not wanting them to think he had hurt their mother. He said he realized later this was wrong, and he made his statement voluntarily to the police.

Reconstructed Scene

Cosner told the jury he did not remember going to the basement where the baseball bat was kept; did not remember actually striking his wife with the bat, but reconstructed this in his own mind "when I came to myself."

The defendant also identified a deed, drawn to give his wife a half interest in the Cosner residence property. He admitted the deed contained a clause that in the event of the death of one or the other, the survivor would be the sole owner.

The defense objected, contending this was evidence of an event before the date of the tragedy, but the Court overruled the objection, and admitted it as evidence.

John I. Rogers, who testified Friday, with the jury out of the Court room, was recalled, as defense again tried to get his story before them, contending it would substantiate some of Cosner's testimony. The Court ruled it excluded.

Mrs. Pearl Tasker, who lived next door to Cosner all his life and although younger, grew up with him, also was called as a defense witness and told several unusual incidents of Cosner's conduct.

Had Mental Lapses

Mrs. Tasker stated that for a year or more prior to the tragedy, Cosner had been nervous, irrational, and many times unable to carry on a conversation. She said he would be talking to a group about something, and 15 minutes or more after the subject was closed, he would pick it up again at a place where he had become strangely silent. She said she knew him extremely well as a friend and neighbor, since they were children together, and believes he experienced conditions in his home that he was not able to cope with.

None of her testimony was admitted to the jury, as Judge See ruled it had no bearing on the night of the tragedy. So the defense rested its case yesterday afternoon, and counsel of both sides adjourned to the judge's chambers to work out instructions and points to be argued.

The only defense testimony the jury will consider, if Judge See remains firm in his rulings, is that of Cosner himself, and a few questions and answers read from the deposition taken from Mrs. Grace F. Yost, who was the first person at the home after the tragedy occurred. The other witnesses, nine in number, who gave their full accounts to the jury, were all state witnesses.

Three Sons In Court

It is expected the case will go to the jury by noon today or shortly thereafter, with the state still asking for a first degree murder verdict without recommendation, and the defense pleading for an acquittal on the grounds that Cosner was not mentally accountable for his conduct the night of the tragedy.

The Court room was crowded yesterday, with more spectators than on any previous day of the trial with women predominating.

Cosner's three sons, Vance, 9, Vince 8, and Teddy, 3, who have been staying at the Star of Hope Orphanage, Burlington, W. Va., were in the Court room yesterday as the afternoon session got underway. As Cosner came in, escorted by Sheriff James A. Dixon, he walked over and greeted his boys warmly. All three attempted to talk to him at once. Just before the defendant took the witness stand for the second time, the three boys were taken to an ante-room. They returned to the Orphanage last night.

Lutz Is Held On $10,000 Bond

Carl F. Lutz, 18, Williamsport, Pa., whom police said confessed to the armed robbery of Houser's Service Station on Route 50, east of Romney, W. Va., Thursday is being held in Hampshire County jail in default of $10,000 bond.

Trooper F. H. Tribett, West Virginia State Police, said the youth, who was apprehended after a wild chase from Romney to near Keyser, admitted the robbery and said he needed money to buy gasoline.

Lutz was arraigned but waived preliminary hearing and stood by his signed confession, Trooper Tribett said. Carl E. Lutz, father of the youth, visited his son Saturday in the county jail, according to police and returned the car that his son was operating to Williamsport. Police declared that the father had made the trip to pay for the gasoline that he thought his son was accused of stealing.

When he was informed that the youth had stolen $169 at the point of a loaded shotgun, police said he was "shocked and hurt." The father told police his son left home Thursday morning taking the family car without permission and was next heard from after being arrested by Trooper R. R. Karrickoff, who fired two shots at the tires of the car as the youth sped from Romney toward Keyser.

Edward Hedrick, proprietor of the Blue Beach Tavern, five miles from Romney, on the South Branch of the Potomac River, pleaded guilty to selling beer on Sunday when arraigned before Justice of the Peace T. E. Pownall yesterday and was fined $25 and cost. Hedrick was arrested Sunday morning at 10 o'clock by Trooper Tribett, who said he found one patron in the tavern drinking beer.

Maryland Public Works Board To Meet Thursday

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 12. (AP)—The Maryland Board of Public Works, which was scheduled to meet tomorrow, will meet Thursday afternoon.

Louis J. O'Donnell, assistant to Gov. Lane, said today the meeting was postponed because State Treasurer Hooper S. Miles was unable to be present tomorrow because of other business.

Lutz Is Held On $10,000 Bond

Carl F. Lutz, 18, Williamsport, Pa., whom police said confessed to the armed robbery of Houser's Service Station on Route 50, east of Romney, W. Va., Thursday is being held in Hampshire County jail in default of $10,000 bond.

Trooper F. H. Tribett, West Virginia State Police, said the youth, who was apprehended after a wild chase from Romney to near Keyser, admitted the robbery and said he needed money to buy gasoline.

Lutz was arraigned but waived preliminary hearing and stood by his signed confession, Trooper Tribett said. Carl E. Lutz, father of the youth, visited his son Saturday in the county jail, according to police and returned the car that his son was operating to Williamsport. Police declared that the father had made the trip to pay for the gasoline that he thought his son was accused of stealing.

When he was informed that the youth had stolen $169 at the point of a loaded shotgun, police said he was "shocked and hurt." The father told police his son left home Thursday morning taking the family car without permission and was next heard from after being arrested by Trooper R. R. Karrickoff, who fired two shots at the tires of the car as the youth sped from Romney toward Keyser.

Edward Hedrick, proprietor of the Blue Beach Tavern, five miles from Romney, on the South Branch of the Potomac River, pleaded guilty to selling beer on Sunday when arraigned before Justice of the Peace T. E. Pownall yesterday and was fined $25 and cost. Hedrick was arrested Sunday morning at 10 o'clock by Trooper Tribett, who said he found one patron in the tavern drinking beer.

IN A KAISER OR A FRAZER YOU GET THE 100% POSTWAR RIDE

You should drive one!

If you want to know what "the 100% postwar ride" is like, there's only one way to find out. Come and get into a KAISER or a FRAZER and—take a ride! You really ought to do it before you pay money for a prewar car that will soon be obsolete. Compare the ride! Try being a passenger! You will notice the difference before you have gone two blocks! And you'll agree there never was a ride like this before. Then take the wheel! No matter how many cars or miles you've driven, you'll get a kick out of the relaxed ease with which you control and guide either of these most modern of motor cars. You'll want a KAISER or a FRAZER for sure!

KAISER

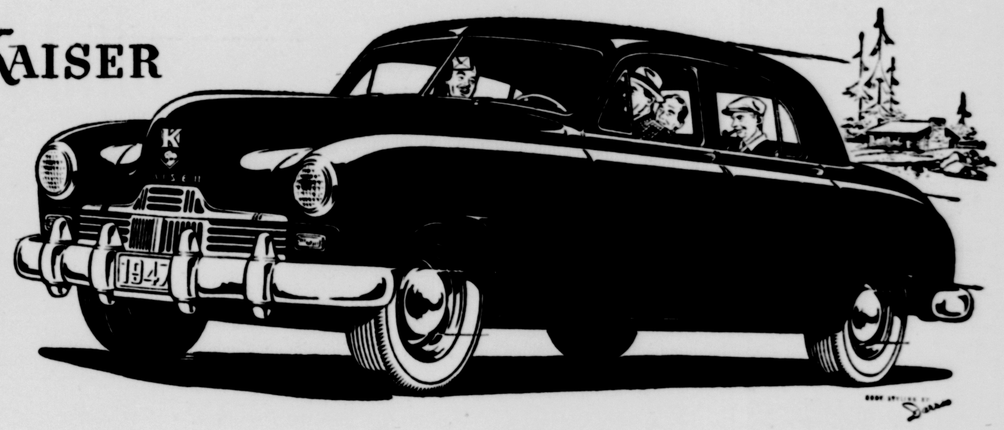

You and all five of your passengers relax in roomy comfort in the KAISER or the FRAZER. A "front-seat" ride in both seats is result of advanced chassis and body design that lets you all ride between the axles! Low center of gravity also improves riding qualities.

Compare the ride today!

CHECK THIS LIST OF POSTWAR FEATURES BEFORE YOU BUY ANY NEW CAR

TOMORROW'S ENGINEERING: The extraordinary ride is the result of postwar chassis engineering—improved distribution of mass and load—back seat well forward of rear wheels. Remarkable performance and gas mileage—from economical, 100 hp. L-head, six-cylinder engine.

EXTRA SAFETY FACTORS: "Open-car" visibility in all directions. Smooth, "feather-touch" hydraulic brakes. Low center of gravity—minimum sidesway on curves. Wide rims—more rubber on road. Zone Board's Request For Funds Is Studied

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday he is studying a request from the Board of Zoning Appeals asking for a "reasonable sum of money for with the inspection of sites and for holding hearings."

William M. Weatherholt board chairman said the board meets on an average of twice a month and that between eight and 10 cases are handled monthly. Each case requires at least an hour's attention he added.

The request of the board will probably be considered by the Mayor and Council when the new budget is prepared.

Time For Teamwork On Our Economic Policy

Two recent statements issued by groups of business leaders differ somewhat on how much responsibility business men should assume for solving the price problem.

The committee on economic policy of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States says it is "clearly misleading" to put the blame for current prices solely on business men or to expect that they alone can bring prices down.

The business committee of the National Planning Association—not otherwise identified—headed by Beardsley Ruml, declares that "it is squarely up to business men" to lead the country out of the present situation because they are the risk-takers and to them "the public logically looks for risk-taking."

Actually, the two statements are not far apart. The NPA business committee says that "other economic groups must cooperate if readjustment is to be carried through" while the Chamber of Commerce is on record to the effect that price cuts should be made wherever possible. Both groups would agree, if brought together, that labor and agriculture and government and business should work together to achieve economic stabilization.

Ruml has pointed out some of the things government might do to help. It could stage a food conservation campaign, encourage greater labor productivity and lower tax rates. It is equally true that labor could examine more carefully the effect of wage increases and farmers could look critically at present government farm policy.

The chamber's committee on economic policy is right in pointing to the "underlying forces" behind the present price level. What the nation needs is a concerted effort to correct them.

Democracy In Japan Advanced By Gen. MacArthur

With world attention directed mainly to the difficult problem of restoring order and peace in Europe, the progress made by General Douglas MacArthur in re-ordering the affairs of Japan has not received the full measure of general appreciation it has rated.

Admiral Louis E. Denfield, commander-in-chief of the Pacific area, who has just returned from a tour of Pacific bases and Japan, voiced amazement at the way General MacArthur "has that place running and everybody happy." Admiral Denfield attributed to General MacArthur the statement that, if a plebiscite were now taken, 90 per cent of the Japanese would vote to have Japan become a United States territory.

Even if this reported viewpoint of General MacArthur were subjected to liberal discount, the reconstruction of Japan has become an impressive enough story to warrant considerable gratification on the part of the Allied supreme commander as well as the American people. It hardly would be an overstatement to observe that the Japanese people thus far have taken to the introduction of the orderly democratic process as agreeably as ducks to water.

Certainly the reconstruction program of Japan has proceeded with steady and smooth effectiveness, in striking contrast to obstructive developments in Allied handling of the affairs of Europe.

The American people hardly would want Japan as a territory, but such a conception would be welcomed as a "natural" by Russia if the reds were in control of Japan's postwar destiny. That the Japanese people would be opposed to assimilation by the Soviet is obvious. Their status as a natural protege of democracy might well be envied by various peoples of Europe and Asia who have found the hug of the bear too oppressive for comfort—if not for survival.

Marine Corps Precious To American History

Any move that would destroy the identity of the United States Marine Corps will arouse nationwide protests. The Marine Corps has fought too frequently and too effectively for the national honor to be lost in a program that proposes a merger of the Army and Navy.

In the vagueness of the proposed bill which is supposed to merge the armed forces nearly everything is left to executive order. The Marine Corps, as one Washington reporter emphasizes, which has hitherto enjoyed the protection of a statutory definition of its role and mission, could be abolished overnight if the pending bill is passed.

The Marine Corps was formed by the Continental Congress November 10, 1775, and was made a permanent organization in 1789. It has served valiantly and heroically ever since, "from the halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli." The United States Marines have preserved a tradition "on the land as on the sea" that is too precious to American histor to be lost now.

Congress surely will keep this unit in mind when it comes to a final consideration of the merger proposal.

The "Miracle"

Whatever danger there may have been of the sort of raging smallpox epidemic which formerly decimated whole populations seems to have waned in New York City. This feat has been accomplished with a minimum of fuss and hysteria, thanks to the ready co-operation of the public and the remarkable efficiency of doctors, public health officers and suppliers of vaccine in meeting the huge demand.

In New York City alone, 5,500,000 persons have been vaccinated since the outbreak was reported—a remarkable achievement. In nearby areas the number was also enormous. It will never be known how many lives have been saved and how many millions of dollars have been saved by this prompt response to warnings.

What is known is that the outbreak was confined to 12 cases in the New York City area, and that only two of these resulted in death. That, as the city's health commissioner said, was something of a "miracle." If this is an unconventional "miracle," it is because it is known how it was performed.

The old Cheyenne-Deadwood stage coach will be revived for one run, as a stunt to advertise a movie, carrying spare horses in auto trailers. The old-timers will never know what they missed by being born too soon.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

HEART VALVE INFECTION

HEART disease is a handicap but, considering the number of persons afflicted only a small percentage can be classified as invalids. Even so, much leeway is given for, while strenuous exercise is forbidden, ordinary walking is tolerated.

Such restrictions are not difficult for grownups, but youngsters frequently find them a hardship. Boys and girls have the urge to run and jump and it is not easy to keep them down. Thru training and reasoning, however, much can be accomplished so that many can participate in certain sports without damage to the cardiac apparatus.

But curbing physical activities in order to reduce strain is only one factor. Great care must be taken to avoid infections. Colds, bronchitis, and pneumonia often increase the pulse rate and in so doing, throw an extra burden on the old ticker. This is particularly true with individuals who have had rheumatic fever which left the heart valves impaired. They cannot affort to suffer additional bouts particularly of the malady that brought on rheumatic fever in the first place.

In the past, one of the most dreaded complications of heart trouble was subacute bacterial endocarditis. Those with leakage (murmur) seem to be most susceptible altho its occurrence in other cardiac disorders has been noted. The streptococcus is the usual offender and takes delight in attacking structures which were previously injured. The organisms pounce upon the valves and produce a crumbly, cauliflowerlike lesion which is so fragile that pieces are continuously breaking off into the vital fluid. With each stroke of the pumping organ they are sent elsewhere in the body. Since the fragments teem with microorganisms, blood poisoning occurs.

The streptococcus generally gains entrance during a respiratory infection or inflammation elsewhere. This is another reason why the physician stresses the importance of colds in heart patients and demands that they be treated adequately. Occasionally invasion follows extraction of a tooth which explains why penicillin is recommended when these individuals are about to have extensive dental work performed.

Bacterial endocarditis usually starts without warning and before long the victim is aware of increasing fatigue and weight loss. The temperature rises every afternoon, rarely more than a degree or two. In time, symptoms become so severe that the physician is consulted and, after studying the blood, the diagnosis is established.

Prior to 1942, practically every sufferer died. When the sulfonamides were first introduced, the medical profession thought they might have a weapon to counteract this affliction as at first the effect of the chemicals was so encouraging. But the separations only prolonged life and ultimately all, with the exception of a case here and there, succumbed. Penicillin proved to be the answer and, if large doses are used, seven out of every 10 case can be saved. Such results are startling especially when we remember that only a few years ago the outcome was always fatal.

CARDIAC DISTURBANCE

R.M. writes: What is meant by a heart block?

REPLY

A condition affecting the electrical impulses of the heart, so that they are delayed or prevented from reaching their destination. There are many types—some innocent and others more serious. The physician has various ways of combating the abnormality.

SPASMS OF GULLET

Mrs. H.H. writes: Is cardiospasm serious?

REPLY

No, but it hurts. Its importance lies in the fact that the symptom mimics more harmful conditions, which means that a correct diagnosis must be made.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Gaining more and more popularity these days are the fellows who play the records over your radio.

In the trade they are known as "Disc Jockeys." We owe a great deal to these platter players who stay awake through the wee hours just to entertain all night workers, insomnia victims, and people still confused by daylight saving time.

Many of the smaller stations depend completely on disc jockeys.

In fact last month a disc jockey in one of the out of the way stations took a two weeks' vacation, and they had nothing but fourteen days of uninterrupted commercials.

He screamed when he saw the sun for the first time in two years—and it took six months to get him back up out of the cellar.

Naturally, it's very hard to please everybody. Half the listeners want popular music and half want the classics.

One disc jockey nearly went crazy trying to figure out a system. Now he plays both types of music at the same time.

Of course he has a little trouble adjusting the pickup arms with his toes.

One disc jockey was really in bad shape. We had breakfast together and he liked one of the dishes so much he asked the waiter if he could take some back to the studio.

I found out later he spent three weeks trying to get "Honeysuckle Rose" out of a waffle.

And one guy I know watched so many records go round he had to take a rest.

But it didn't do much good. He just sat there under the palm trees with his eyeballs spining.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 12—It didn't make the social columns, but Secretary of State Marshall has just held his first dinner party after returning from Moscow, and the guest list indicates that some old wounds are healed.

The dinner was held in the home Nelson Rockefeller has loaned Marshall. Guests included: General Bedell Smith, U. S. Ambassador to Moscow; Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCloy, former Assistant Secretary of War, now head of the World Bank; and last but not least, the former Secretary of State and Mrs. Byrnes.

There was a time when shrewd, likeable Jimmy Byrnes would not have sat down comfortably with General Marshall. The discomfiture started more than one year ago when Byrnes came back from his own mission to Moscow—after a failure no worse than Marshall's—and was welcomed by a barrage of criticism from some of President Truman's immediate staff. Several of them, led by Admiral Leahy, urged Truman to drop Byrnes and replace him with General Marshall as Secretary of State. In fact a message was sent to Marshall, then in China, on a secret War Department code so that it would not be seen by the State Department, asking Marshall to be available.

Premature publicity, however, helped upset this plan. But even the goodnatured Jimmy rankled at these maneuvers—though he never blamed Marshall for them. As a sort of token of friendship, however, and in order to compare notes on Russia, both men sat down last week and broke bread together.

Program For Greece

Now that President Truman has been voted his money for Greece and Turkey, he faces the all-important question of exactly how he will spend it. Upon this largely depend two things:

1. Whether we have peace or war with Russia.

2. Whether Harry Truman is reelected President of the United States.

Regarding the less important of these two points, it is interesting to note that the quarter billion dollars we are giving Greece will run out one year from now, just as the 1948 political campaign is getting hot. And if Harry Truman has to come back to the taxpayer at that time and ask for more dough for Greece, then you can write it down as definite that he will be a one-shot president.

If, on the other hand, the Greek program is a success, the so-called Truman doctrine may go down in history. And what's far more important, the peace of the world may be materially stabilized.

After World War I, this writer spent two years in and out of Greece on Balkan reconstruction work, so perhaps knows a little of the difficult problem the United States faces in rebuilding this hectic corner of the world. Based on this experience, it is my belief that if any one nation is qualified to help lift Greece from its present imbroglio of strife and corruption, it is the United States. And even though my Republican friends may suspect me of trying to help reelect Harry Truman, here are some of my own ideas on how Harry can spend our money so as to get 100 cents out of each of our 250,000,000 Greek relief dollars:

Pearson's Program For Greece

1. Use the King of Greece as MacArthur has used the Emperor of Japan. Let the King write the decrees, but let the United States guide his pen—and guide it most carefully.

2. Forget the State Department's mid-Victorian idea that we are not going to interfere with the sovereignty of the Greek Government, and instead lead the Greek Government—by the nose, though through the King—almost every step of the way. Otherwise we will be up to our necks in the crookedest, smelliest dictatorship that ever fouled the dictator-polluted Balkans.

3. Don't waste money on the Greek army. They don't need any more weapons of hate with which to kill civilians. And they can't bring the guerrillas down from the hills, even with more weapons.

4. Grant immediate amnesty to all political prisoners and exiles—with an American guarantee behind it. This American guarantee should attract all the rebels down from the hills, except the Communists who are relatively small in number.

5. Use most of the American cash to rebuild the key ports of Salonika, Piraeus, and the railroad bridges. This will both give employment and get the trade of Greece back on its feet. If this can be done in a single year, private banks or the World Bank can go in the second year with ordinary business loans to finance the rest of Greek reconstruction.

If, on the other hand, U. S. dollars are squandered on arms, plus goods which only bolster the ruling Royalists and eventually reach the black market, then Greece will be back asking for more dough one year hence.

6. Make sure the British forego their previous private loans to Greece. British bankers, charging interest at around fifteen percent, formerly drained a heavy portion of the Greek budget.

7. Ask the United Nations to appoint observers to work with us and report back to the UN on everything we do. This should partially offset the slap in the face we gave the United Nations by going ahead with Greek aid independently. It should also prepare for eventual taking over by the UN.

8. Finally, appoint—through the King—a new coalition cabinet representing all political factions except the Communists and Fascists. The Fascists who collaborated with the Germans and who are now represented in the cabinet, must be punished. A Democratic, middle-of-the-road cabinet is the only hope to lift the one-time cradle of democracy out of its prsent slough of anti-democracy.

Taft Gets Religion

Republican colleagues have been chuckling about the way Ohio's Senator Bob Taft apparently "got religion" after the Senate unexpectedly smacked down the labor bill amendment to restrict industry-wide collective bargaining.

At a closed-door GOP caucus the next day, Taft suddenly began talking almost like a New Dealer, even taking issue with Freshman Senator James P. Kem of Missouri when Kem uncorked a wordy diatribe against the Democratic Administration of his fellow Missourian.

What's more, Taft served notice that he would expedite action on his long-range public housing bill—which he has been soft-pedalling—and that he would also push teachers' salary increases.

Indirect Labor Troubles And Powers Leaders Use Reviewed

By MARK SULLIVAN

A few weeks ago this writer's secretary asked a grocery she had long patronized for a loaf of bread of a brand she favored. It is a special kind of bread using unbleached flour ground in old-fashioned grist mills, the dough kneeded by hand, and selling at a price which takes it out of competition with ordinary bread. She was told that the grocery no longer carried this bread, that it had been dropped because of protest by a local bakery union. This small personal deprivation suffered by one bread-buyer has a relation to mighty events. It was an illustration of an aspect of labor relations which at this moment is one of the most hotly disputed points in the labor legislation pending in Congress.

The bread, called "Pepperidge Farm", is made at Norwalk, Connecticut. In Washington some 60 groceries carried it. About the action of the local union which caused the bread to be dropped from Washington shelves, there is some disagreement. According to union officials they merely asked local grocers to stop selling the bread. According to one grocer, whose account does not materially vary from others, union representatives seeing the bread on the shelves said: "You are to stop selling this bread; sell what you have on the shelves but don't order any more."

Union Recedes From Protest

To a reporter of the Washington Star an official of the bakery union said: "There is nothing new about this. For many years we have been trying to stop the sale of all kinds of bakery goods made in non-union shops through the country. Some products from about 40 non-union companies from Maine to Louisiana are still being sold here to some extent. We always protest and our protests usually are enough."

Customers complained to the grocers, and grocers complained to the union. They pointed out that no Washington bakery made bread of this particular type. After some weeks the union receded from its position and said the grocers could resume selling the bread until Washington bakers made an equivalent one.

In this case the manufacturer had no strike of its own nor threat of strike nor any kind of labor trouble. It is a comparatively small plant with only some hundred employees, it was a non-union plant and the workers were content. But the manufacturer was deprived of selling a portion of its output by action of a union in a city some 300 miles away. What could be done by a union in one city could be done by a union in any city.

Peril From Many Angles

So much for that one Washington incident. But over thousands of manufacturers, especially small ones, hangs a peril from many kinds of labor trouble which have no connection with the manufacturer himself but arise indirectly. These indirect labor troubles fall into categories spoken of in the pending Congressional debate as secondary boycotts, sympathy strikes, jurisdictional strikes, and the like. An indirect labor trouble arising in the area called industry-wide bargaining, was described by Senator Taft. During the steel strike last year workers in several small plants in Ohio did not want to strike but were subject to the discipline of the nation-wide union of steel workers.

These indirect labor troubles and the powers exercised indirectly by labor unions and leaders have been the most hotly debated aspects of the pending labor legislation in Congress. They are subject to intricate argument and there has been much of that. But they call for cure with a special urgency. They bear with especial weight on the small manufacturer and the survival of small business depends on remedy for them.

GOP Makes Remarkable Record In Spite Of Democratic Tactics

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 12—The Republican Congress actually has made a remarkable record to date insofar as expeditious handling of public business is concerned, but the "left wing" press has managed nevertheless to spread the opposite impression.

Not since the reform days of 1913, when a Democratic Congress and administration took over from the Republicans, has there been so comprehensive a job done on organizing the work of Congress and preparing major legislation.

Before the end of June, the Republican congress will have put through a bill liberalizing and readjusting the unbalanced provisions of the Wagner Labor Relations Law, strengthening the mediation service and providing machinery for the settlement of strikes; a bill reducing income taxes; a bill to outlaw the "portal to portal" racket and extortion, and appropriation bills making the first substantial reduction in federal expenses in nearly 14 years.

These accomplishments by themselves would be enough to take up six months of time, but other important bills will have been enacted by July. Legislation has not been completed in a hurry either. Thus exhaustive hearings lasting six weeks were held on the labor bills and plenty of time has been afforded for both sides in the debates in the Senate. The tax bill has also required considerable time for hearings and debate.

GOP Pulled Truman Chestnut

So far as time is concerned, several Democrats have been responsible for consuming no small part of it. Thus it was a Democrat, Senator McKellar of Tennessee, who precipitated the controversy of several weeks over the confirmation of David Lilienthal; and it was the leadership of two Republicans, Senators Hickenlooper of Iowa and Vandenberg of Michigan, which pulled that difficult chestnut out of the fire for the administration.

Likewise it was the Truman Administration which properly enough introduced into the situation the Greek-Turkish legislation which was of a highly controversial character and also the European relief bills. Several Democrats in both Houses, some of them New Dealers, did all they could to take up time and sabotage that legislation.

As for the budget-cutting process, never in all congressional history has there been such a concerted effort by persons in the executive departments to block legislation. President Truman has sat idly by while lobbies of his own personnel in the government departments have used public funds unlawfully to try to defeat economy measures. When the whole story comes out, Mr. Truman's record will be vulnerable, for it was within his power to stop the intrigue and lobbying that was carried on in an attempt to hold appropriations at high levels.

Most perplexing from a time-consuming angle has been the reorganization law passed in the previous session by the Democratic majority. This measure has much merit but it took the Republican congress several weeks to adjust itself to the new committee system. This would have happened if the Democrats had been in power. Delays of this kind were inevitable and had nothing to do with the capacity of the Republican party to govern.

Democrats Attempt "Smear" Campaign

The story that the Republicans have been "dawdling" or "muddling" is one that emanates primarily from Democratic political sources and the "left wing" generally. Anything to "smear" the majority party is considered goot tactics and perhaps there are Republicans now who regret that they didn't indulge more in that sort of thing themselves when they were the minority; but, unfortunately for them, from a political standpoint, the war was on and the call to patriotism then had priority.

The Republican majority is making a meritorious record, but it could not possibly pass the labor and tax bills or cut the budget if it were not for the help of that staunch group of patriotic and courageous senators from the Democratic Party of the south. These men, also the targets of abuse and ridicule by the "left wing" on the radio and in the press, are not allowing party politics or petty calls for so-called "party regularity" to interfere with performance of their duty.

What America has today in reality is not just a Republican congress but a coalition congress in which combining in an effort to rid the government of graft and favoritism in the spending of public money and to eradicate special privilege from governmental boards and the courts.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

W.F.T.U.

After the Third International was nominally abolished, the Communist parties in every country continued to exist. After the war was over, the leaders of both parties emerged from Moscow, each taking his place at the head of his national party Dimitrov in Bulgaria, Togliattri in Italy, Thorez in France, Pieck in Germany and so on everywhere. Most of the members of the Comintern appeared as active workers in trade union movements all over the world, including the United States. The American representative of the Comintern, Earl Browder, was expelled from his party but found employment as a Soviet book agent.

The equivalent of the Third International appeared in the form of the World Federation of Trade Unions, the American constituent of which is the C. I. O. The American Federation of Labor declined to join this body on the ground that it is Communist-dominated.

Congressman Dondero of Michigan rightly made the point:

". . . Let us look at the record, which is significant because never in is brief career has the W.F.T.U. uttered a single word of criticism of the policies of the Soviet Government or of labor and working conditions either in Russia or countries under its control."

In all the agitational activities of the W.F.T.U., a definite anti-American position has been taken. Always when "Pravda" attacks the United States on a given policy, the W.F.T.U. attacts the United States. For instance, Benoit Frachon, secretary of the French General Federation of Labor, W.F.T.U. affiliate, said:

"These men (A. F. of L. officials) are ardent interventionists on the side of the cavaliers of the atomic bomb. They are protagonists of a new war, provided its purpose is an attack on the Soviet Union and the European democracies that don't care for the kings of the dollar and the men of the trusts to dictate their form of government."

Yet, the United Nations recognizes this organization, providing it office space at its headquarters, and the American authorities permit its representatives to operate in the American zone in Germany and in Japan.

Matthew Woll, on behalf of the American Federation of Labor, protested to Secretary of War Patterson last March against authorizing a mission of the W.F.T.U. to Japan and Korea. It seems as though General MacArthur had, at first, agreed to the mission, but that subsequently decided against it. The reason Mr. Patterson gave for permitting this Communistic, anti-American mission to visit Japan and Korea does not seem to add up to much, but here it is:

Inasmuch as the mission had already toured Europe, it was considered unwise to refuse the group the privileges of studying the problems in Japan and Korea which might be related to any complete consideration of world problems. Further, all the members of the W.F.T.U. mission are representatives of governments which have representation on the Far Eastern Commission, the international organization which formulates policy for the occupation of Japan, and the W.F.T.U. has been recognized by the United Nations."

Matthew Woll replied:

"Your letter has failed to answer any of the objections raised by the A. F. of L. against the W. F. T. U. mission to Japan. Nor have you given any valid reason for overruling General MacArthur, who is on the scene and who has dealt with Japanese problems in an admirable manner—conducive to the best interests of the American people, the development of democracy in Japan, and the cause of lasting world peace.

"It is entirely incomprehensible to us why our War Department should hasten to grant special privileges to the W.F.T.U., which has continuously waged an unwarranted campaign against the United States and has assiduously spread every calumny emanating from the Kremlin against our Nation's domestic and foreign policies . . ."

He added:

"You further state that all members of the W.F.T.U. mission are representatives of governments which have representatives on the Far Eastern Commission. The W. F.T.U. is not an intergovernmental organization. It claims to be an international labor organization. According to your statement, the American member of the W. F. T. U. delegation is a representative of the United States Government. We deny that this is so. Who chooses him? . . ."

And so, the W. F. T. U. goes its course, aided and abetted by the War Department in the interest of world Communism.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Be A Searcher!

Things that just fall into our laps are rarely appreciated at their real worth—but those things for which we search, anxiously, and which entail struggle, or sacrifice, become a vital part of us when gained.

The joy of the rare book collector is in the search. That is why the collector with small means is so much happier in his hobby than the one who has the means to buy what comes to his notice, without search, or the thrill of discovery.

The naturalist who tramps the fields, swamps, and all outdoors to discover varieties of birds and flowers, gains from such a search far more than the mere reader who sits in a stodgy study and reads about such searches. For hours the former may sit and study, with his field glasses, the movements and habits of a bird—almost conversing with it—as perhaps he does in his mind and heart.

Columbus searched for a new way to what he thought was to be India—and, behold, he discovered a pair of continents! There is always something very stirring to the soul in a search. The unexpected is always turning up. Surprises punctuate one's patience and constantly contribute rewards that delight and please.

Every lover of books is forever searching for something that will add to his love of fine writing. A friend calls and the talk is of books, and we jot down the names of writers and of books that we have never heard about—and the happy search begins!

Coming into a strange town, one often feels a touch of loneliness, but there are always many things about every town or city that are most interesting. To search them out is, in itself, an antidote for loneliness, and often an affection for that place is initiated by what the search produces.

If we search out the happy things of life, the unhappy things recede. And it pays in more ways than one to search for the good in people, and not the bad!

Time For Teamwork On Our Economic Policy

Two recent statements issued by groups of business leaders differ somewhat on how much responsibility business men should assume for solving the price problem.

The committee on economic policy of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States says it is "clearly misleading" to put the blame for current prices solely on business men or to expect that they alone can bring prices down.

The business committee of the National Planning Association—not otherwise identified—headed by Beardsley Ruml, declares that "it is squarely up to business men" to lead the country out of the present situation because they are the risk-takers and to them "the public logically looks for risk-taking."

Actually, the two statements are not far apart. The NPA business committee says that "other economic groups must cooperate if readjustment is to be carried through" while the Chamber of Commerce is on record to the effect that price cuts should be made wherever possible. Both groups would agree, if brought together, that labor and agriculture and government and business should work together to achieve economic stabilization.

Ruml has pointed out some of the things government might do to help. It could stage a food conservation campaign, encourage greater labor productivity and lower tax rates. It is equally true that labor could examine more carefully the effect of wage increases and farmers could look critically at present government farm policy.

The chamber's committee on economic policy is right in pointing to the "underlying forces" behind the present price level. What the nation needs is a concerted effort to correct them.

Democracy In Japan Advanced By Gen. MacArthur

With world attention directed mainly to the difficult problem of restoring order and peace in Europe, the progress made by General Douglas MacArthur in re-ordering the affairs of Japan has not received the full measure of general appreciation it has rated.

Admiral Louis E. Denfield, commander-in-chief of the Pacific area, who has just returned from a tour of Pacific bases and Japan, voiced amazement at the way General MacArthur "has that place running and everybody happy." Admiral Denfield attributed to General MacArthur the statement that, if a plebiscite were now taken, 90 per cent of the Japanese would vote to have Japan become a United States territory.

Even if this reported viewpoint of General MacArthur were subjected to liberal discount, the reconstruction of Japan has become an impressive enough story to warrant considerable gratification on the part of the Allied supreme commander as well as the American people. It hardly would be an overstatement to observe that the Japanese people thus far have taken to the introduction of the orderly democratic process as agreeably as ducks to water.

Certainly the reconstruction program of Japan has proceeded with steady and smooth effectiveness, in striking contrast to obstructive developments in Allied handling of the affairs of Europe.

The American people hardly would want Japan as a territory, but such a conception would be welcomed as a "natural" by Russia if the reds were in control of Japan's postwar destiny. That the Japanese people would be opposed to assimilation by the Soviet is obvious. Their status as a natural protege of democracy might well be envied by various peoples of Europe and Asia who have found the hug of the bear too oppressive for comfort—if not for survival.

Marine Corps Precious To American History

Any move that would destroy the identity of the United States Marine Corps will arouse nationwide protests. The Marine Corps has fought too frequently and too effectively for the national honor to be lost in a program that proposes a merger of the Army and Navy.

In the vagueness of the proposed bill which is supposed to merge the armed forces nearly everything is left to executive order. The Marine Corps, as one Washington reporter emphasizes, which has hitherto enjoyed the protection of a statutory definition of its role and mission, could be abolished overnight if the pending bill is passed.

The Marine Corps was formed by the Continental Congress November 10, 1775, and was made a permanent organization in 1789. It has served vallantly and heroically ever since, "from the halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli." The United States Marines have preserved a tradition "on the land as on the sea" that is too precious to American histor to be lost now.

Congress surely will keep this unit in mind when it comes to a final consideration of the merger proposal.

The "Miracle"

Whatever danger there may have been of the sort of raging smallpox epidemic which formerly decimated whole populations seems to have waned in New York City. This feat has been accomplished with a minimum of fuss and hysteria, thanks to the ready co-operation of the public and the remarkable efficiency of doctors, public health officers and suppliers of vaccine in meeting the huge demand.

In New York City alone, 5,500,000 persons have been vaccinated since the outbreak was reported—a remarkable achievement. In nearby areas the number was also enormous. It will never be known how many lives have been saved and how many millions of dollars have been saved by this prompt response to warnings.

What is known is that the outbreak was confined to 12 cases in the New York City area, and that only two of these resulted in death. That, as the city's health commissioner said, was something of a "miracle." If this is an unconventional "miracle," it is because it is known how it was performed.

The old Cheyenne-Deadwood stage coach will be revived for one run, as a stunt to advertise a movie, carrying spare horses in auto trailers. The old-timers will never know what they missed by being born too soon.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

HEART VALVE INFECTION

HEART disease is a handicap but, considering the number of persons afflicted only a small percentage can be classified as invalids. Even so, much leeway is given for, while strenuous exercise is forbidden, ordinary walking is tolerated.

Such restrictions are not difficult for grownups, but youngsters frequently find them a hardship. Boys and girls have the urge to run and jump and it is not easy to keep them down. Thru training and reasoning, however, much can be accomplished so that many can participate in certain sports without damage to the cardiac apparatus.

But curbing physical activities in order to reduce strain is only one factor. Great care must be taken to avoid infections. Colds, bronchitis, and pneumonia often increase the pulse rate and in so doing, throw an extra burden on the old ticker. This is particularly true with individuals who have had rheumatic fever which left the heart valves impaired. They cannot affort to suffer additional bouts particularly of the malady that brought on rheumatic fever in the first place.

In the past, one of the most dreaded complications of heart trouble was subacute bacterial endocarditis. Those with leakage (murmur) seem to be most susceptible altho its occurrence in other cardiac disorders has been noted. The streptococcus is the usual offender and takes delight in attacking structures which were previously injured. The organisms pounce upon the valves and produce a crumbly, cauliflowerlike lesion which is so fragile that pieces are continuously breaking off into the vital fluid. With each stroke of the pumping organ they are sent elsewhere in the body. Since the fragments teem with microorganisms, blood poisoning occurs.

The streptococcus generally gains entrance during a respiratory infection or inflammation elsewhere. This is another reason why the physician stresses the importance of colds in heart patients and demands that they be treated adequately. Occasionally invasion follows extraction of a tooth which explains why penicillin is recommended when these individuals are about to have extensive dental work performed.

Bacterial endocarditis usually starts without warning and before long the victim is aware of increasing fatigue and weight loss. The temperature rises every afternoon, rarely more than a degree or two. In time, symptoms become so severe that the physician is consulted and, after studying the blood, the diagnosis is established.

Prior to 1942, practically every sufferer died. When the sulfonamides were first introduced, the medical profession thought they might have a weapon to counteract this affliction as at first the effect of the chemicals was so encouraging. But the separations only prolonged life and ultimately all, with the exception of a case here and there, succumbed. Penicillin proved to be the answer and, if large doses are used, seven out of every 10 case can be saved. Such results are startling especially when we remember that only a few years ago the outcome was always fatal.

CARDIAC DISTURBANCE

R.M. writes: What is meant by a heart block?

REPLY

A condition affecting the electrical impulses of the heart, so that they are delayed or prevented from reaching their destination. There are many types—some innocent and others more serious. The physician has various ways of combating the abnormality.

SPASMS OF GULLET

Mrs. H.H. writes: Is cardiospasm serious?

REPLY

No, but it hurts. Its importance lies in the fact that the symptom mimics more harmful conditions, which means that a correct diagnosis must be made.

Byrnes And Secretary Marshall, Once Rivals, Break Bread Together; Truman's Re-Election Affected By Greek Aid Success; How U. S. Can Revamp Greece

Program For Greece

Now that President Truman has been voted his money for Greece and Turkey, he faces the all-important question of exactly how he will spend it. Upon this largely depend two things:

And even though my Republican friends may suspect me of trying to help reelect Harry Truman, here are some of my own ideas on how Harry can spend our money so as to get 100 cents out of each of our 250,000,000 Greek relief dollars:

Pearson's Program For Greece

1. Use the King of Greece as MacArthur has used the Emperor of Japan. Let the King write the decrees, but let the United States guide his pen—and guide it most carefully.

2. Forget the State Department's mid-Victorian idea that we are not going to interfere with the sovereignty of the Greek Government, and instead lead the Greek Government—by the nose, though through the King—almost every step of the way. Otherwise we will be up to our necks in the crookedest, smelliest dictatorship that ever fouled the dictator-polluted Balkans.

3. Don't waste money on the Greek army. They don't need any more weapons of hate with which to kill civilians. And they can't bring the guerrillas down from the hills, even with more weapons.

4. Grant immediate amnesty to all political prisoners and exiles—with an American guarantee behind it. This American guarantee should attract all the rebels down from the hills, except the Communists who are relatively small in number.

5. Use most of the American cash to rebuild the key ports of Salonika, Piraeus, and the railroad bridges. This will both give employment and get the trade of Greece back on its feet. If this can be done in a single year, private banks or the World Bank can go in the second year with ordinary business loans to finance the rest of Greek reconstruction.

If, on the other hand, U. S. dollars are squandered on arms, plus goods which only bolster the ruling Royalists and eventually reach the black market, then Greece will be back asking for more dough one year hence.

6. Make sure the British forego their previous private loans to Greece. British bankers, charging interest at around fifteen percent, formerly drained a heavy portion of the Greek budget.

7. Ask the United Nations to appoint observers to work with us and report back to the UN on everything we do. This should partially offset the slap in the face we gave the United Nations by going ahead with Greek aid independently. It should also prepare for eventual taking over by the UN.

8. Finally, appoint—through the King—a new coalition cabinet representing all political factions except the Communists and Fascists. The Fascists who collaborated with the Germans and who are now represented in the cabinet, must be punished. A Democratic, middle-of-the-road cabinet is the only hope to lift the one-time cradle of democracy out of its prsent slough of anti-democracy.

Taft Gets Religion

Republican colleagues have been chuckling about the way Ohio's Senator Bob Taft apparently "got religion" after the Senate unexpectedly smacked down the labor bill amendment to restrict industry-wide collective bargaining.

At a closed-door GOP caucus the next day, Taft suddenly began talking almost like a New Dealer, even taking issue with Freshman Senator James P. Kem of Missouri when Kem uncorked a wordy diatribe against the Democratic Administration of his fellow Missourian.

What's more, Taft served notice that he would expedite action on his long-range public housing bill—which he has been soft-pedalling—and that he would also push teachers' salary increases.

Indirect Labor Troubles And Powers Leaders Use Reviewed

By MARK SULLIVAN

A few weeks ago this writer's secretary asked a grocery she had long patronized for a loaf of bread of a brand she favored. It is a special kind of bread using unbleached flour ground in old-fashioned grist mills, the dough kneeded by hand, and selling at a price which takes it out of competition with ordinary bread. She was told that the grocery no longer carried this bread, that it had been dropped because of protest by a local bakery union. This small personal deprivation suffered by one bread-buyer has a relation to mighty events. It was an illustration of an aspect of labor relations which at this moment is one of the most hotly disputed points in the labor legislation pending in Congress.

The bread, called "Pepperidge Farm", is made at Norwalk, Connecticut. In Washington some 60 groceries carried it. About the action of the local union which caused the bread to be dropped from Washington shelves, there is some disagreement. According to union officials they merely asked local grocers to stop selling the bread. According to one grocer, whose account does not materially vary from others, union representatives seeing the bread on the shelves said: "You are to stop selling this bread; sell what you have on the shelves but don't order any more."

Union Recedes From Protest

To a reporter of the Washington Star an official of the bakery union said: "There is nothing new about this. For many years we have been trying to stop the sale of all kinds of bakery goods made in non-union shops through the country. Some products from about 40 non-union companies from Maine to Louisiana are still being sold here to some extent. We always protest and our protests usually are enough."

Customers complained to the grocers, and grocers complained to the union. They pointed out that no Washington bakery made bread of this particular type. After some weeks the union receded from its position and said the grocers could resume selling the bread until Washington bakers made an equivalent one.

In this case the manufacturer had no strike of its own nor threat of strike nor any kind of labor trouble. It is a comparatively small plant with only some hundred employees, it was a non-union plant and the workers were content. But the manufacturer was deprived of selling a portion of its output by action of a union in a city some 300 miles away. What could be done by a union in one city could be done by a union in any city.

Peril From Many Angles

So much for that one Washington incident. But over thousands of manufacturers, especially small ones, hangs a peril from many kinds of labor trouble which have no connection with the manufacturer himself but arise indirectly. These indirect labor troubles fall into categories spoken of in the pending Congressional debate as secondary boycotts, sympathy strikes, jurisdictional strikes, and the like. An indirect labor trouble arising in the area called industry-wide bargaining, was described by Senator Taft. During the steel strike last year workers in several small plants in Ohio did not want to strike but were subject to the discipline of the nation-wide union of steel workers.

These indirect labor troubles and the powers exercised indirectly by labor unions and leaders have been the most hotly debated aspects of the pending labor legislation in Congress. They are subject to intricate argument and there has been much of that. But they call for cure with a special urgency. They bear with especial weight on the small manufacturer and the survival of small business depends on remedy for them.

GOP Makes Remarkable Record In Spite Of Democratic Tactics

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 12—The Republican Congress actually has made a remarkable record to date insofar as expeditious handling of public business is concerned, but the "left wing" press has managed nevertheless to spread the opposite impression.

Not since the reform days of 1913, when a Democratic Congress and administration took over from the Republicans, has there been so comprehensive a job done on organizing the work of Congress and preparing major legislation.

Before the end of June, the Republican congress will have put through a bill liberalizing and readjusting the unbalanced provisions of the Wagner Labor Relations Law, strengthening the mediation service and providing machinery for the settlement of strikes; a bill reducing income taxes; a bill to outlaw the "portal to portal" racket and extortion, and appropriation bills making the first substantial reduction in federal expenses in nearly 14 years.

These accomplishments by themselves would be enough to take up six months of time, but other important bills will have been enacted by July. Legislation has not been completed in a hurry either. Thus exhaustive hearings lasting six weeks were held on the labor bills and plenty of time has been afforded for both sides in the debates in the Senate. The tax bill has also required considerable time for hearings and debate.

GOP Pulled Truman Chestnut

So far as time is concerned, several Democrats have been responsible for consuming no small part of it. Thus it was a Democrat, Senator McKellar of Tennessee, who precipitated the controversy of several weeks over the confirmation of David Lilienthal; and it was the leadership of two Republicans, Senators Hickenlooper of Iowa and Vandenberg of Michigan, which pulled that difficult chestnut out of the fire for the administration.

Likewise it was the Truman Administration which properly enough introduced into the situation the Greek-Turkish legislation which was of a highly controversial character and also the European relief bills. Several Democrats in both Houses, some of them New Dealers, did all they could to take up time and sabotage that legislation.

As for the budget-cutting process, never in all congressional history has there been such a concerted effort by persons in the executive departments to block legislation. President Truman has sat idly by while lobbies of his own personnel in the government departments have used public funds unlawfully to try to defeat economy measures. When the whole story comes out, Mr. Truman's record will be vulnerable, for it was within his power to stop the intrigue and lobbying that was carried on in an attempt to hold appropriations at high levels.

Most perplexing from a time-consuming angle has been the reorganization law passed in the previous session by the Democratic majority. This measure has much merit but it took the Republican congress several weeks to adjust itself to the new committee system. This would have happened if the Democrats had been in power. Delays of this kind were inevitable and had nothing to do with the capacity of the Republican party to govern.

Democrats Attempt "Smear" Campaign

The story that the Republicans have been "dawdling" or "muddling" is one that emanates primarily from Democratic political sources and the "left wing" generally. Anything to "smear" the majority party is considered goot tactics and perhaps there are Republicans now who regret that they didn't indulge more in that sort of thing themselves when they were the minority; but, unfortunately for them, from a political standpoint, the war was on and the call to patriotism then had priority.

The Republican majority is making a meritorious record, but it could not possibly pass the labor and tax bills or cut the budget if it were not for the help of that staunch group of patriotic and courageous senators from the Democratic Party of the south. These men, also the targets of abuse and ridicule by the "left wing" on the radio and in the press, are not allowing party politics or petty calls for so-called "party regularity" to interfere with performance of their duty.

What America has today in reality is not just a Republican congress but a coalition congress in which combining in an effort to rid the government of graft and favoritism in the spending of public money and to eradicate special privilege from governmental boards and the courts.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

W.F.T.U.

After the Third International was nominally abolished, the Communist parties in every country continued to exist. After the war was over, the leaders of both parties emerged from Moscow, each taking his place at the head of his national party Dimitrov in Bulgaria, Togliattri in Italy, Thorez in France, Pieck in Germany and so on everywhere. Most of the members of the Comintern appeared as active workers in trade union movements all over the world, including the United States. The American representative of the Comintern, Earl Browder, was expelled from his party but found employment as a Soviet book agent.

The equivalent of the Third International appeared in the form of the World Federation of Trade Unions, the American constituent of which is the C. I. O. The American Federation of Labor declined to join this body on the ground that it is Communist-dominated.

Congressman Dondero of Michigan rightly made the point:

". . . Let us look at the record, which is significant because never in is brief career has the W.F.T.U. uttered a single word of criticism of the policies of the Soviet Government or of labor and working conditions either in Russia or countries under its control."

In all the agitational activities of the W.F.T.U., a definite anti-American position has been taken. Always when "Pravda" attacks the United States on a given policy, the W.F.T.U. attacts the United States. For instance, Benoit Frachon, secretary of the French General Federation of Labor, W.F.T.U. affiliate, said:

"These men (A. F. of L. officials) are ardent interventionists on the side of the cavaliers of the atomic bomb. They are protagonists of a new war, provided its purpose is an attack on the Soviet Union and the European democracies that don't care for the kings of the dollar and the men of the trusts to dictate their form of government."

Yet, the United Nations recognizes this organization, providing it office space at its headquarters, and the American authorities permit its representatives to operate in the American zone in Germany and in Japan.

Matthew Woll, on behalf of the American Federation of Labor, protested to Secretary of War Patterson last March against authorizing a mission of the W.F.T.U. to Japan and Korea. It seems as though General MacArthur had, at first, agreed to the mission, but that subsequently decided against it. The reason Mr. Patterson gave for permitting this Communistic, anti-American mission to visit Japan and Korea does not seem to add up to much, but here it is:

Inasmuch as the mission had already toured Europe, it was considered unwise to refuse the group the privileges of studying the problems in Japan and Korea which might be related to any complete consideration of world problems. Further, all the members of the W.F.T.U. mission are representatives of governments which have representation on the Far Eastern Commission, the international organization which formulates policy for the occupation of Japan, and the W.F.T.U. has been recognized by the United Nations."

Matthew Woll replied:

"Your letter has failed to answer any of the objections raised by the A. F. of L. against the W. F. T. U. mission to Japan. Nor have you given any valid reason for overruling General MacArthur, who is on the scene and who has dealt with Japanese problems in an admirable manner—conducive to the best interests of the American people, the development of democracy in Japan, and the cause of lasting world peace.

"It is entirely incomprehensible to us why our War Department should hasten to grant special privileges to the W.F.T.U., which has continuously waged an unwarranted campaign against the United States and has assiduously spread every calumny emanating from the Kremlin against our Nation's domestic and foreign policies . . ."

He added:

"You further state that all members of the W.F.T.U. mission are representatives of governments which have representatives on the Far Eastern Commission. The W. F.T.U. is not an intergovernmental organization. It claims to be an international labor organization. According to your statement, the American member of the W. F. T. U. delegation is a representative of the United States Government. We deny that this is so. Who chooses him? . . ."

And so, the W. F. T. U. goes its course, aided and abetted by the War Department in the interest of world Communism.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Be A Searcher!

Things that just fall into our laps are rarely appreciated at their real worth—but those things for which we search, anxiously, and which entail struggle, or sacrifice, become a vital part of us when gained.

The joy of the rare book collector is in the search. That is why the collector with small means is so much happier in his hobby than the one who has the means to buy what comes to his notice, without search, or the thrill of discovery.

The naturalist who tramps the fields, swamps, and all outdoors to discover varieties of birds and flowers, gains from such a search far more than the mere reader who sits in a stodgy study and reads about such searches. For hours the former may sit and study, with his field glasses, the movements and habits of a bird—almost conversing with it—as perhaps he does in his mind and heart.

Columbus searched for a new way to what he thought was to be India—and, behold, he discovered a pair of continents! There is always something very stirring to the soul in a search. The unexpected is always turning up. Surprises punctuate one's patience and constantly contribute rewards that delight and please.

Every lover of books is forever searching for something that will add to his love of fine writing. A friend calls and the talk is of books, and we jot down the names of writers and of books that we have never heard about—and the happy search begins!

Coming into a strange town, one often feels a touch of loneliness, but there are always many things about every town or city that are most interesting. To search them out is, in itself, an antidote for loneliness, and often an affection for that place is initiated by what the search produces.

If we search out the happy things of life, the unhappy things recede. And it pays in more ways than one to search for the good in people, and not the bad!

Advice To The Lovelorn

Continuing An Unsatisfactory Correspondence Senseless

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A year ago I met a very nice boy in uniform, home on furlough, and it was love at first sight.

After he went back, he wrote and asked me to correspond with him, and of course I did. We've been writing to each other ever since. We've had many misunderstandings, but have always managed to make up. But lately, I've been receiving nasty and disappointing letters, and I keep saying I'll stop writing. But if I do quit, I know no one will ever take his place. I'm afraid if things don't turn out the way I dreamed they would be, I could never look at another fellow again.

Please tell me what I should do—quit writing to him, or wait until he comes home so we can talk things over?

"WONDERING"

Dear "Wondering:"

In the first place, as I've said many times before, there is no such thing as love at first sight. You can be very much attracted to a person at a first meeting, and wish very much to get to know that person intimately, but such feelings are not love.

In the second place, even though your dreams in connection with this boy don't materialize, you won't suffer permanently. This may sound like hard-heartedness on my part, and I'm sure you will think me quite wrong, but I am only stating a fact that has been thoroughly proved by experience. Normal human beings simply are not capable of moping over a curdled romance indefinitely. After awhile, in spite of their best intentions to mourn forever, they begin to perk up and take an interest in looking around for a new romance.

So I see no sense in continuing such an unsatisfactory correspondence. Why don't you drop it for awhile and see waht happens?

LET'S HAVE MORE HOME MADE FUN

I believe in fun. I believe that fun is as essential to healthy life as eating or sleeping or working. I believe that anyone who doesn't have his full quota of fun becomes warped and intolerant and misses the real essentials in life.

I will willingly admit that for every amusement making gadget which we possessed in 1890 we have 100 far more complicated devices today. The movies and the theater wait for us around every corner. There's an automobile at almost every curb. We have parties galore and every form of exciting sport. No one is so poor today or so isolated that he need lead a life deprived of fun.

And yet I firmly believe we got more fun out of life back in the 90s and the early part of the 20th century than we are getting today.

It was home made fun of course. Automobiles were still a curiosity. Few of us had ever seen a movie or used an electric light. We wove our fun out of our own imagination—out of the homely companionship of our neighbors, out of the very spirit of fun itself. For fun isn't made by gadgets. It can't be bought. It is something which you must create within your own spirit and it may revolve about the simplest enjoyments.

We used to have quilting parties when I was a young woman. They sound rather colorless now but they were really fun in their time. They not only supplied us with the "comforters" and "quilts" which every household needed in the winter time but they also gave us a chance to get together with each other and laugh and chat and gossip and talk a great deal of foolishness.

The men had their fun too while we were quilting. They pitched horseshoes in the back yard. Pitching horseshoes does not require elaborate equipment. You only need some horseshoes and a stake and you're all set for a riotous an afternoon as you'd wish.

We made our fun when this century was beginning. We made it at home in the quiet evenings when everyone rushes now to a movie or a gin rummy game. The home was poor indeed that didn't possess a small "parlor organ" or upright piano. I do not remember any great musicians amongst my friends but we didn't let a little lack like that cramp our style. Nightly we gathered around the parlor organ and enlivened life with old ballads and hymns.

It was just good fun and we learned to live by ourselves and with our neighbors because of it. Now the telephone begins to jingle about four and if you aren't dated up for at least three cocktail parties by seven you're a sour blank. Well, there may be good fun in cocktail parties. I wouldn't know. I have only seen a couple of them and they weren't very hilarious affairs. But I do know that our old fashioned taffy pulls were hilarious affairs and that you often spent three days getting over their fun if any of the sticky stuff got into your hair.

Picnics too—they were another great standby and I suppose they seem very simple and unsophisticated now. But I've seen more fun at one Sunday School picnic than I've seen at a dozen grand operas.

And the secret of our fun lay in its very simplicity and in our humility. We weren't seeking spectacular thrills. We weren't playing with dangerous fire. We were just enjoying ourselves with the simple means that lay close at hand and we succeeded in getting enough mirthful memories to last us a long lifetime. And heaven knows we needed them.

LET'S HAVE MORE HOME MADE FUN

I believe in fun. I believe that fun is as essential to healthy life as eating or sleeping or working. I believe that anyone who doesn't have his full quota of fun becomes warped and intolerant and misses the real essentials in life.

I will willingly admit that for every amusement making gadget which we possessed in 1890 we have 100 far more complicated devices today. The movies and the theater wait for us around every corner. There's an automobile at almost every curb. We have parties galore and every form of exciting sport. No one is so poor today or so isolated that he need lead a life deprived of fun.

And yet I firmly believe we got more fun out of life back in the 90s and the early part of the 20th century than we are getting today.

It was home made fun of course. Automobiles were still a curiosity. Few of us had ever seen a movie or used an electric light. We wove our fun out of our own imagination—out of the homely companionship of our neighbors, out of the very spirit of fun itself. For fun isn't made by gadgets. It can't be bought. It is something which you must create within your own spirit and it may revolve about the simplest enjoyments.

We used to have quilting parties when I was a young woman. They sound rather colorless now but they were really fun in their time. They not only supplied us with the "comforters" and "quilts" which every household needed in the winter time but they also gave us a chance to get together with each other and laugh and chat and gossip and talk a great deal of foolishness.

The men had their fun too while we were quilting. They pitched horseshoes in the back yard. Pitching horseshoes does not require elaborate equipment. You only need some horseshoes and a stake and you're all set for a riotous an afternoon as you'd wish.

We made our fun when this century was beginning. We made it at home in the quiet evenings when everyone rushes now to a movie or a gin rummy game. The home was poor indeed that didn't possess a small "parlor organ" or upright piano. I do not remember any great musicians amongst my friends but we didn't let a little lack like that cramp our style. Nightly we gathered around the parlor organ and enlivened life with old ballads and hymns.

It was just good fun and we learned to live by ourselves and with our neighbors because of it. Now the telephone begins to jingle about four and if you aren't dated up for at least three cocktail parties by seven you're a sour blank. Well, there may be good fun in cocktail parties. I wouldn't know. I have only seen a couple of them and they weren't very hilarious affairs. But I do know that our old fashioned taffy pulls were hilarious affairs and that you often spent three days getting over their fun if any of the sticky stuff got into your hair.

Picnics too—they were another great standby and I suppose they seem very simple and unsophisticated now. But I've seen more fun at one Sunday School picnic than I've seen at a dozen grand operas.

And the secret of our fun lay in its very simplicity and in our humility. We weren't seeking spectacular thrills. We weren't playing with dangerous fire. We were just enjoying ourselves with the simple means that lay close at hand and we succeeded in getting enough mirthful memories to last us a long lifetime. And heaven knows we needed them.

Get Welcome Relief From Stomach Gas, Sour Food Taste
Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal? If so, here is how you may rid yourself of this nervous distress. Thousands have found it the way to be well, cheerful and happy again.
Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.
To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.
Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.
Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Bunching three triples with a base on balls, a sacrifice and an error for four runs in the sixth inning, Fort Hill High School's Sentinels shattered the seven-game winning streak of LaSalle High School by defeating the Explorers yesterday on the Fort Hill diamond by the score of 6 to 2.

It was an even-Stephen battle between the city's top pitchers and strikeout artists—Bob Doman and Pat Creegan—until Jimmie Manges started things with a three-base blow to right to open the sixth inning and came home on Charley Lattimer's squeeze bunt which Creegan fumbled long enough to enable the batsman to reach first. Then Ronnie Cage tagged Creegan for a mighty triple past Reissig and up the bank in deep right field, scoring Lattimer.

Jimmie Eckard worked Creegan for a pass and pilfered second. With the hot corner and the keystone hassock occupied with mates, Doman belted the third three bagger of the inning past Reissig and two more runs trickled over the platter. Creegan finally stopped the slugging Sentinels out by whiffing Dick and Dean.

Score In First Inning

LaSalle scored two runs in the first inning on Jimmie Collins' triple, Close's walk and stolen base, Reissig's infield out, Esposito's walk and stolen base and a wild throw by "Bub" Frye.

Fort Hill came back in its half of the inning to knot the count at 2-2 on Milford Dean's pass and stolen base, a wild throw by Deffenbaugh, Reissig's three-base muff of Manges' fly and Frye's scorching three-base clout that sailed over the bank in centerfield.

LaSalle filled the bases in the fifth on two walks and an infield error but Doman pitched himself out of a hole by firing the third strike past Reissig.

Doman Fans Eleven

In notching his fifth straight triumph of the season, Doman struck out 11 batsmen, boosting his season's total to 61 in 32 innings. It was Creegan's first loss after a four-game winning streak. He whiffed eight to boost his season's total to 46 in 34 innings.

Frye played "heads-up" ball for Fort Hill, starting two double plays and throwing out a runner who attempted to steal third base.

Jimmie Collins was the only player to obtain more than one hit. He garnered two of the four made by the Explorers.

The victory was Fort Hill's second straight in intra-city competition. LaSalle has won one and lost one and AHS has suffered two losses.

By losing LaSalle gave over first place in the Tri-County League to undefeated Beall High School.

Today Fort Hill is host to Paw Paw High School at 4 p. m., daylight time. Paw Paw is on standard time. Glen Burke will pitch for the Sentinels.

LaSalle is scheduled to play Beall High School at 3:30 p. m. in Frostburg. Box:

Pep Well, Airy Set New Records

7,500 See Opening Races At The Graw

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., May 12 (AP) — Two stablemates of Calumet Farm's Faultless, winner of Saturday's Preakness, maintained the string's blistering pace today at Havre De Grace by posting a pair of new track records.

Pep Well cracked the mark for six furlongs by winning the $10,000-added Philadelphia Handicap, feature attraction, shortly after Airy, a two-year-old filly making her first start, closed with a rush to win the five-furlong opening event with another record performance.

A crowd of some 7,500 persons came out for the initial day of the second spring meeting at "The Graw," and the 80 degree temperature wasn't the only thing hot at this course along the Susquehanna river.

Jockey Al Snider rode three winners—both Pep Well and Airy, as well as Bill Rose in the second—to account for the daily double.

Pep Well defeated Shamrock Stable's Air Patrol by a neck in the main event, with William G. Helis' Rippey another length away in the show spot. The four-year-old son of Boswell—Some Pep was clocked in 1:10 1-5, knocking a fifth of a second off the mark held jointly by Brookfield, Black Gang, and Air Patrol.

In the first race, Airy closed with great speed to win over Itsabet by three and a half lengths in 58 3-5 seconds and shatter a 35-year-old record. Hobnob established the mark of 59 seconds in 1912. The year Havre De Grace was opened. Smajor was the show horse behind Itsabet.

Nine competed in the Philadelphia Cap, while there were 11 juvenile maidens in the opener.

Pep Well had top weight of 123 pounds, and when Trainer Jimmy Jones shipped the Calumet string here from Pimlico Saturday he was uncertain whether to start him because of the poundage. He paid off at $12.40 to $2 in the mutuels, many bettors laying off because of the high impost. The victory was worth $8,960.

Airy was the favorite, and paid $5.80 for $2.

Homer By Rudy York Sparks Late Rally

BOSTON, May 12 (AP) — For seven innings today the home run bats of the New York Yankees kept the Boston Red Sox in check but Rudy York, first man up in the eighth for the Sox, drove one of Spud Chandler's pitches over the centerfield wall and the Bostonians went on from there for a 4-3 verdict

Prior to that the Yankees, ending their worst road trip in 22 years, had counted in the fourth on George McQuinn's homer, in the sixth on a smash by Yogi Berra in the seventh on a four-base knock by Chandler.

Harry Dean's double that scored three runs in the sixth inning enabled the Astor Cab Company to come from behind and nose out the Cumberland Amvets by the score of 7 to 6 in a City Softball League battle yesterday at Community Park.

The setback knocked the Amvets out of the undefeated class and resulted in a three-way tie for first place, Astor, Amvets and Lacey's Delicatets each having won three games and lost one.

The Cabbies gathered ten hits, three of which were credited to Bill Wisegarver and two to Bill Dean. Lou Bell and Dougherty shared half of the Amvets' eight bingles.

Behind the five-hit pitching of Jim Roby, Lacy Cifala's Delicatets defeated the Concord Clothiers at Community Park by the score of 12 to 2. The winners played errorless ball afield and were credited with making ten hits.

"Red" Whitman's triple with two aboard in the last of the seventh and final inning gave the Maccabees a 13 to 12 decision over John H. Reed's Electricians at East Side Field. Breedlove paced the victors at the plate with three hits while Aman, Whitman and Hobrock rapped out two safeties each. Minnicks and Brown each hit safely three times for the losers.

Scoring six runs in the final stanza, the Veterans of Foreign Wars turned a close battle into a decisive victory over the Virginia Avenue Merchants at Community Park. The score was 10-4.

VFW held a 4-3 lead going into the last inning.

Foreman, Rowan and J. Morrissey, of the Vets, and Morgan and Lisanti of the Merchants, banged out two hits each.

Barbara Ann Scott Returns Automobile

OTTAWA, May 12 (AP)—Tears in her eyes, Barbara Ann Scott today handed back to Mayor Stanley Lewis the keys to the canary-colored phaeton a grateful city had given her for winning the world figure-skating championship.

Her chances of preserving her amateur status and competing in the 1948 Olympic Games were presumably enhanced by the move, but it was heartbreaking for the capital's 19-year-old sweetheart.

The controversy over Miss Scott's car began a week ago when Avery Brundage, chairman of the United States Olympic committee disclosed at Santa Barbara, Calif., that he had sent information to international Olympic headquarters on the fact that the gift had been made.

Tar Heels' Gridder Dies In Auto Crash

DURHAM, N. C., May 12 (AP)—Bill "Cotton" Sutherland, a University of North Carolina football player, was killed and five companions were injured last night when an automobile ran off a highway three miles south of Chapel Hill.

Sutherland, a 23-year-old blocking back on North Carolina's Southern Conference Champions, had won his letter with the Tar Heels the last two years. His home was in Laurinburg, N. C.

NEW YORK, May 12 — (AP) — Al Pinel, New Bedford, Mass., middleweight, had to be carried from the ring at St. Nicholas Arena tonight after being knocked out at 1:31 of the first round of a scheduled six round fight with George Small of Brooklyn. Pinel's right leg was paralyzed and he was taken from the ring on a stretcher.

Later, a state athletic commission physician who examined Pinel said he was out of denver and had suffered only temporary paralysis.

Dodgers Replace Boston's Braves In Second Place

Brooklyn Wins, 8-3; Torgeson Hits Homer

BROOKLYN, May 12—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers ousted the Boston Braves from second place in the National League today by trouncing the Braves, 8-3 in the circuit's only encounter.

The game was highlighted by a Dodger run-in with Plate Umpire George Magerkurth in the second frame over his ball and strike decisions and resulted in the clearing of the Dodger bench of everyone except Manager Burt Shotten, Coach Jake Pitler and Infielder Cookie Lavagetto.

Rookie First Sacker Earl Torgeson of the Braves, continued his heavy slugging by driving in all of his team's runs on a double and a two-run ninth inning four-bagger, his seventh of the season. Box:

Campers Get 22 Hits, Win By Score Of 22-5

Coach Hubert Radcliffe's Allegany High School swatsmiths racked up 22 hits yesterday to crush Keyser High School by the score of 22 to 5 at Campobello. It was the fifth triumph of the season for the Campers.

Sixteen Allegany players were used in the game while on even dozen Keyserites say action.

Jimmy Lease with two homers, a double and single and Harry Widdows with a double and three singles paced by AHS offensive. One of Lease's circuit belts was over the centerfield fence and the other clout traveled to deep right field.

Don Lewis, making his first appearance in the AHS lineup, had a perfect day at bat with a homer, double and single. Bob Fennell helped himself to a homer, double and single.

Emery obtained two of the five hits yielded by Harry Widdows. The latter struck out 12 batsmen. Jack Klosterman pitched the last inning for the Campers.

Today at 4 p. m., at Campobello, Allegany will play host to Hyndman (Pa.) High School in a Tri-County League game. Tom Jamison is slated to twirl for the locals. Allegany plays at Paw Paw Wednesday and at Keyser Thursday. Box: for the Campers.

Bunching three triples with a base on balls, a sacrifice and an error for four runs in the sixth inning, Fort Hill High School's Sentinels shattered the seven-game winning streak of LaSalle High School by defeating the Explorers yesterday on the Fort Hill diamond by the score of 6 to 2.

It was an even-Stephen battle between the city's top pitchers and strikeout artists—Bob Doman and Pat Creegan—until Jimmie Manges started things with a three-base blow to right to open the sixth inning and came home on Charley Lattimer's squeeze bunt which Creegan fumbled long enough to enable the batsman to reach first. Then Ronnie Cage tagged Creegan for a mighty triple past Reissig and up the bank in deep right field, scoring Lattimer.

Jimmie Eckard worked Creegan for a pass and pilfered second. With the hot corner and the keystone hassock occupied with mates, Doman belted the third three bagger of the inning past Reissig and two more runs trickled over the platter. Creegan finally stopped the slugging Sentinels out by whiffing Dick and Dean.

Score In First Inning

LaSalle scored two runs in the first inning on Jimmie Collins' triple, Close's walk and stolen base, Reissig's infield out, Esposito's walk and stolen base and a wild throw by "Bub" Frye.

Fort Hill came back in its half of the inning to knot the count at 2-2 on Milford Dean's pass and stolen base, a wild throw by Deffenbaugh, Reissig's three-base muff of Manges' fly and Frye's scorching three-base clout that sailed over the bank in centerfield.

LaSalle filled the bases in the fifth on two walks and an infield error but Doman pitched himself out of a hole by firing the third strike past Reissig.

Doman Fans Eleven

In notching his fifth straight triumph of the season, Doman struck out 11 batsmen, boosting his season's total to 61 in 32 innings. It was Creegan's first loss after a four-game winning streak. He whiffed eight to boost his season's total to 46 in 34 innings.

Frye played "heads-up" ball for Fort Hill, starting two double plays and throwing out a runner who attempted to steal third base.

Jimmie Collins was the only player to obtain more than one hit. He garnered two of the four made by the Explorers.

The victory was Fort Hill's second straight in intra-city competition. LaSalle has won one and lost one and AHS has suffered two losses.

By losing LaSalle gave over first place in the Tri-County League to undefeated Beall High School.

Today Fort Hill is host to Paw Paw High School at 4 p. m., daylight time. Paw Paw is on standard time. Glen Burke will pitch for the Sentinels.

LaSalle is scheduled to play Beall High School at 3:30 p. m. in Frostburg. Box:

Pep Well, Airy Set New Records

7,500 See Opening Races At The Graw

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., May 12 (AP) — Two stablemates of Calumet Farm's Faultless, winner of Saturday's Preakness, maintained the string's blistering pace today at Havre De Grace by posting a pair of new track records.

Pep Well cracked the mark for six furlongs by winning the $10,000-added Philadelphia Handicap, feature attraction, shortly after Airy, a two-year-old filly making her first start, closed with a rush to win the five-furlong opening event with another record performance.

A crowd of some 7,500 persons came out for the initial day of the second spring meeting at "The Graw," and the 80 degree temperature wasn't the only thing hot at this course along the Susquehanna river.

Jockey Al Snider rode three winners—both Pep Well and Airy, as well as Eill Rose in the second—to account for the daily double.

Pep Well defeated Shamrock Stable's Air Patrol by a neck in the main event, with William G. Helis' Rippey another length away in the show spot. The four-year-old son of Boswell—Some Pep was clocked in 1:10 1-5, knocking a fifth of a second off the mark held jointly by Brookfield, Black Gang, and Air Patrol.

In the first race, Airy closed with great speed to win over Itsabet by three and a half lengths in 58 3-5 seconds and shatter a 35-year-old record. Hobnob established the mark of 59 seconds in 1912. The year Havre De Grace was opened. Smajor was the show horse behind Itsabet.

Nine competed in the Philadelphia Cap, while there were 11 juvenile maidens in the opener.

Pep Well had top weight of 123 pounds, and when Trainer Jimmy Jones shipped the Calumet string here from Pimlico Saturday he was uncertain whether to start him because of the poundage. He paid off at $12.40 to $2 in the mutuels, many bettors laying off because of the high impost. The victory was worth $8,960.

Airy was the favorite, and paid $5.80 for $2.

Boston Red Sox Nose Out Yanks By Score Of 4-3

Homer By Rudy York Sparks Late Rally

BOSTON, May 12 (AP) — For seven innings today the home run bats of the New York Yankees kept the Boston Red Sox in check but Rudy York, first man up in the eighth for the Sox, drove one of Spud Chandler's pitches over the centerfield wall and the Bostonians went on from there for a 4-3 verdict

Prior to that the Yankees, ending their worst road trip in 22 years, had counted in the fourth on George McQuinn's homer, in the sixth on a smash by Yogi Berra in the seventh on a four-base knock by Chandler.

Harry Dean's double that scored three runs in the sixth inning enabled the Astor Cab Company to come from behind and nose out the Cumberland Amvets by the score of 7 to 6 in a City Softball League battle yesterday at Community Park.

The setback knocked the Amvets out of the undefeated class and resulted in a three-way tie for first place, Astor, Amvets and Lacey's Delicatets each having won three games and lost one.

The Cabbies gathered ten hits, three of which were credited to Bill Wisegarver and two to Bill Dean. Lou Bell and Dougherty shared half of the Amvets' eight bingles.

Behind the five-hit pitching of Jim Roby, Lacy Cifala's Delicatets defeated the Concord Clothiers at Community Park by the score of 12 to 2. The winners played errorless ball afield and were credited with making ten hits.

"Red" Whitman's triple with two aboard in the last of the seventh and final inning gave the Maccabees a 13 to 12 decision over John H. Reed's Electricians at East Side Field. Breedlove paced the victors at the plate with three hits while Aman, Whitman and Hobrock rapped out two safeties each. Minnicks and Brown each hit safely three times for the losers.

Scoring six runs in the final stanza, the Veterans of Foreign Wars turned a close battle into a decisive victory over the Virginia Avenue Merchants at Community Park. The score was 10-4.

VFW held a 4-3 lead going into the last inning.

Foreman, Rowan and J. Morrissey, of the Vets, and Morgan and Lisanti of the Merchants, banged out two hits each.

Barbara Ann Scott Returns Automobile

OTTAWA, May 12 (AP)—Tears in her eyes, Barbara Ann Scott today handed back to Mayor Stanley Lewis the keys to the canary-colored phaeton a grateful city had given her for winning the world figure-skating championship.

Her chances of preserving her amateur status and competing in the 1948 Olympic Games were presumably enhanced by the move, but it was heartbreaking for the capital's 19-year-old sweetheart.

The controversy over Miss Scott's car began a week ago when Avery Brundage, chairman of the United States Olympic committee disclosed at Santa Barbara, Calif., that he had sent information to international Olympic headquarters on the fact that the gift had been made.

BROOKLYN, May 12—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers ousted the Boston Braves from second place in the National League today by trouncing the Braves, 8-3 in the circuit's only encounter.

The game was highlighted by a Dodger run-in with Plate Umpire George Magerkurth in the second frame over his ball and strike decisions and resulted in the clearing of the Dodger bench of everyone except Manager Burt Shotten, Coach Jake Pitler and Infielder Cookie Lavagetto.

Rookie First Sacker Earl Torgeson of the Braves, continued his heavy slugging by driving in all of his team's runs on a double and a two-run ninth inning four-bagger, his seventh of the season. Box:

MARINE GROUP PLANS MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Plans for a tri-state membership drive were made at a special meeting last night of Francis K. Finan Detachment, Marine Corps League, with Commandant Ralph Patch presiding.

Patch said that all Marine veterans of Cumberland and neighboring communities in Allegany and Garrett Counties, Pennsylvania and West Virginia are invited to visit league headquarters, 120 South Mechanic Street, whether or not they are members. After the end of this month, however, admission to the club will be by membership card only, he added. The club is open from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m. and from 5 p. m. until midnight on weekdays.

Francis K. Finan Detachment, which was organized a year and a half ago, was the first formed in the state and has the most members, with a membership of 110. Other detachments are located in Hagerstown and Baltimore. Patch said it is hoped that state headquarters of the Marine Corps League will be located in Cumberland.

A regular meeting will be held next Monday, May 19, at 8 p. m., and the Ladies Auxiliary will meet the following evening, Tuesday, May 20.

Honorably discharged veterans of the regular Marine Corps or the reserve, as well as Marines in active service, are eligible to join whether they served in war or peacetime.

Two Men Fined; Woman Forfeits

Two men booked as A. E. Jeffreys, 218 Glenn Street, and Joseph Stakem, Midland, were fined $10 each and a woman identified as Eleanor C. Elliott, Frostburg, forfeited $10 bond yesterday in Police Court on disorderly conduct charges.

Jeffreys' wife, according to police, said she saw her husband and a woman "rolling around on a couch" in his shop early Sunday morning and summonded police. Stakem was in the building at the time, police said they were told.

Jeffreys denied the assusation, police declared, but his 13-year-old daughter verified her mother's statement. Jeffreys told Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., he called police after his wife threw a brick through the window.

Harold Robinson, this city, was fined $10 for allegedly creating a disturbance at the home of his mother-in-law, Sunday afternoon.

Council Suspends Old Ditch Ruling For Water Line

At the suggestion of City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, the Mayor and Council yesterday agreed to suspend a 1922 ordinance pertaining to shoring of ditches over four feet deep in connection with a second water line from Lake Gordon to the city.

Rizer contended the ordinance would add from 20 to 40 per cent to the cost of the job, maintaining that new methods of digging ditches and laying pipe on a job of such nature do not call for shoring.

Pointing out that the ordinance resulted from a disaster on Fort Hill when several men were killed, City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett admitted the measure would add cost to the water line but opposed outright repeal of the law.

A Constitution Park concession contract with Anton Anthony at $250 was renewed for one year.

Charles L. Taylor, who resigned as recreation director before starting work, was ordered paid $25 expense money for coming here.

Salaries Fixed

An approved order fixed the salary of William H. Buley, parking meter inspector, at $164 plus a ten per cent bonus over his 1943 base rate to make the wage $175.

It was ordered that policemen and firemen continue to be paid a 20 per cent bonus during April and May. New salary scales become effective June 1. Other city employes were ordered increased by 10 per cent to 30 per cent by legislative act, effective April 1. The law pertaining to policemen and firemen does not become effective until June 1 but the council is continuing the old bonus.

The street commissioner was authorized to advertise for bids for a 10-ton roller.

Wants Alley Opened

Sidney D. Phillips in a letter asked that an alley or street in the rear of Broadway be opened. He offered to donate five feet of ground in order to make the street 20 feet wide. The request was referred to the engineer and street commissioner.

The council agreed to cancel the paving lien on 354 feet of Camden Avenue property owned by Mrs. Ida A. Schaidt in return for title to 204 feet. John F. Schaidt has indicated he will build on the remaining part of the loft. Clifton E. Fuller termed the land taken over by the city to be worthless but recommended the action. The paving bill amounts to $738.08.

Accident Drivers Face Charges

Reckless driving charges will be preferred against two auto drivers whose cars collided on Baltimore Pike Sunday morning and resulted in Jean Louise Miller, 18 North Chase Street, 17-year-old high school girl being admitted to Allegany Hospital in a serious condition, police said yesterday.

Miss Miller, who was admitted to the hospital in an unconscious condition, was reported in good condition last night by attaches, who said she suffered a possible brain injury.

Michael L. Lindner, 19, Shades Lane, driver of the car in which Miss Miller was riding according to police, and William Clingerman, 32, Monessen, Pa., operator of the other machine involved were questioned yesterday in the office of the State's Attorney, and authorities said they will be given hearings on reckless driving charges.

Lindner in a report to police said he noticed the other machine approaching on the wrong side of the road "at an apparently fast rate of speed" but could not swerve his car enough to avoid it.

Lester E. Howdyshell, 121 Oak Street, forfeited $10 bond in Police court on a careless driving charge that resulted when his car crashed into a house on the corner of Thomas Street and Oldtown Road Sunday morning, police said.

Legion Appeals Liquor Board's Decision

An appeal from a decision of the Allegany County Liquor Control Board was filed yesterday in Circuit Court by Leslie J. Clark, attorney for Arthur Arnone Post No. 212, American Legion, Eckhart, as a result of rejection of the organization's application for a club liquor, wine and beer license.

In his appeal Clark said the board's decision was contrary to the public interest and was "arbitrary" and unreasonable, contrary to the facts and unsupported by any substantial evidence.

It was indicated yesterday that in event the board ruling is upheld by the judges of the Circuit Court the case may be carried to the Court of Appeals for a test of the constitutionality of the new control law.

Lane Fails To Sign Road Work Bill

Gov. William Preston Lane Jr., has failed to sign the bill which would have given the Board of County Commissioners authority to construct roads of their own, using their own forces, without handling the work on a contract basis.

Gov. Lane advised further consideration of the statewide measure, which was supported by the Allegany commissioners and the boards of several other counties.

Catanese Removed To County Jail

Jimmie Catanese, local amateur lightweight boxer, who police said attempted to kill himself twice Sunday, one by a projected leap from Lover's Leap and again by hanging in the city jail, was removed to the County Jail yesterday and probably will be questioned tomorrow in the office of the state's attorney, police reported. Catanese is booked as held for investigation.

Council To Consider Recreation Plan

A seven-point program on recreation, suggested by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, was taken under consideration by the Mayor and Council yesterday, and Mayor Thomas S. Post indicated that he may call a joint meeting of the council and the Cumberland Recreation Board in an attempt to clarify the confused recreation situation.

The Jaycees' proposals called for the employment of a paid full-time recreation director and urged that differences between various groups be ironed out and the board's authority defined.

David Kauffman, Jaycee president, told the council that unless definite action is taken, board members will submit formal letters of resignation. The board voted to resign last week following the resignation of Charles L. Taylor, Clarksburg, W. Va., as recreation director.

Mayor Post said it might be desirable for City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett to confer with a volunteer attorney for the board to determine its jurisdiction, as the Jaycees suggested. Heskett said the board would have charge of all activities and would co-ordinate and expand a recreation program.

The attorney said there are always limitations on the spending of public money and that even council members face restrictions within their departments. Heskett said this is not necessarily a cause for conflict and declared he has not heard Street Commissioner Myers G. Light refuse to co-operate. He said Light's powers as commissioner of public property as given by the legislature cannot be taken away.

Others who spoke on the recreation problem were Thomas L. Popp, Robert V. Chisholm, John M. Groobey of the Amvets; F. Patrick Allender, business agent for the Carpenters' Union; Dr. Robert T. Kerlin; Mrs. Gilbert Miller of the American Association of University Women, and Clifton Van Roby, a Recreation Board member.

Insurance Boost On Cars In Effect

Premium rates for collision and for comprehensive fire and theft insurance on automobiles have been adjusted upward in Maryland and 33 other states.

The increases went into effect May 1, following the filing of new schedules by underwriting companies with Lawrence E. Ensor, state insurance commissioner.

The new rates, Mr. Ensor explained, are because of the unfavorable loss ratio on this type of insurance.

An example of how the new rates will affect the buyer of protective insurance is shown for a poular-priced sedan model:

	Comprehensive Fire and Theft Old Rate	May 1	$50 Deductible Collision Old Rate	May 1
1947 model	$11.00	$11.00	$69.00	$69.00
1946 model	8.00	10.00	62.00	69.00
1942 model	8.00*	8.00*	39.00	50.00

Two Drivers Forfeit Bonds; Another Fined

Frank L. Ford, Corriganville, forfeited $2.45 yesterday morning in Trial Magistrates' Court for driving a motor vehicle without a muffler. State Trooper Harry Holsinger arrested him April 29 on Route 40 at LaVale.

In Police Court, John Miller, Morgantown, W. Va., forfeited $5 for driving through a red traffic signal at Baltimore and Mechanic Streets early yesterday morning.

Earl David Hott, North Mechanic Street, this city, was fined $5 and costs when arraigned in Frostburg before Magistrate James P. Kenny on a charge of passing another car on a curve at Clarysville Friday. Trooper William O. McElfish made the arrest.

Charged with shooting a song bird in the C. and O. Canal area, John Gurtler, Ascension Street, was fined $10 and costs in Trial Magistrates' Court. A similar charge against Frank Crawford, 736 Baker Street, was dismissed.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, who pressed the charge told Magistrate Frank A. Perdew he has received numerous complaints about the killing of birds. Both defendants entered pleas of not guilty.

Inclusion of a little anhydrous copper sulfate in protective spray for cherry trees will prevent cherries from cracking after a rain due to gorging with too much water, Oregon Agriculture College experiments indicate.

Two Men Fined; Woman Forfeits

Two men booked as A. E. Jeffreys, 218 Glenn Street, and Joseph Stakem, Midland, were fined $10 each and a woman identified as Eleanor C. Elliott, Frostburg, forfeited $10 bond yesterday in Police Court on disorderly conduct charges.

Jeffreys' wife, according to police, said she saw her husband and a woman "rolling around on a couch" in his shop early Sunday morning and summonded police. Stakem was in the building at the time, police said they were told.

Jeffreys denied the assusation, police declared, but his 13-year-old daughter verified her mother's statement. Jeffreys told Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., he called police after his wife threw a brick through the window.

Harold Robinson, this city, was fined $10 for allegedly creating a disturbance at the home of his mother-in-law, Sunday afternoon.

Council Suspends Old Ditch Ruling For Water Line

At the suggestion of City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, the Mayor and Council yesterday agreed to suspend a 1922 ordinance pertaining to shoring of ditches over four feet deep in connection with a second water line from Lake Gordon to the city.

Rizer contended the ordinance would add from 20 to 40 per cent to the cost of the job, maintaining that new methods of digging ditches and laying pipe on a job of such nature do not call for shoring.

Pointing out that the ordinance resulted from a disaster on Fort Hill when several men were killed, City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett admitted the measure would add cost to the water line but opposed outright repeal of the law.

A Constitution Park concession contract with Anton Anthony at $250 was renewed for one year.

Charles L. Taylor, who resigned as recreation director before starting work, was ordered paid $25 expense money for coming here.

Salaries Fixed

An approved order fixed the salary of William H. Buley, parking meter inspector, at $164 plus a ten per cent bonus over his 1943 base rate to make the wage $175.

It was ordered that policemen and firemen continue to be paid a 20 per cent bonus during April and May. New salary scales become effective June 1. Other city employes were ordered increased by 10 per cent to 30 per cent by legislative act, effective April 1. The law pertaining to policemen and firemen does not become effective until June 1 but the council is continuing the old bonus.

The street commissioner was authorized to advertise for bids for a 10-ton roller.

Wants Alley Opened

Sidney D. Phillips in a letter asked that an alley or street in the rear of Broadway be opened. He offered to donate five feet of ground in order to make the street 20 feet wide. The request was referred to the engineer and street commissioner.

The council agreed to cancel the paving lien on 354 feet of Camden Avenue property owned by Mrs. Ida A. Schaidt in return for title to 204 feet. John F. Schaidt has indicated he will build on the remaining part of the loft. Clifton E. Fuller termed the land taken over by the city to be worthless but recommended the action. The paving bill amounts to $738.08.

Accident Drivers Face Charges

Reckless driving charges will be preferred against two auto drivers whose cars collided on Baltimore Pike Sunday morning and resulted in Jean Louise Miller, 18 North Chase Street, 17-year-old high school girl being admitted to Allegany Hospital in a serious condition, police said yesterday.

Miss Miller, who was admitted to the hospital in an unconscious condition, was reported in good condition last night by attaches, who said she suffered a possible brain injury.

Michael L. Lindner, 19, Shades Lane, driver of the car in which Miss Miller was riding according to police, and William Clingerman, 32, Monessen, Pa., operator of the other machine involved, were questioned yesterday in the office of the State's Attorney, and authorities said they will be given hearings on reckless driving charges.

Lindner in a report to police said he noticed the other machine approaching on the wrong side of the road "at an apparently fast rate of speed" but could not swerve his car enough to avoid it.

Lester E. Howdyshell, 121 Oak Street, forfeited $10 bond in Police court on a careless driving charge that resulted when his car crashed into a house on the corner of Thomas Street and Oldtown Road Sunday morning, police said.

Legion Appeals Liquor Board's Decision

An appeal from a decision of the Allegany County Liquor Control Board was filed yesterday in Circuit Court by Leslie J. Clark, attorney for Arthur Arnone Post No. 212, American Legion, Eckhart, as a result of rejection of the organization's application for a club liquor, wine and beer license.

In his appeal Clark said the board's decision was contrary to the public interest and was "arbitrary" and unreasonable, contrary to the facts and unsupported by any substantial evidence.

It was indicated yesterday that in event the board ruling is upheld by the judges of the Circuit Court the case may be carried to the Court of Appeals for a test of the constitutionality of the new control law.

Lane Fails To Sign Road Work Bill

Gov. William Preston Lane Jr., has failed to sign the bill which would have given the Board of County Commissioners authority to construct roads of their own, using their own forces, without handling the work on a contract basis.

Gov. Lane advised further consideration of the statewide measure, which was supported by the Allegany commissioners and the boards of several other counties.

Catanese Removed To County Jail

Jimmie Catanese, local amateur lightweight boxer, who police said attempted to kill himself twice Sunday, one by a projected leap from Lover's Leap and again by hanging in the city jail, was removed to the County Jail yesterday and probably will be questioned tomorrow in the office of the state's attorney, police reported. Catanese is booked as held for investigation.

Council To Consider Recreation Plan

A seven-point program on recreation, suggested by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, was taken under consideration by the Mayor and Council yesterday, and Mayor Thomas S. Post indicated that he may call a joint meeting of the council and the Cumberland Recreation Board in an attempt to clarify the confused recreation situation.

The Jaycees' proposals called for the employment of a paid full-time recreation director and urged that differences between various groups be ironed out and the board's authority defined.

David Kauffman, Jaycee president, told the council that unless definite action is taken, board members will submit formal letters of resignation. The board voted to resign last week following the resignation of Charles L. Taylor, Clarksburg, W. Va., as recreation director.

Mayor Post said it might be desirable for City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett to confer with a volunteer attorney for the board to determine its jurisdiction, as the Jaycees suggested. Heskett said the board would have charge of all activities and would co-ordinate and expand a recreation program.

The attorney said there are always limitations on the spending of public money and that even council members face restrictions within their departments. Heskett said this is not necessarily a cause for conflict and declared he has not heard Street Commissioner Myers G. Light refuse to co-operate. He said Light's powers as commissioner of public property as given by the legislature cannot be taken away.

Others who spoke on the recreation problem were Thomas L. Popp, Robert V. Chisholm, John M. Groobey of the Amvets; F. Patrick Allender, business agent for the Carpenters' Union; Dr. Robert T. Kerlin; Mrs. Gilbert Miller of the American Association of University Women, and Clifton Van Roby, a Recreation Board member.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

A man figures to be killed before 150,000 witnesses on the 30th of this month.

It will be no surprise to the spectators. His possible death is the reason most of them will buy their tickets.

Billy Rose

The scene will be the Indianapolis Speedway. Simple arithmetic tells us that some time during the 500-mile race a car will lift from the track, float through the air and explode into scrap iron and fire against a wall. During this half-second of ecstasy and terror, the crowd figures it will get its money's worth. Whether they know it or not, they're coming to see a human being disintegrate into bone and fragments and cooking meat.

Some months back I did a piece for Collier's Magazine on the greatest box-office attraction in the world. My candidate was Death—or the promise of death. I set out to prove it has always been, and probably always will be, mankind's most popular entertainment.

What show in this country draws half a million spectators to one performance? A love story? Wrong. A comedy? Not even close. Music? Go to the foot of the class.

It's the National Air Races in Cleveland. Does the crowd come because it's air-minded? My eye! It sits through several hours of a dullish performance, waiting for the flames which stream out of a cowling and turn a flying machine into a comet. It's not a nice thought, but any time a guy is willing to thumb his nose at the Great Man-Easter, people will pay to be there, on the chance he might not be able to get away with it.

They've been playing pattycake with death at the Indianapolis Speedway since 1911. In 35 years, 35 lives have been snuffed out.

Nobody knows these odds better than a little mustached man named Wilbur Shaw. In '37, '39 and '40, Wilburn won the big race. Then, when Eddie Rickenbacker gave up his job as bossman of the track, Wilbur hung up his goggles and took over.

I recently heard an odd story about Shaw—a little on the macabre side.

In the 1927 race, Wilbur was behind the wheel of a low racer. The girl he had just married was in the stands. He waved to the new bride as he waited for the starter's signal. The green flag dropped and off he went.

As his car whined up the straightaway and around the turns, his wife nervously thumbed the wedding ring on her finger. As her husband's long shiny bug swept wide of the pack on the far turn she had to look away. In trying to pass the others, his car had come within a foot of the top of the brick speedway.

One hour and a hundred miles later, he tried the same maneuver. This time the car skidded, leaped from the track and hurtled over the brick wall out of sight.

Mrs. Shaw's scream was lost in the long, fading howl which burst from the crowd. Tiny men ran for the far turn and what figured to be Wilbur's flaming coffin. An ambulance clanged. Red flags around the track signalled "Hold position."

But a small miracle had happened. On the other side of the wall, Shaw got out of his car, shaken up but still in one piece. His machine had looped-the-loop and landed right side up.

The little man lit a cigarette and walked back to the tunnel leading to the racing pits. As Wilbur reached his pit, out of sight of the stands, one of his teammates pulled in for a wheel-change and a relief driver. Shaw climbed into the seat, pulled down his goggles, and when the car was ready, got back into the race.

As his car picked up speed on the straightaway, his wife saw him. "My God!" she screamed. "It's Wilbur's ghost!"

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

John Crosby

In the light of its first two productions, "Studio One," the Columbia Broadcasting System's new hour-long dramatic program (9:30 p. m. EDT Tuesdays) was launched with possibly a shade too much fanfare. The first two offerings, "Under the Volcano" and "Topaze," were ambitious, adult, absorbing and, as radio fare goes, very sophisticated drama. They were also in parts jerky, cloudy and over-elaborate. Both, I think, could stand some incisive editing.

The acting in both of them was superb. Everett Sloane, who took the lead in both dramas, is one of the most brilliant, subtle and versatile actors on the air and his feminine lead, Ann Burr, is not far behind him. Both of them, incidentally, can act rings around most of the Hollywood name actors who stumble into so many radio scripts. The acting and production by Fletcher Markle, twenty-six year old boy whiz of CBS, was imaginative—with a few large round reservations. It's none of my business, but I feel Mr. Markle has taken on a bit too much in writing, or helping to write, the scripts he directs and produces. Many of the scenes in both "Topaze" and "Under the Volcano" were slow and over-long. A director, who was not also the author, might have speeded things a bit here.

Let's take them up in order, "Under the Volcano," adapted from the novel by Malcolm Lowry, is a sultry, moody tone poem to alcoholism. In it, a former English consul in Mexico drinks his way through a series of colorful balls, fiestas and bullfights and ultimately to his predestined destruction. It's "The Lost Weekend" married to "The Sun Also Rises," one of the more flamboyant literary weddings of the season.

The consul, Geoffrey, treads what is now a well-beaten psychological path, proceeding successively through remorse, defiance, self pity, self-abnegation and finally total despair—Dante's "Inferno" brought up to date, as it were. There are many perceptive passages ("Do you realize the allowances made by the world which has to cope with you?") and some very corny ones ("This house has somehow become evil.") Geoffrey's ex-wife Yvonne and two men of extraordinary nobility try to save the British alcoholic, and Yvonne in one of the most chilling scenes in the play winds up dead under the heels of a horse.

Threaded in with the alcoholism is a side plot about Nazis in Mexico. Close to the end of the drama Geoffrey shouts: "I choose hell. I choose hell because I like it." Somewhere in there—the Nazis and the speech—is a message of some sort but you'll have to figure it for yourself. I can't make head nor tail of it.

"Under The Volcano" is certainly ambitious and intelligent drama for radio. Just why Markle picked it out isn't altogether clear. An hour of alcoholism is difficult even on the screen, where conversation is not always necessary. On the air where a man must go to the dogs in prose, it's far more difficult. Some hint as to this selection may be the fact that Markle is an ex-diciple of Orson Welles. This is just the sort of mood and character drama that would appeal immediately to Welles just because it is so hard.

Benn Levy's old play "Topaze" is possibly the most sophisticated comedy I ever heard on the air. In this, Professor Topaze, a magnificently innocent French Milquetoast, is used as an unwitting tool by an unscrupulous politician who sells equipment to the city at exorbitant profits. The Professor rapidly loses his innocence and steals the politicians business as well as his girl.

Those who saw John Barrymore's witty portrayal of Topaze in the movies would be slightly disappointed in the radio drama. Mr. Sloane's version was every bit as good as Barrymore's but you couldn't see him, which robbed the play of much of its flavor. Some of the more Gallic comedy of the play had be be reworded rather extensively for radio but otherwise "Topaze" was a mighty bold bit of radio.

Tonight "Studio One" will present Ibsen's "An Enemy of the People" and coming along soon are F. Scott Fitzgerald's "The Great Gatsby," George Kelly's "Craig's Wife," and Christopher Morley's "A Human Being," an array that certainly won't be found anywhere else on the air."

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 12 — When Lauren Bacall elected to remain in Mexico with Humphrey Bogart, Michael Curtiz was left without a leading lady for "Romance in High C".

Claire James

Lauren, who doesn't want to make any more pictures, actually, if they interfere with her chance to spend time with Bogey, has, I understand, asked for her release from Warners.

Another reason "Baby" didn't want to make "Romance in High C" is because she felt she couldn't sing well enough. Now Mike has a girl who sings beautifully and is, he says, a combination of Betty Grable and Ginger Rogers. Ain't bad.

Her name is Doris Day. She was the star in Les Brown's orchestra where she made "Sentimental Journey" so popular. Doris was originally a dancer with Panchon and Marco. After a bad automobile accident she studied singing and Mike says she is now a wow.

I never like to get in the middle of a contract fight between stars and studios, but I do think that Bambi Lynn should think twice before she tries to break her contract with David Selznick.

I say this knowing the inside of the story. Bambi was making $100 a week when Selznick took her and paid her $750 and then permitted her to star in "Alice In Wonderland" on Broadway.

The little Lynn girl will ask the court to break her contract claiming that she was under age when she signed it. Now I ask you?

David, by the way, has just signed Heidi, a Conover Model whose real name is Lavonne Mullinger, sister of Donna Reed, and plans to do with her what he did for the Lynn lence".

Chatter in Hollywood: Ingrid Bergman's doctor insists that she take at least 10 weeks' rest before starting the movie version of "Joan of Lorraine". There's no doubt but that Ingrid is in a run down condition. She made three or four films in a row before going to New York and her long run on Broadway has completely exhausted her.

But Bergman loves to work and hates being idle. So, I can't say I am surprised to hear that, in addition to her screen and stage jobs, she has practically given her okay to star in an hour long dramatic radio series next fall.

Attention movie scouts! I want to tip you off to Shirley Dinsdale, feminine ventriloquist who practically stopped the fine program put on by the Women of the Helping Hand—a group which lives up to their title by holding out a helping hand to the sick and needy.

Shirley works with a little girl dummy, Julie, who is a femme Charlie McCarthy—but Shirley, herself, is considerably more beautiful than Edgar Bergen, which is what makes her such terrific movie material. Boys, take a look.

I want to also say that I was very flattered to be the honored mother at the Helping Hand annual tea. Mrs. Harry Brand can take a bow for the program she got together—Alan Young, David Street, Celeste Holm, Bebe Daniels and Reggie Gardiner were "par excellent".

The fire at the Colorado Ranch where "The Man From Colorado" was in progress had some unfortunate aftermaths. Mrs. Helen Gereghty, a bit player who is in the hospital, had her leg broken and was quite badly burned. She is the mother of a Columbia cameraman.

Glenn Ford, who tried to put out the fire with his bare hands, was burned and his eyeballs scorched, but not so badly that he won't be ready to go to work when the picture starts Tuesday. It was held up for several days.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:—The Bill Girards are expecting a baby Christmas Day. Mrs. Girard is the former Clair James, who was Miss America of 1939, and Bill is the 20th Century-Fox producer.

This is the month for the marriage of Jack Cummings and Betty Kern. His divorce becomes final.

Tyrone Power has that eye operation this coming week, but it isn't as serious as was at first believed.

It would be something, wouldn't it, if Margaret Truman accepts the offer made her to make a summer concert tour with Dick Haymes?

Mrs. Cora B. Lane, mother of Rosemary, Priscilla and Lola Lane, has just undergone a serious operation.

Evie and Van Johnson both deny loudly that they are expecting a baby—and this, despite the rumor that Evie has made reservations at the Culver City hospital. Well, they should know.

Eleven-year-old David Nelson, son of Harriet and Ozzie Nelson, fell out of a tree and broke his arm. Now he promises to stay on the ground.

When Bob Neal comes to Hollywood in about 10 days, Diana Lynn's parents will formally announce Diana's engagement to him.

The young man who seems to be succeedmg most in the ex-Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr.'s affections is Bill Hawks.

Bruce Cabot is in New York again. He's there to act as best man at the marriage of wealthy David Ligett to socialite Marjorie Logan. The Ligetts will spend their honeymoon at the Bel-Air hotel here.

Tom Drake's divorce became final last week, but he ain't agonna marry Beverly Tyler, so I hear. It's cold.

A twosome attracting attention is Claire Trevor and Bob Scott, Republic actor.

Matty Roupert, who was a child star 25 years ago, was married to Jean Allen, a Los Angeles girl today in Las Vegas. Roupert is now a production assistant with Pine and Thomas.

That's all today.

Over-ripe Watermelon Is Fire Extinguisher

BRISBANE, (AP) — An Australian garbage contractor used watermelons recently to put out a fire in his cart at Mackay.

A number of over-ripe melons were in the cart with some of the other refuse which caught fire. The garbage man was a long way from water but he picked up melon after melon and bashed it at the fire. Under the torrent of watery melon fragments the fire gave up.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

A man figures to be killed before 150,000 witnesses on the 30th of this month.

It will be no surprise to the spectators. His possible death is the reason most of them will buy their tickets.

Billy Rose

The scene will be the Indianapolis Speedway. Simple arithmetic tells us that some time during the 500-mile race a car will lift from the track, float through the air and explode into scrap iron and fire against a wall. During this half-second of ecstasy and terror, the crowd figures it will get its money's worth. Whether they know it or not, they're coming to see a human being disintegrate into bone and fragments and cooking meat.

Some months back I did a piece for Collier's Magazine on the greatest box-office attraction in the world. My candidate was Death—or the promise of death. I set out to prove it has always been, and probably always will be, mankind's most popular entertainment.

What show in this country draws half a million spectators to one performance? A love story? Wrong. A comedy? Not even close. Music? Go to the foot of the class.

It's the Natnonal Air Races in Cleveland. Does the crowd come because it's air-minded? My eye! It sits through several hours of a dullish performance, waiting for the flames which stream out of a cowling and turn a flying machine into a comet. It's not a nice thought, but any time a guy is willing to thumb his nose at the Great Man-Easter, people will pay to be there, on the chance he might not be able to get away with it.

They've been playing pattycake with death at the Indianapolis Speedway since 1911. In 35 years, 35 lives have been snuffed out.

Nobody knows these odds better than a little mustached man named Wilbur Shaw. In '37, '39 and '40, Wilburn won the big race. Then, when Eddie Rickenbacker gave up his job as bossman of the track, Wilbur hung up his goggles and took over.

I recently heard an odd story about Shaw—a little on the macabre side.

In the 1927 race, Wilbur was behind the wheel of a low racer. The girl he had just married was in the stands. He waved to the new bride as he waited for the starter's signal. The green flag dropped and off he went.

As his car whined up the straightaway and around the turns, his wife nervously thumbed the wedding ring on her finger. As her husband's long shiny bug swept wide of the pack on the far turn she had to look away. In trying to pass the others, his car had come within a foot of the top of the brick speedway.

One hour and a hundred miles later, he tried the same maneuver. This time the car skidded, leaped from the track and hurtled over the brick wall out of sight.

Mrs. Shaw's scream was lost in the long, fading howl which burst from the crowd. Tiny men ran for the far turn and what figured to be Wilbur's flaming coffin. An ambulance clanged. Red flags around the track signalled "Hold position."

But a small miracle had happened. On the other side of the wall, Shaw got out of his car, shaken up but still in one piece. His machine had looped-the-loop and landed right side up.

The little man lit a cigarette and walked back to the tunnel leading to the racing pits. As Wilbur reached his pit, out of sight of the stands, one of his teammates pulled in for a wheel-change and a relief driver. Shaw climbed into the seat, pulled down his goggles, and when the car was ready, got back into the race.

As his car picked up speed on the straightaway, his wife saw him. "My God!" she screamed. "It's Wilbur's ghost!"

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

John Crosby

In the light of its first two productions, "Studio One," the Columbia Broadcasting System's new hour-long dramatic program (9:30 p. m. EDT Tuesdays) was launched with possibly a shade too much fanfare. The first two offerings, "Under the Volcano" and "Topaze," were ambitious, adult, absorbing and, as radio fare goes, very sophisticated drama. They were also in parts jerky, cloudy and over-elaborate. Both, I think, could stand some incisive editing.

The acting in both of them was superb. Everett Sloane, who took the lead in both dramas, is one of the most brilliant, subtle and versatile actors on the air and his feminine lead, Ann Burr, is not far behind him. Both of them, incidentally, can act rings around most of the Hollywood name actors who stumble into so many radio scripts. The acting and production by Fletcher Markle, twenty-six year old boy whiz of CBS, was imaginative—with a few large round reservations. It's none of my business, but I feel Mr. Markle has taken on a bit too much in writing, or helping to write, the scripts he directs and produces. Many of the scenes in both "Topaze" and "Under the Volcano" were slow and over-long. A director, who was not also the author, might have speeded things a bit here.

Let's take them up in order, "Under the Volcano," adapted from the novel by Malcolm Lowry, is a sultry, moody tone poem to alcoholism. In it, a former English consul in Mexico drinks his way through a series of colorful balls, fiestas and bullfights and ultimately to his predestined destruction. It's "The Lost Weekend" married to "The Sun Also Rises," one of the more flamboyant literary weddings of the season.

The consul, Geoffrey, treads what is now a well-beaten psychological path, proceeding successively through remorse, defiance, self pity, self-abnegation and finally total despair—Dante's "Inferno" brought up to date, as it were. There are many perceptive passages ("Do you realize the allowances made by the world which has to cope with you?") and some very corny ones ("This house has somehow become evil.") Geoffrey's ex-wife Yvonne and two men of extraordinary nobility try to save the British alcoholic, and Yvonne in one of the most chilling scenes in the play winds up dead under the heels of a horse.

Threaded in with the alcoholism is a side plot about Nazis in Mexico. Close to the end of the drama Geoffrey shouts: "I choose hell. I choose hell because I like it." Somewhere in there—the Nazis and the speech—is a message of some sort but you'll have to figure it for yourself. I can't make head nor tail of it.

"Under The Volcano" is certainly ambitious and intelligent drama for radio. Just why Markle picked it out isn't altogether clear. An hour of alcoholism is difficult even on the screen, where conversation is not always necessary. On the air where a man must go to the dogs in prose, it's far more difficult. Some hint as to this selection may be the fact that Markle is an ex-diciple of Orson Welles. This is just the sort of mood and character drama that would appeal immediately to Welles just because it is so hard.

Benn Levy's old play "Topaze" is possibly the most sophisticated comedy I ever heard on the air. In this, Professor Topaze, a magnificently innocent French Milquetoast, is used as an unwitting tool by an unscrupulous politician who sells equipment to the city at exorbitant profits. The Professor rapidly loses his innocence and steals the politicians business as well as his girl.

Those who saw John Barrymore's witty portrayal of Topaze in the movies would be slightly disappointed in the radio drama. Mr. Sloane's version was every bit as good as Barrymore's but you couldn't see him, which robbed the play of much of its flavor. Some of the more Gallic comedy of the play had be be reworded rather extensively for radio but otherwise "Topaze" was a mighty bold bit of radio.

Tonight "Studio One" will present Ibsen's "An Enemy of the People" and coming along soon are F. Scott Fitzgerald's "The Great Gatsby," George Kelly's "Craig's Wife," and Christopher Morley's "A Human Being," an array that certainly won't be found anywhere else on the air."

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 12 — When Lauren Bacall elected to remain in Mexico with Humphrey Bogart, Michael Curtiz was left without a leading lady for "Romance in High C".

Claire James

Lauren, who doesn't want to make any more pictures, actually, if they interfere with her chance to spend time with Bogey, has, I understand, asked for her release from Warners.

Another reason "Baby" didn't want to make "Romance in High C" is because she felt she couldn't sing well enough. Now Mike has a girl who sings beautifully and is, he says, a combination of Betty Grable and Ginger Rogers. Ain't bad.

Her name is Doris Day. She was the star in Les Brown's orchestra where she made "Sentimental Journey" so popular. Doris was originally a cancer with Fanchon and Marco. After a bad automobile accident she studied singing and Mike says she is now a wow.

I never like to get in the middle of a contract fight between stars and studios, but I do think that Bambi Lynn should think twice before she tries to break her contract with David Selznick.

I say this knowing the inside of the story. Bambi was making $100 a week when Selznick took her and paid her $750 and then permitted her to star in "Alice In Wonderland" on Broadway.

The little Lynn girl will ask the court to break her contract claiming that she was under age when she signed it. Now I ask you?

David, by the way, has just signed Heidi, a Conover Model whose real name is Lavonne Mullinger, sister of Donna Reed, and plans to do with her what he did for the Lynn lence".

Chatter in Hollywood: Ingrid Bergman's doctor insists that she take at least 10 weeks' rest before starting the movie version of "Joan of Lorraine". There's no doubt but that Ingrid is in a run down condition. She made three or four films in a row before going to New York and her long run on Broadway has completely exhausted her.

But Bergman loves to work and hates being idle. So, I can't say I am surprised to hear that, in addition to her screen and stage jobs, she has practically given her okay to star in an hour long dramatic radio series next fall.

Attention movie scouts! I want to tip you off to Shirley Dinsdale, feminine ventriloquist who practically stopped the fine program put on by the Women of the Helping Hand—a group which lives up to their title by holding out a helping hand to the sick and needy.

Shirley works with a little girl dummy, Julie, who is a femme Charlie McCarthy—but Shirley, herself, is considerably more beautiful than Edgar Bergen, which is what makes her such terrific movie material. Boys, take a look.

I want to also say that I was very flattered to be the honored mother at the Helping Hand annual tea. Mrs. Harry Brand can take a bow for the program she got together—Alan Young, David Street, Celeste Holm, Bebe Daniels and Reggie Gardiner were "par excellent".

The fire at the Colorado Ranch where "The Man From Colorado" was in progress had some unfortunate aftermaths. Mrs. Helen Gereghty, a bit player who is in the hospital, had her leg broken and was quite badly burned. She is the mother of a Columbia cameraman.

Glenn Ford, who tried to put out the fire with his bare hands, was burned and his eyeballs scorched, but not so badly that he won't be ready to go to work when the picture starts Tuesday. It was held up for several days.

Over-ripe Watermelon Is Fire Extinguisher

BRISBANE, (AP) — An Australian garbage contractor used watermelons recently to put out a fire in his cart at Mackay.

A number of over-ripe melons were in the cart with some of the other refuse which caught fire. The garbage man was a long way from water but he picked up melon after melon and bashed it at the fire. Under the torrent of watery melon fragments the fire gave up.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends, and neighbors for their kindness in our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved son and brother, Harold A. Hott. We wish also to thank those who sent floral tributes and donated cars. We are deeply grateful to the Rev. Frank Fratto for his services.

MR. & MRS. HARRY C. HOTT, and FAMILY

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our baby daughter, Judith Ann Lafferty, who passed away one year ago today, May 13, 1946.

Spring brings flowers and memories,
O, our loved one laid to rest.
She is gone but not forgotten,
God o'er sees and knows what is best.
May we meet in God's Great Land,
Where we will part no more.
Then we may know and understand
Why we were parted before.

Sadly missed by her parents,
MR. & MRS. ROY E. LAFFERTY.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Goldie Robertson, who passed away, May 11, 1945.

Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all,
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance and love of you.

Sadly missed by
DAUGHTERS & SON.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends, and neighbors for their kindness in our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved son and brother, Harold A. Hott.

We wish also to thank those who sent floral tributes and donated cars. We are deeply grateful to the Rev. Frank Fratto for his services.

MR. & MRS. HARRY C. HOTT, and FAMILY.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our baby daughter, Judith Ann Lafferty, who passed away one year ago today, May 13, 1946.

Spring brings flowers and memories,
Of our loved one laid to rest.
She is gone but not forgotten,
God o'er sees and knows what is best.
May we meet in God's Great Land,
Where we will part no more.
Then we may know and understand
Why we were parted before.

Sadly missed by her parents,
MR. & MRS. ROY E. LAFFERTY.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Goldie Robertson, who passed away, May 11, 1945.

Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all,
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance and love of you.

Sadly missed by

"Blue Monday" For Stock Market As Leading Issues Run Into Selling

NEW YORK May 12 (AP) — It was "Blue Monday" for the stock market today as leading issues in virtually all departments ran into selling.

The trend was irregularly downward from the start. While assorted favorites managed to emerge with modest improvement, losses of fractions to better than two points held a wide majority at the close. Dealings were sluggish during the greater part of the session but activity quickened in the final half hour as offerings became a bit urgent. Transfers of 700,000 shares compared with 720,000 Friday, with 280,000 appearing in the concluding period.

Bethlehem Steel dropped 2⅜ at 82, Allied Chemical two at 168½, Dow Chemical two at 156, United Carbon 2⅞ at 62⅛, Chrysler 1⅝ at 100, American Telephone 1½ at 163¾ and 163¾ and Sante Fe 1¼ at 77.

New 1947 lows werep osted for Baltimore and Ohio, off one-eighth at 10; Burlington Mills three-eighths at 15⅝, Rexall Drug three-eights at 7⅜, National Lead three-fourths at 27½, Pfizer 2½ at 41½ and Lockheed one-half at 12⅜.

Norfolk and Western, ex-dividend, was up four at 232½ following filing of a splitup petition with the I. C. C. Glidden Company, added one-eighths at 36 on a raised quarterly. Glenn Martin, a weak spot lately, was up three-eighths at 19⅛.

Medium and long-term United States governments were off 1-32 to up 4-32 in over-the-counter dealings. The Victory Loan 2½s of December 67-72 closed up 3-32 at 103.15 bid

"Blue Monday" For Stock Market As Leading Issues Run Into Selling

NEW YORK May 12 (AP) — It was "Blue Monday" for the stock market today as leading issues in virtually all departments ran into selling.

The trend was irregularly downward from the start. While assorted favorites managed to emerge with modest improvement, losses of fractions to better than two points held a wide majority at the close. Dealings were sluggish during the greater part of the session but activity quickened in the final half hour as offerings became a bit urgent. Transfers of 700,000 shares compared with 720,000 Friday, with 280,000 appearing in the concluding period.

Bethlehem Steel dropped 2⅝ at 82, Allied Chemical two at 168½, Dow Chemical two at 156, United Carbon 2⅞ at 62⅛, Chrysler 1⅝ at 100, American Telephone 1½ at 163¾ and 163¾ and Sante Fe 1¼ at 77.

New 1947 lows werep osted for Baltimore and Ohio, off one-eighth at 10; Burlington Mills three-eighths at 15⅝, Rexall Drug three-eights at 7⅜, National Lead three-fourths at 27½, Pfizer 2½ at 41½ and Lockheed one-half at 12⅝.

Norfolk and Western, ex-dividend, was up four at 232½ following filing of a splitup petition with the I. C. C. Glidden Company, added one-eighths at 36 on a raised quarterly. Glenn Martin, a weak spot lately, was up three-eighths at 19⅛.

Sales totaled $3,080,000, compared with $3,141,000 on Friday.

Medium and long-term United States governments were off 1-32 to up 4-32 in over-the-counter dealings. The Victory Loan 2½s of December 67-72 closed up 3-32 at 103.15 bid

Jury Will Decide Fate Of Oscar Cosner After Attorneys Argue Today

Defendant On Stand Over Two Hours

Charged with killing his 30-year-old wife, Hazel E. (Alt) Cosner, by beating her to death with a baseball bat as she lay in her bed at their South Water Street home in Keyser, early the morning of September 3, the defendant is pleading "not guilty by reason of temporary insanity."

Repeated efforts of his attorneys, H. G. Shores, Emory Tyler and H. P. Shores, to present evidence of the defendant's eccentricities, periods of mental lapse, and "blackouts", have been quelled by consistent rulings of presiding Judge Ernest A. See.

The case has been marked with numerous removals of the jury, and the 12 veniremen have actually spent more time out of the crowded court room than they have in it, while testimony has been taken.

As each defense witness was called, Prosecutor Vernon E. Rankin, and his co-counsel Herndon R. Athey have objected, saying testimony offered had no bearing on the tragedy.

Testimony Ruled Out

In turn the testimony of men who were boyhood friends of Cosner was rejected by the Court, and placed in the record, only in the absence of the jury. Neighbors attempted to testify that Cosner did peculiar things and that they had seen Cosner suffer mental lapses, and "just drop over". One testified she saw him, for no apparent reason, throw his sister down the stairway. This witness declared "it happened so quickly no one knew what happened, and he was immediately sorry and went to help her."

An effort was also made to show by the testimony of witnesses that his wife, over a period of time had been unfaithful to Cosner.

Judge See, by his interpretation of the law, as to what was admissable and what should be excluded as evidence, ruled out everything except testimony of Cosner himself, and one or two other witnesses.

Cites Other Cases

Defense counsel also made repeated attempts to show the jury that Mrs. Cosner did not properly care for her home or her children, and this was excluded by Judge See.

Shores and Tyler, on numerous occasions, appealed to the Court for consideration of their defense Shores at one point reminded Judge See, "off the record," that when the Judge was practicing law, he had defended a client in which it was shown the man had "pawed the bark of a tree like an animal," in an effort to prove him insane. Judge See told Shores, "that was a different situation."

Shores read objections into the record, protesting emphatically the Court's insistence that the jury could hear no testimony which related to anything before the night of September 2. He said the defense had the right and duty to the client, to show that "this young man has had repeated lapses of memory, and did many peculiar things."

Each motion of the defense was overruled by the Court and most of the prosecution's objections to the defense attorney's tactics were sustained by the Court.

Cosner was called to the witness stand as the trial opened yesterday morning, was still there at the noon recess, and was recalled after the lunch hour.

Cosner Weeps On Stand

He broke down and wept during the morning, and at times was so overcome by emotion he could barely be heard. As his story progressed, he seemed to become less nervous and irritated, and held up extremely well during a long and severe grilling by Rankin, on cross-examination.

Cosner gave the impression he believed the story he was telling, and declared he did not remember striking his wife with the bat. He told the jury of incidents in his homelife, leading up to the tragedy. He said his wife persisted in "running around" and keeping late hours. "Sometimes she stayed out as late as 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning," he declared.

The defendant recounted the unadmitted testimony of Mrs. Hazel Lacy, who testified with the jury out of the room, that she had told Cosner, her husband and Hazel Cosner were having an affair.

Had Heated Argument

Cosner told the jury the night of the tragedy, he had gone to bed and was awakened around 1 a. m. He said his wife had just come in and had undressed downstairs, so she wouldn't disturb him. She entered the bedroom and he asked her where she had been.

The defendant said there was a heated argument which went on for sometime. Finally, he explained, his wife said she had been out with Lacy and had relations with him.

Cosner Had Name Changed In Court

Witnesses testifying in the trial of Oscar Cosner in Keyser, have on occasions referred to the 36-year-old letter carrier, who allegedly beat his wife to death eight months ago with a baseball bat, as "Bill" and "Wild Bill," as well as "William" and "Oscar."

Mineral County Circuit Court records show that on January 22, 1936, Cosner had his name changed through a petition to the Court.

The petition was prepared for him by Vernon F. Rankin, attorney, now serving as prosecuting attorney seeking the maximum penalty for his former client.

The document explains that Cosner was born at Keyser, W. Va., November 6, 1910, and was legally named William Oscar Cosner. He petitioned the Court to permit him to drop the "William", because of his dislike for the name, and in a Court order signed by Judge A. Jay Valentine, was given the right to be known legally only as Oscar Cosner.

Farrady Legion To Sue Frostburg For Raid By Cops

Commander Declares Club Rooms Damaged

Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, will take legal action against the town of Frostburg, for action of two of its policemen who allegedly forced entrance into the club rooms on East Main Street Saturday night, Charles A. Cole, commander, said last night.

The two officers, Lloyd Truly and Donald Griffith, new members of the department, caused damage "of at least $100," according to Cole when they forced entrance into the club rooms Saturday to inspect for gambling devices.

Make Three Visits

Cole said the two officers visited the post three times Saturday night between 8:30 and 11 o'clock and the last time they used an axe to break open a cabinet in which liquors were stored.

The post will definitely take legal action against the town, Cole declared, because the two officers entered the premises three times without a warrant, and besides damaging equipment and stock, they frightened away "an undetermined amount of business that the club would have had Saturday night."

Cole said he did not know how much damage would be asked or what form the action will take until the executive committee meets with Edward J. Ryan, post attorney, for a consultation.

According to Cole, Chief of Police Benjamin Thomas and Officer Truly inspected the rooms Friday and Saturday mornings without finding violations but a store room was locked and could not be opened, because Roy Schriver, house committeeman, had the only key to the door.

However, Cole explained, Schriver went to the Police station early Saturday night and invited Officers George Tippen and John Kerr to inspect the store room. They did, Cole said and found only a stock of liquor there.

Refused Admittance

At 8 p. m. Officers Truly and Griffith came to the door and asked to be admitted to inspect the rooms. They were let in, according to Cole but a steward on duty did not know where the keys were kept to a cabinet "that was formerly used for slot machines". The officers left, returning a short time later, but were refused admittance.

According to the post commander, Officer Truly then began to use a hack saw on the door lock but gave up after a short time. About 11 p. m. the two policemen returned again armed with an axe.

Schriver, then present, ordered that the policemen be admitted, Cole declared. However, Truly went straight to the cabinet without asking for the keys and used the axe to break the lock, Cole asserted.

In breaking the lock Officer Truly damaged a quantity of bottled liquor that was stored there, the post commander declared, adding that both officers then left without comment.

Officer Truly, in commenting on the affair, said he has never been instructed by city officials or superior officers that he needed a warrant to make a routine check of veteran and fraternal clubs holding liquor licenses.

Gives Viewpoint

"It is my understanding," he said, "that a warrant is not needed for an

Scouts To Build Four-Acre Lake At Council Site

Brush Clearing Outing Is Scheduled Saturday

Preliminary work toward the construction of a four-acre artificial lake on the recently acquired Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, camp site near Oldtown will be taken Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock when troops of the council will meet for a brush clearing outing.

Kenneth E. Jackson, scout executive, said workmen have been cutting trees at the site of the lake for several weeks but that branches and brush must be removed before bulldozers can begin shaping the dam.

The outing will give scouts an opportunity to earn extra points toward the council's advancement contest since Saturday's outing may be counted as one of the three hikes allowed or may be substituted for one already taken of lesser attendance.

Work done at the brush clearing contest will be judged by district officials who will award points ranging up to 1,000. The general basis of judging will be the amount of work done by each scout.

Jackson said about five acres of land will be cleared in order to provide a clearing of at least 50 feet around the lake.

The earthen dam which will be thrown across the valley will be 11 feet high and 155 feet wide in order to provide for water sports. About half the depth of the dam will be utilized for ice skating during the winter.

Two spring fed runs, Seven Spring run and Tire Kiln Run, which come together on the camp property, will provide a year-around supply of pure water.

The dam will be supplied with an overflow flume while a shear gate will be used to draw off cold water from the bottom of the stream. A gully six feet above the water line will be open at all times so that, spring floods and cloudbursts will not carry out the dam.

Jackson said every effort is being made to have the lake, which will be less than 250 yards from the main camp headquarters, ready for use this summer. The council hopes to have 175 scouts and scouters out for the brush clearing.

Troops which desire may camp overnight at the camp site Saturday or may plan an evening meal and campfire program or just go home after the activities. Other activities planned at a recent pow wow were:

Board of Review, Tuesday, May 20, at 7:30 p. m. This will be the last chance to earn advancement to count in the contest.

Court of Honor, to be held May 27.

Contest and field day, with Henry Shriver in charge, will be held at Constitution Park May 31 at 2 p. m.

Camporee, at Smith's Farm, Rawlings, June 21 and 22.

High School Girl Stabbed By Friend

An argument between two negro high school girls yesterday resulted in one of the students being treated in Allegany Hospital for minor knife wounds in the left arm, according to the Police Department.

Hospital attaches said Maletta Davis, 15, 137 Wineow Street, was treated for three "small" wounds in the left arm and discharged yesterday at 3:15 p. m.

Investigating authorities said the Davis girl told them Barbara Holly, 17, 182 Wineow Street inflicted the wounds after they had an argument while walking home from Carver High School.

Police quoted the Davis girl as saying she was stabbed with a pocket knife that her companion pulled while they were arguing. The Davis girl did not disclose what the argument was about.

Authorities said the wounded youth will be taken to Juvenile Court today to swear out a warrant for the Holly girl, who will be given a hearing in the court.

America Belongs To Young People, Gilchrist Tells High School Group

39 Seniors Win Hi-Y, Tri-Hi-Y Emblems

Comparing the aims of the Hi-Y organization with those of the Hitler Youth movement in Germany 10 years ago and young Communists of today, C. William Gilchrist, local attorney told 250 young people at Central YMCA last night that theirs is a great opportunity because "the United States has always belonged to young people—men and women of action."

Gilchrist a member of the youth and government committee of the "Y", was the principal speaker at the third annual banquet of the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y council. Five area high schools were represented.

Stressing the fact that Fascists and Communists train their youth to believe that the state is supreme and that they exist only to serve it, Gilchrist pointed out that in America, young people meet for constructive purposes and that the government exists to serve the people.

Uses Football Simile

The speaker developed the theme that America is like a football team using the "T" formation. "The key man of that formation is the man in motion," he said. "America needs men in motion, who know that going straight ahead is the shortest way to reach the goal line."

A feature of the program was the presentation of Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y club emblems to the 39 outstanding seniors of eight clubs. Those receiving the awards from Winfield H. Adam, program and boys secretary of the "Y", were:

Allegany Tri-Hi-Y: Patty Bowie, Elaine Diamond, Marilyn Heiskell, Kay Harter and Beverly Smith.

Beall Tri-Hi-Y (Frostburg): Lois Engle, Lillian Fleigle, Ina Lee Robeson, Emma Martens and Nancy Montesant.

Bruce Hi-Y (Westernport): James Cavalero, Richard Fazenbaker, David McIntyre, Harold Michaels and Raymond L. Moore.

Fort Hill Hi-Y: William Dailey, Lawrence Hansrote, George Lapp, Calvin Mahaney and Lynn Sheetz.

Allegany Hi-Y: Noyes T. "Tommy Powers, Richard Clower, Howard Peterson, council presidents; Gene Shaw and James Close.

Fort Hill Tri-Hi-Y: Elaine Cole, Marie Hutson, Jo Ann Walsh, Nancy Williams and Joan Yeager.

Piedmont, (W. Va.) Tri-Hi-Y: Priscilla Bobo.

Other Talks Given

Mahaney, a senior at Fort Hill, presided and acted as toastmaster. Patty Bowie, Allegany, vice president of the council, gave the address of welcome. Talks on the aims and purposes of Tri-H-Y and the history of the organization were given by Lillian Fleigle, president of Beall Tri-Hi-Y; and by David McIntyre, president of the Bruce Hi-Y.

The invocation was given by Barbara Bright, chaplain of the Allegany Tri-Hi-Y, and the closing prayer was given by Doris Jean Poorbaugh, chaplain of Fort Hill Tri-Hi-Y. Group singing at the start of the program was led by Kenneth Beck, with Perry Rosenmerkel at the piano.

High school principals and their wives who attended were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Fisher (Bruce High School) and Mr. and Mrs. Victor D. Heisey (Fort Hill.) Club advisors were also honor guests. Following the banquet and speaking program dancing was held until midnight.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Myers, Cresaptown, announce the birth of a daughter in Allegany Hospital Monday afternoon.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Porter, Corriganville, in Allegany Hospital Monday morning.

A son, Franklin Eugene, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Shircliff, Jr., 114 South Johnson Street, early Monday morning in Memorial Hospital.

Coroner's Jury Opens Inquest In Fatal Crash

A coroner's jury, impaneled yesterday in Hampshire County, W. Va., to investigate the death of Miss Glenna Ellen Mayhew, 19, Romney, W. Va., fatally injured in an automobile accident Sunday, recessed yesterday after examining the body and scene of the mishap, according to police.

The jury, composed of six men, visited McGee's Funeral Home, Augusta, W. Va., yesterday morning and examined the Romney High School senior's body, then journeyed to Mill Creek Mountain on Route 28, three miles from Romney, where the car allegedly turned over six times and plunged over a 30-foot embankment, Trooper F. H. Tribett, stated.

Died In Hospital

Miss Mayhew, who would have been graduated from school the last of this month, died in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where she was brought after being removed from the wrecked car in which three of her companions were also injured.

Trooper Tribett explained that the jury will convene Monday morning when the three injured persons are expected to be discharged from hospitals.

Gordon L. Thrasher, 22, Keyser, W. Va., identified as driver of the car, and Donald Swisher, 18, also of Keyser, are patients in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, and Miss Betty Davis, 17, Romney, is a patient in Memorial Hospital, this city. All were reported in "good" condition and resting comfortably last night.

Riggleman Escapes

William E. Riggleman, Romney, the fifth passenger in the automobile told police that the car careened from the road after it negotiated a curve on top of Mill Creek Mountain and turned over six times. He said he was thrown from the machine before it plunged over the embankment.

Trooper Tribett said the quintet was returning from Blue Beach Tavern, located on Route 28, five miles north of Romney, when the accident occurred Sunday morning at 12:15 o'clock. He asserted that the machine was "apparently traveling at a high rate of speed."

Memorial Hospital attaches said Miss Mayhew died at 9:15 a. m. Sunday, from a back injury and a fractured pelvic bone.

Forum Offers Refund In Lieu Of Extra Lecture This Year

The Cumberland Community Forum committee announced yesterday, that it will make a cash refund to its patrons in lieu of the additional lecture scheduled on extra tickets for the 1946-47 series.

The Forum has taken this action, according to David Kauffman, president of the Junior Association of Commerce, sponsors of the series, with the belief that in view of the small attendance during the regular season an additional performance is inadvisable.

The refund will amount to $1, upon presentation of the extra ticket from the back of the season book. This ticket may be cashed at the Music Shop, South Centre Street, or at Room 514 Liberty Trust Building.

Any patron who has lost or mislaid his book, may apply for his refund, by giving name and address and the name of the ticket salesman.

No refunds will be made after Monday, May 19, when the Forum's books for the season will be closed.

Coroner's Inquest Slated Wednesday In Boy's Shooting

Child Runs Into Line Of Neighbor's Shot

A coroner's inquest will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at Somerset, Pa., in the death of a 9-year-old Somerset County boy who died almost instantly Saturday afternoon in the arms of the 19-year-old recently discharged infantryman who accidentally shot him, according to District Attorney Tmomas F. Lansberry, of Somerset County.

Lansberry said the child, George Stanley Swindell, son of Carl R. and Alice Mitchell Swindell, about five miles southwest of Somerset in Summit Township, ran into the line of fire while Edward Francis Firle, a neighbor who lived 300 yards away, was shooting at sparrows across a public highway in front of his home.

The bullet from a .22 caliber magazine type rifle struck the boy in the left arm near the wrist and entered the body slightly above the heart, following a downward, backward course and stopping beneath the right shoulderblade, Lansberry said.

Violation Of Law

He explained that shooting across a public highway is a violation of Pennsylvania law and added that when one person in the commission of an unlawful act kills another it technically becomes involuntary manslaughter.

However, no charges have been filed against Firle and Lansberry said he is awaiting the outcome of the inquest, to be held by Dr. A. H. Uphouse, Somerset County coroner, in the Somerset County Court House.

The Swindell child was returning home from an errand performed for his mother, the district attorney pointed out, when he was shot. Firle ran to the boy, picked him up and ran into his home to summon medical aid, but the boy died in Firle's arms on the way to the house, about 40 feet away, Lansberry stated. Dr. Grant Atwell, Meyersdale, Pa., pronounced the boy dead.

Firle had fired two or three shots at sparrows and had started ta pull the trigger again when he saw the boy for an instant, Lansberry reported, adding that Firle did not have presence of mind enough to drop the gun or stop pulling the trigger.

Were Good Friends

Firle and the boy were good friends, the two families were good friends and there was no "bad blood" between them, according to the prosecutor.

Firle, who served 13 months in the Army and was discharged last April 21, lives with his widowed mother and 13-year-old sister.

Besides his parents, the Swindell boy is survived by two brothers, William and Wayne Swindwell, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Annie Swindell.

A funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. today at the home of an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Johan Johansen, Silver Valley Road, with Rev. Gerald Polman, pastor of Main Street Brethren Church, officiating. Interment will be in the Garrett, Pa., cemetery.

Head Of Shriners Cancels Visit Here

The official visit to Ali Ghan Temple of the Shrine today by Imperial Potentate George H. Rowe, Buffalo, N. Y., has been cancelled, Leslie K. Spielman, Hagerstown, Ali Ghan potentate, said last night.

He said the cancellation of Rowe's visit is due to the press of business in connection with the national convention to be held in Atlantic City later this month.

Spielman said Rowe telegraphed him Friday that he would not be able to come to Cumberland.

Meanwhile, Ali Ghan Temple went ahead with plans to hold a dinner and dance at Ali Ghan Country Club tonight. A floor show also will be held.

The dinner, dance and floor show as well as other entertainment were arranged in honor of Rowe on his scheduled visit here.

Murder Charge Is Filed Against Ethel Bloss In Father's Shooting

Freed On $2,500 Bond In Circuit Court

A charge of murder was filed yesterday afternoon by the State's Attorney's office against 16-year-old Ethel Mae Bloss, Fort Hill High School junior, in the fatal shooting of her father, James D. Bloss, 56, a B. and O. blacksmith helper, at their North Branch home Saturday night.

Soon after being committed to the County Jail for action of the October grand jury by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., the pretty, young brunette, who confessed to the killing, appeared in Circuit Court where Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson ordered her released on bond of $2,500 following a hearing on her petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

Bond was posted at the County Jail about 8 p. m. by Earl D. Chaney, local transfer man and friend of the Bloss family.

Meanwhile, Ethel Mae said she intended to attend the funeral service for her father at 2 o'clock this afternoon and last night, following her release from custody, visited the Stein Funeral Home with other members of her family to view her father's body.

Will Return To School

She said she plans to return to her classes at Fort Hill High School the latter part of this week.

The warrant charging Ethel Mae with murdering her father was issued by Magistrate Bruce in Trial Magistrates Court on the oath of Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney. She was committed to the County Jail after standing by her confession.

Court attaches said she was calm and collected throughout the proceedings and returned a greeting to Magistrate Bruce when he spoke to her as she entered the court room.

Ethel Mae, attired in a pink dress, saddle shoes and white socks, came into Circuit Court with State Trooper Harry Holsinger near the close of a trial of a damage suit. Her mother and other relatives waited in the corridor until the hearing ended and then took seats in the court room, Mrs. Bloss and Ethel Mae with State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris.

The State's Attorney outlined briefly to the court the circumstances of the case, and said Ethel Mae's dislike for her father dated back for three years when she was 13. Her feeling was "very intense" and grew into "bitter hate," he said.

Profane And Vulgar

Ethel Mae, her mother and sister, Mary Elizabeth, 11, and Bloss lived in the North Branch home, Harris related, and of the eight children of the marriage, only Ethel Mae and Mary Elizabeth were still at home.

On March 12, one of Ethel Mae's brothers, apparently grieving over his twin brother, a patient in Perry Point Veterans Hospital, killed himself, Harris said.

He added that there were strained relations between Mr. and Mrs. Bloss and said they had not been sleeping together.

The father was drinking three nights a week before his son commited suicide, the state's attorney said, and then drank every day.

Three years ago Ethel Mae was delivering milk to a neighbor when a man by the name of Crites accosted and assaulted her, Harris said, adding that Crites was sentenced in Circuit Court to a year in the House of Correction on the charge. (Crites was later identified as Walter Crites, of North Branch.)

Bloss accused Ethel Mae of encouraging the act and accused her and Mrs. Bloss of immoralities, the state's attorney told the court, stating that Ethel Mae's dislike for her father dates back for those three years. He said Ethel Mae denied any immoralities.

On Saturday, hard feelings developed between Bloss and Mrs. Bloss over the theft of a tire of which he was accused, Harris said, and Bloss believed his wife knew something about it and was shielding a relative.

Bloss was drinking when he came home Saturday, ate supper and left, joining his brother, Frank, and two men named Twigg and they got some intoxicants, Harris related.

When Bloss returned home it was evident from his talk that he was intoxicated, the state's attorney asserted, and Mrs. Bloss and the two children locked the door downstairs and went upstairs.

He said that sometimes when Bloss was drunk he slept on the porch or in the barn, but on Saturday night he broke in the door, made some threats and then kicked in the upstairs bedroom door where Mrs. Bloss and the children had gone.

Bloss was going to throw a lamp

The contract, effective May 1, 1947, to May 1, 1948, provides wage increases ranging from 10 to 14 cents per hour, and averaging 12½ cents hourly for the 331 members of the union employed at the PE River plant, the Celanese power house, Union Street steam heating plant and line department.

The agreement also gives workers three hours call out pay, instead of the two hours previously in effect.

Also negotiated since the 1946 contract was signed are a one cent shift differential for second and third shift workers, one additional holiday and pay days every other Friday, Dean said.

Plaintiff Awarded $9,281.88 By Jury In Damage Suit

Decision Reached In Five Minutes

Deliberating less than five minutes, a Circuit Court jury yesterday afternoon awarded damages of $9,281.88 to Leroy Womer, Phillipsburg, Pa., in his suit against Wilbert C. Fresh, Cumberland, as a result of a collision last August 30 on McMullen Highway near Rawlings. Womer contended that his tractor-trailer truck was virtually demolished in the crash.

The action originally was filed by Womer against Chester L. Collins, trading as the Collins Garage, 125 South Mechanic Street; Fred Fresh, this city, and Wilbert Fresh, but Collins and Fred Fresh were dropped from the proceedings yesterday and the case continued against Wilbert Fresh.

Womer's truck was being operated by Donald Tatters, an employe, and was headed for Elkins, W. Va., from Pennsylvania when the accident occurred, witnesses said. Fresh, said to be operating a 1934 model service car owned by Collins, was accused of excessive speed and negligence.

Speed Termed Terrific

Morgan C. Harris who, with John M. Robb, represented Womer, told the jury that beer, speed and driving to the left of the center of the highway were factors in causing the accident. Harris declared that Fresh's speed "must have been terrific" and cited the extensive damage to Womer's vehicle.

Attorneys for Womer said Womer's tractor-trailer is not yet ready for operation, and pointed out that numerous delays in getting repair parts are the reason it has taken so long to repair the damaged vehicle. They said the repairs will cost $4,281.88.

They also pointed out that the delay in repairing the truck has caused Womer, who is engaged in coal hauling and other trucking business, a considerable loss in revenue. Womer asked $25 for each of 200 days to repay him for this loss.

In his defense, Fresh said he was blinded by the headlights of the tractor-trailer truck. Gorman E. Getty was his attorney. W. Earle Cobey represented Collins and Fred Fresh.

Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson presided at the trial and at its conclusion excused the jurors until Wednesday morning.

Seeks Daughter's Custody

Seeking to regain custody of her daughter, Mrs. Catherine Lambert, Midland, has filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus against her former husband, Ellsworth Gray, and his mother, Mrs. Annie Gray, also of Midland.

Edward J. Ryan, counsel for Mrs. Lambert, said the daughter, Nellie Ann Gray, 7, is now with her grandmother, Mrs. Gray, while Gray has left Midland and his present address is unknown. Gray was granted custody of the child during divorce proceedings some time ago and his wife has since remarried. She contends that she is able to provide a better home for the girl, and her former husband has left the state.

Asking an absolute divorce, Mrs. Anna May Jones, Karns Avenue, has filed suit against Thomas B. Jones, a city fireman.

Unauthorized Use Charges Filed Against Two West Virginians

Two West Virginia menfi State Police said were involved in an automobile accident near McCoole last Thursday night, will be given hearings on charges of unauthorized use of an automobile at 7 p. m. Thursday before Magistrate John A. Laughlin at Westernport, according to Cpl. C. A. Disney, of the State Police.

One of the men, Albert Hebb, Rowlesburg, W. Va., was arrested shortly after the accident and was committed to the County Jail by Magistrate Laughlin for 150 days in default of fines of $150 imposed on charges of drunken and reckless driving.

The other, identified as Ernie Dawson, Keyser, W. Va., wanted since the accident gave himself up yesterday to Keyser City Police and was brought to the Allegany County Jail last night by State Police.

Cpl. Disney said the car Hebb was driving and in which Dawson was riding, was taken without permission from Stanley Gerald Mayne, Keyser, but that the pair intended to take the machine back to the owner. Hebb said he used a knife to open a door of the car, Disney stated.

Police said last Thursday's accident occurred when Hebb, driving west on Route 220 at a high rate of speed, forced off the road near McCoole the Army car operated by Lt. George Gocke, of the Cumberland recruiting station. The Army car upset but Gocke escaped injury.

The car Hebb was driving continued on for several hundred yards and was abandoned, both men fleeing, Cpl. Disney said, but Hebb was arrested within a short time.

Jury Will Decide Fate Of Oscar Cosner After Attorneys Argue Today

Defendant On Stand Over Two Hours

When the case of Oscar Cosner, 36-year-old mail carrier, goes to the jury after summation of the case today by attorneys, the fate of the defendant will rest almost entirely upon his own testimony, as presented yesterday, in Mineral County Circuit Court, at Keyser.

Charged with killing his 30-year-old wife, Hazel E. (Alt) Cosner, by beating her to death with a baseball bat as she lay in her bed at their South Water Street home in Keyser, early the morning of September 3, the defendant is pleading "not guilty by reason of temporary insanity."

Repeated efforts of his attorneys, H. G. Shores, Emory Tyler and H. P. Shores, to present evidence of the defendant's eccentricities, periods of mental lapse, and "blackouts", have been quelled by consistent rulings of presiding Judge Ernest A. See.

The case has been marked with numerous removals of the jury, and the 12 veniremen have actually spent more time out of the crowded court room than they have in it, while testimony has been taken.

As each defense witness was called, Prosecutor Vernon E. Rankin, and his co-counsel Herndon R. Athey have objected, saying testimony offered had no bearing on the tragedy.

Testimony Ruled Out

In turn the testimony of men who were boyhood friends of Cosner was rejected by the Court, and placed in the record, only in the absence of the jury. Neighbors attempted to testify that Cosner did peculiar things and that they had seen Cosner suffer mental lapses, and "just drop over". One testified she saw him, for no apparent reason, throw his sister down the stairway. This witness declared "it happened so quickly no one knew what happened, and he was immediately sorry and went to help her."

An effort was also made to show by the testimony of witnesses that his wife, over a period of time had been unfaithful to Cosner.

Judge See, by his interpretation of the law, as to what was admissable and what should be excluded as evidence, ruled out everything except testimony of Cosner himself, and one or two other witnesses.

Cites Other Cases

Defense counsel also made repeated attempts to show the jury that Mrs. Cosner did not properly care for her home or her children, and this was excluded by Judge See.

Shores and Tyler, on numerous occasions, appealed to the Court for consideration of their defense Shores at one point reminded Judge See, "off the record," that when the Judge was practicing law, he had defended a client in which it was shown the man had "pawed the bark of a tree like an animal," in an effort to prove him insane. Judge See told Shores, "that was a different situation."

Shores read objections into the record, protesting emphatically the Court's insistence that the jury could hear no testimony which related to anything before the night of September 2. He said the defense had the right and duty to the client, to show that "this young man has had repeated lapses of memory, and did many peculiar things."

Each motion of the defense was overruled by the Court and most of the prosecution's objections to the defense attorney's tactics were sustained by the Court.

Cosner was called to the witness stand as the trial opened yesterday morning, was still there at the noon recess, and was recalled after the lunch hour.

Cosner Weeps On Stand

He broke down and wept during the morning, and at times was so overcome by emotion he could barely be heard. As his story progressed, he seemed to become less nervous and irritated, and held up extremely well during a long and severe grilling by Rankin, on cross-examination.

Cosner gave the impression he believed the story he was telling, and declared he did not remember striking his wife with the bat. He told the jury of incidents in his homelife, leading up to the tragedy. He said his wife persisted in "running around" and keeping late hours. "Sometimes she stayed out as late as 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning," he declared.

The defendant recounted the unadmitted testimony of Mrs. Hazel Lacy, who testified with the jury out of the room, that she had told Cosner, her husband and Hazel Cosner were having an affair.

Had Heated Argument

Cosner told the jury the night of the tragedy, he had gone to bed and was awakened around 1 a. m. He said his wife had just come in and had undressed downstairs, so she wouldn't disturb him. She entered the bedroom and he asked her where she had been.

The defendant said there was a heated argument which went on for sometime. Finally, he explained, his wife said she had been out with Lacy and had relations with him.

Cosner Had Name Changed In Court

Witnesses testifying in the trial of Oscar Cosner in Keyser, have on occasions referred to the 36-year-old letter carrier, who allegedly beat his wife to death eight months ago with a baseball bat, as "Bill" and "Wild Bill," as well as "William" and "Oscar."

Mineral County Circuit Court records show that on January 22, 1936, Cosner had his name changed through a petition to the Court.

The petition was prepared for him by Vernon F. Rankin, attorney, now serving as prosecuting attorney seeking the maximum penalty for his former client.

The document explains that Cosner was born at Keyser, W. Va., November 6, 1910, and was legally named William Oscar Cosner. He petitioned the Court to permit him to drop the "William", because of his dislike for the name, and in a Court order signed by Judge A. Jay Valentine, was given the right to be known legally only as Oscar Cosner.

Farrady Legion To Sue Frostburg For Raid By Cops

Commander Declares Club Rooms Damaged

Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, will take legal action against the town of Frostburg, for action of two of its policemen who allegedly forced entrance into the club rooms on East Main Street Saturday night, Charles A. Cole, commander, said last night.

The two officers, Lloyd Truly and Donald Griffith, new members of the department, caused damage "of at least $100," according to Cole when they forced entrance into the club rooms Saturday to inspect for gambling devices.

Make Three Visits

Cole said the two officers visited the post three times Saturday night between 8:30 and 11 o'clock and the last time they used an axe to break open a cabinet in which liquors were stored.

The post will definitely take legal action against the town, Cole declared, because the two officers entered the premises three times without a warrant, and besides damaging equipment and stock, they frightened away "an undetermined amount of business that the club would have had Saturday night."

Cole said he did not know how much damage would be asked or what form the action will take until the executive committee meets with Edward J. Ryan, post attorney, for a consultation.

According to Cole, Chief of Police Benjamin Thomas and Officer Truly inspected the rooms Friday and Saturday mornings without finding violations but a store room was locked and could not be opened, because Roy Schriver, house committeeman, had the only key to the door.

However, Cole explained, Schriver went to the Police station early Saturday night and invited Officers George Tippen and John Kerr to inspect the store room. They did, Cole said and found only a stock of liquor there.

Refused Admittance

At 8 p. m. Officers Truly and Griffith came to the door and asked to be admitted to inspect the rooms. They were let in, according to Cole but a steward on duty did not know where the keys were kept to a cabinet "that was formerly used for slot machines". The officers left, returning a short time later, but were refused admittance.

According to the post commander, Officer Truly then began to use a hack saw on the door lock but gave up after a short time. About 11 p. m. the two policemen returned again armed with an axe.

Schriver, then present, ordered that the policemen be admitted, Cole declared. However, Truly went straight to the cabinet without asking for the keys and used the axe to break the lock, Cole asserted.

In breaking the lock Officer Truly damaged a quantity of bottled liquor that was stored there, the post commander declared, adding that both officers then left without comment.

Officer Truly, in commenting on the affair, said he has never been instructed by city officials or superior officers that he needed a warrant to make a routine check of veteran and fraternal clubs holding liquor licenses.

Gives Viewpoint

"It is my understanding," he said, "that a warrant is not needed for an

Scouts To Build Four-Acre Lake At Council Site

Brush Clearing Outing Is Scheduled Saturday

Preliminary work toward the construction of a four-acre artificial lake on the recently acquired Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, camp site near Oldtown will be taken Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock when troops of the council will meet for a brush clearing outing.

Kenneth E. Jackson, scout executive, said workmen have been cutting trees at the site of the lake for several weeks but that branches and brush must be removed before bulldozers can begin shaping the dam.

The outing will give scouts an opportunity to earn extra points toward the council's advancement contest since Saturday's outing may be counted as one of the three hikes allowed or may be substituted for one already taken of lesser attendance.

Work done at the brush clearing contest will be judged by district officials who will award points ranging up to 1,000. The general basis of judging will be the amount of work done by each scout.

Jackson said about five acres of land will be cleared in order to provide a clearing of at least 50 feet around the lake.

The earthen dam which will be thrown across the valley will be 11 feet high and 155 feet wide in order to provide for water sports. About half the depth of the dam will be utilized for ice skating during the winter.

Two spring fed runs, Seven Spring run and Tire Kiln Run, which come together on the camp property, will provide a year-around supply of pure water.

The dam will be supplied with an overflow flume while a shear gate will be used to draw off cold water from the bottom of the stream. A gully six feet above the water line will be open at all times so that, spring floods and cloudbursts will not carry out the dam.

Jackson said every effort is being made to have the lake, which will be less than 250 yards from the main camp headquarters, ready for use this summer. The council hopes to have 175 scouts and scouters out for the brush clearing.

Troops which desire may camp overnight at the camp site Saturday or may plan an evening meal and campfire program or just go home after the activities. Other activities planned at a recent pow wow were:

Board of Review, Tuesday, May 20, at 7:30 p. m. This will be the last chance to earn advancement to count in the contest.

Court of Honor, to be held May 27.

Contest and field day, with Henry Shriver in charge, will be held at Constitution Park May 31 at 2 p. m.

Camporee, at Smith's Farm, Rawlings, June 21 and 22.

High School Girl Stabbed By Friend

An argument between two negro high school girls yesterday resulted in one of the students being treated in Allegany Hospital for minor knife wounds in the left arm, according to the Police Department.

Hospital attaches said Maletta Davis, 15, 137 Wineow Street, was treated for three "small" wounds in the left arm and discharged yesterday at 3:15 p. m.

Investigating authorities said the Davis girl told them Barbara Holly, 17, 182 Wineow Street inflicted the wounds after they had an argument while walking home from Carver High School.

Police quoted the Davis girl as saying she was stabbed with a pocket knife that her companion pulled while they were arguing. The Davis girl did not disclose what the argument was about.

Authorities said the wounded youth will be taken to Juvenile Court today to swear out a warrant for the Holly girl, who will be given a hearing in the court.

America Belongs To Young People, Gilchrist Tells High School Group

39 Seniors Win Hi-Y, Tri-Hi-Y Emblems

Comparing the aims of the Hi-Y organization with those of the Hitler Youth movement in Germany 10 years ago and young Communists of today, C. William Gilchrist, local attorney told 250 young people at Central YMCA last night that theirs is a great opportunity because "the United States has always belonged to young people—men and women of action."

Gilchrist a member of the youth and government committee of the "Y", was the principal speaker at the third annual banquet of the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y council. Five area high schools were represented.

Stressing the fact that Fascists and Communists train their youth to believe that the state is supreme and that they exist only to serve it, Gilchrist pointed out that in America, young people meet for constructive purposes and that the government exists to serve the people.

Uses Football Simile

The speaker developed the theme that America is like a football team using the "T" formation. "The key man of that formation is the man in motion," he said. "America needs men in motion, who know that going straight ahead is the shortest way to reach the goal line."

A feature of the program was the presentation of Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y club emblems to the 39 outstanding seniors of eight clubs. Those receiving the awards from Winfield H. Adam, program and boys secretary of the "Y", were:

Allegany Tri-Hi-Y: Patty Bowie, Elaine Diamond, Marilyn Heiskell, Kay Harter and Beverly Smith.

Beall Tri-Hi-Y (Frostburg): Lois Engle, Lillian Fleigle, Ina Lee Robeson, Emma Martens and Nancy Montesant.

Bruce Hi-Y (Westernport): James Cavalero, Richard Fazenbaker, David McIntyre, Harold Michaels and Raymond L. Moore.

Fort Hill Hi-Y: William Dailey, Lawrence Hansrote, George Lapp, Calvin Mahaney and Lynn Sheetz.

Allegany Hi-Y: Noyes T. "Tommy Powers, Richard Clower, Howard Peterson, council presidents; Gene Shaw and James Close.

Fort Hill Tri-Hi-Y: Elaine Cole, Marie Hutson, Jo Ann Walsh, Nancy Williams and Joan Yeager.

Other Talks Given

Mahaney, a senior at Fort Hill, presided and acted as toastmaster. Patty Bowie, Allegany, vice president of the council, gave the address of welcome. Talks on the aims and purposes of Tri-H-Y and the history of the organization were given by Lillian Fleigle, president of Beall Tri-Hi-Y; and by David McIntyre, president of the Bruce Hi-Y.

The invocation was given by Barbara Bright, chaplain of the Allegany Tri-Hi-Y, and the closing prayer was given by Doris Jean Poorbaugh, chaplain of Fort Hill Tri-Hi-Y. Group singing at the start of the program was led by Kenneth Beck, with Perry Rosenmerkel at the piano.

High school principals and their wives who attended were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Fisher (Bruce High School) and Mr. and Mrs. Victor D. Heisey (Fort Hill.) Club advisors were also honor guests. Following the banquet and speaking program dancing was held until midnight.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Porter, Corriganville, in Allegany Hospital Monday morning.

Coroner's Jury Opens Inquest In Fatal Crash

A coroner's jury, impaneled yesterday in Hampshire County, W. Va., to investigate the death of Miss Glenna Ellen Mayhew, 19, Romney, W. Va., fatally injured in an automobile accident Sunday, recessed yesterday after examining the body and scene of the mishap, according to police.

The jury, composed of six men, visited McGee's Funeral Home, Augusta, W. Va., yesterday morning and examined the Romney High School senior's body, then journeyed to Mill Creek Mountain on Route 28, three miles from Romney, where the car allegedly turned over six times and plunged over a 30-foot embankment, Trooper F. H. Tribett, stated.

Died In Hospital

Miss Mayhew, who would have been graduated from school the last of this month, died in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where she was brought after being removed from the wrecked car in which three of her companions were also injured.

Trooper Tribett explained that the jury will convene Monday morning when the three injured persons are expected to be discharged from hospitals.

Gordon L. Thrasher, 22, Keyser, W. Va., identified as driver of the car, and Donald Swisher, 18, also of Keyser, are patients in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, and Miss Betty Davis, 17, Romney, is a patient in Memorial Hospital, this city. All were reported in "good" condition and resting comfortably last night.

Riggleman Escapes

William E. Riggleman, Romney, the fifth passenger in the automobile told police that the car careened from the road after it negotiated a curve on top of Mill Creek Mountain and turned over six times. He said he was thrown from the machine before it plunged over the embankment.

Trooper Tribett said the quintet was returning from Blue Beach Tavern, located on Route 28, five miles north of Romney, when the accident occurred Sunday morning at 12:15 o'clock. He asserted that the machine was "apparently traveling at a high rate of speed."

Memorial Hospital attaches said Miss Mayhew died at 9:15 a. m. Sunday, from a back injury and a fractured pelvic bone.

Forum Offers Refund In Lieu Of Extra Lecture This Year

The Cumberland Community Forum committee announced yesterday, that it will make a cash refund to its patrons in lieu of the additional lecture scheduled on extra tickets for the 1946-47 series.

The Forum has taken this action, according to David Kauffman, president of the Junior Association of Commerce, sponsors of the series, with the belief that in view of the small attendance during the regular season an additional performance is inadvisable.

The refund will amount to $1, upon presentation of the extra ticket from the back of the season book. This ticket may be cashed at the Music Shop, South Centre Street, or at Room 514 Liberty Trust Building.

Any patron who has lost or mislaid his book, may apply for his refund, by giving name and address and the name of the ticket salesman.

No refunds will be made after Monday, May 19, when the Forum's books for the season will be closed.

Coroner's Inquest Slated Wednesday In Boy's Shooting

Child Runs Into Line Of Neighbor's Shot

A coroner's inqust will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at Somerset, Pa., in the death of a 9-year-old Somerset County boy who died almost instantly Saturday afternoon in the arms of the 19-year-old recently discharged infantryman who accidentally shot him, according to District Attorney Tmomas F. Lansberry, of Somerset County.

Lansberry said the child, George Stanley Swindell, son of Carl R. and Alice Mitchell Swindell, about five miles southwest of Somerset in Summit Township, ran into the line of fire while Edward Francis Firle, a neighbor who lived 300 yards away, was shooting at sparrows across a public highway in front of his home.

The bullet from a .22 caliber magazine type rifle struck the boy in the left arm near the wrist and entered the body slightly above the heart, following a downward, backward course and stopping beneath the right shoulderblade, Lansberry said.

Violation Of Law

He explained that shooting across a public highway is a violation of Pennsylvania law and added that when one person in the commission of an unlawful act kills another it technically becomes involuntary manslaughter.

However, no charges have been filed against Firle and Lansberry said he is awaiting the outcome of the inquest, to be held by Dr. A. H. Uphouse, Somerset County coroner, in the Somerset County Court House.

The Swindell child was returning home from an errand performed for his mother, the district attorney pointed out, when he was shot. Firle ran to the boy, picked him up and ran into his home to summon medical aid, but the boy died in Firle's arms on the way to the house, about 40 feet away, Lansberry stated. Dr. Grant Atwell, Meyersdale, Pa., pronounced the boy dead.

Firle had fired two or three shots at sparrows and had started ta pull the trigger again when he saw the boy for an instant, Lansberry reported, adding that Firle did not have presence of mind enough to drop the gun or stop pulling the trigger.

Were Good Friends

Firle and the boy were good friends, the two families were good friends and there was no "bad blood" between them, according to the prosecutor.

Firle, who served 13 months in the Army and was discharged last April 21, lives with his widowed mother and 13-year-old sister.

Besides his parents, the Swindell boy is survived by two brothers, William and Wayne Swindwell, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Annie Swindell.

A funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. today at the home of an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Johan Johansen, Silver Valley Road, with Rev. Gerald Polman, pastor of Main Street Brethren Church, officiating. Interment will be in the Garrett, Pa., cemetery.

Head Of Shriners Cancels Visit Here

The official visit to Ali Ghan Temple of the Shrine today by Imperial Potentate George H. Rowe, Buffalo, N. Y., has been cancelled, Leslie K. Spielman, Hagerstown, Ali Ghan potentate, said last night.

He said the cancellation of Rowe's visit is due to the press of business in connection with the national convention to be held in Atlantic City later this month.

Spielman said Rowe telegraphed him Friday that he would not be able to come to Cumberland.

Meanwhile, Ali Ghan Temple went ahead with plans to hold a dinner and dance at Ali Ghan Country Club tonight. A floor show also will be held.

The dinner, dance and floor show as well as other entertainment were arranged in honor of Rowe on his scheduled visit here.

Freed On $2,500 Bond In Circuit Court

A charge of murder was filed yesterday afternoon by the State's Attorney's office against 16-year-old Ethel Mae Bloss, Fort Hill High School junior, in the fatal shooting of her father, James D. Bloss, 56, a B. and O. blacksmith helper, at their North Branch home Saturday night.

Soon after being committed to the County Jail for action of the October grand jury by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., the pretty, young brunette, who confessed to the killing, appeared in Circuit Court where Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson ordered her released on bond of $2,500 following a hearing on her petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

Bond was posted at the County Jail about 8 p. m. by Earl D. Chaney, local transfer man and friend of the Bloss family.

Meanwhile, Ethel Mae said she intended to attend the funeral service for her father at 2 o'clock this afternoon and last night, following her release from custody, visited the Stein Funeral Home with other members of her family to view her father's body.

Will Return To School

She said she plans to return to her classes at Fort Hill High School the latter part of this week.

The warrant charging Ethel Mae with murdering her father was issued by Magistrate Bruce in Trial Magistrates Court on the oath of Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney. She was committed to the County Jail after standing by her confession.

Court attaches said she was calm and collected throughout the proceedings and returned a greeting to Magistrate Bruce when he spoke to her as she entered the court room.

Ethel Mae, attired in a pink dress, saddle shoes and white socks, came into Circuit Court with State Trooper Harry Holsinger near the close of a trial of a damage suit. Her mother and other relatives waited in the corridor until the hearing ended and then took seats in the court room. Mrs. Bloss and Ethel Mae with State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris.

The State's Attorney outlined briefly to the court the circumstances of the case, and said Ethel Mae's dislike for her father dated back for three years when she was 13. Her feeling was "very intense" and grew into "bitter hate," he said.

Profane And Vulgar

Harris termed Bloss a profane and vulgar man, even when he was not drinking.

Ethel Mae, her mother and sister, Mary Elizabeth, 11, and Bloss lived in the North Branch home, Harris related, and of the eight children of the marriage, only Ethel Mae and Mary Elizabeth were still at home.

On March 12, one of Ethel Mae's brothers, apparently grieving over his twin brother, a patient in Perry Point Veterans Hospital, killed himself, Harris said.

He added that there were strained relations between Mr. and Mrs. Bloss and said they had not been sleeping together.

The father was drinking three nights a week before his son commited suicide, the state's attorney said, and then drank every day.

Three years ago Ethel Mae was delivering milk to a neighbor when a man by the name of Crites accosted and assaulted her, Harris said, adding that Crites was sentenced in Circuit Court to a year in the House of Correction on the charge. (Crites was later identified as Walter Crites, of North Branch.)

Bloss accused Ethel Mae of encouraging the act and accused her and Mrs. Bloss of immoralities, the state's attorney told the court, stating that Ethel Mae's dislike for her father dates back for those three years. He said Ethel Mae denied any immoralities.

Because Bloss accused her, his drinking and general conduct, her feeling was very intense and grew into bitter hate, Harris stated.

On Saturday, hard feelings developed between Bloss and Mrs. Bloss over the theft of a tire of which he was accused, Harris said, and Bloss believed his wife knew something about it and was shielding a relative.

Bloss was drinking when he came home Saturday, ate supper and left, joining his brother, Frank, and two men named Twigg and they got some intoxicants, Harris related.

When Bloss returned home it was evident from his talk that he was intoxicated, the state's attorney asserted, and Mrs. Bloss and the two children locked the door downstairs and went upstairs.

He said that sometimes when Bloss was drunk he slept on the porch or in the barn, but on Saturday night he broke in the door, made some threats and then kicked in the upstairs bedroom door where Mrs. Bloss and the children had gone.

Bloss was going to throw a lamp

Decision Reached In Five Minutes

Deliberating less than five minutes, a Circuit Court jury yesterday afternoon awarded damages of $9,281.88 to Leroy Womer, Phillipsburg, Pa., in his suit against Wilbert C. Fresh, Cumberland, as a result of a collision last August 30 on McMullen Highway near Rawlings. Womer contended that his tractor-trailer truck was virtually demolished in the crash.

The action originally was filed by Womer against Chester L. Collins, trading as the Collins Garage, 125 South Mechanic Street; Fred Fresh, this city, and Wilbert Fresh, but Collins and Fred Fresh were dropped from the proceedings yesterday and the case continued against Wilbert Fresh.

Womer's truck was being operated by Donald Tatters, an employe, and was headed for Elkins, W. Va., from Pennsylvania when the accident occurred, witnesses said. Fresh, said to be operating a 1934 model service car owned by Collins, was accused of excessive speed and negligence.

Speed Termed Terrific

Morgan C. Harris who, with John M. Robb, represented Womer, told the jury that beer, speed and driving to the left of the center of the highway were factors in causing the accident. Harris declared that Fresh's speed "must have been terrific" and cited the extensive damage to Womer's vehicle.

Attorneys for Womer said Womer's tractor-trailer is not yet ready for operation, and pointed out that numerous delays in getting repair parts are the reason it has taken so long to repair the damaged vehicle. They said the repairs will cost $4,281.88.

They also pointed out that the delay in repairing the truck has caused Womer, who is engaged in coal hauling and other trucking business, a considerable loss in revenue. Womer asked $25 for each of 200 days to repay him for this loss.

In his defense, Fresh said he was blinded by the headlights of the tractor-trailer truck. Gorman E. Getty was his attorney. W. Earle Cobey represented Collins and Fred Fresh.

Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson presided at the trial and at its conclusion excused the jurors until Wednesday morning.

Seeks Daughter's Custody

Seeking to regain custody of her daughter, Mrs. Catherine Lambert, Midland, has filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus against her former husband, Ellsworth Gray, and his mother, Mrs. Annie Gray, also of Midland.

Edward J. Ryan, counsel for Mrs. Lambert, said the daughter, Nellie Ann Gray, 7, is now with her grandmother, Mrs. Gray, while Gray has left Midland and his present address is unknown. Gray was granted custody of the child during divorce proceedings some time ago and his wife has since remarried. She contends that she is able to provide a better home for the girl, and her former husband has left the state.

Asking an absolute divorce, Mrs. Anna May Jones, Karns Avenue, has filed suit against Thomas B. Jones, a city fireman.

Unauthorized Use Charges Filed Against Two West Virginians

Two West Virginia menfi State Police said were involved in an automobile accident near McCoole last Thursday night, will be given hearings on charges of unauthorized use of an automobile at 7 p. m. Thursday before Magistrate John A. Laughlin at Westernport, according to Cpl. C. A. Disney, of the State Police.

One of the men, Albert Hebb, Rowlesburg, W. Va., was arrested shortly after the accident and was committed to the County Jail by Magistrate Laughlin for 150 days in default of fines of $150 imposed on charges of drunken and reckless driving.

The other, identified as Ernie Dawson, Keyser, W. Va., wanted since the accident gave himself up yesterday to Keyser City Police and was brought to the Allegany County Jail last night by State Police.

Cpl. Disney said the car Hebb was driving and in which Dawson was riding, was taken without permission from Stanley Gerald Mayne, Keyser, but that the pair intended to take the machine back to the owner. Hebb said he used a knife to open a door of the car, Disney stated.

Police said last Thursday's accident occurred when Hebb, driving west on Route 220 at a high rate of speed, forced off the road near McCoole the Army car operated by Lt. George Gocke, of the Cumberland recruiting station. The Army car upset but Gocke escaped injury.

The car Hebb was driving continued on for several hundred yards and was abandoned, both men fleeing, Cpl. Disney said, but Hebb was arrested within a short time.
